which to use of the numerous forks and knives and spoons stacked beside your plate. Well, what was wrong about having such an amusing story to tell Peter that you simply forgot all about your food until you'd had time to see if Peter had picked up a small fork and dispensed with any sort of knife?"

For that, in my very young days, was the way I went about things. The times I dropped my napkin on the floor in order to play for time when in the cutlery combat!

It is always something of an ordeal when one dines or lunches with a man for the first time. You don't want to appear "gold-diggerish" and order strawberries in January and lobsters in July; on the other hand, a man who is a bit of a gourmet will find it very dull if you straight away plump for the table d'hôte.

The best plan is to inveigle him into giving you a "lead." Beg him, with that feminine helplessness a man still adores: "Please advise me; what are you going to have?"

Then, if he says something about the table d'hôte being pretty good, agree with him that it saves a lot of trouble just to go through the dinner arranged by the management.

On the other hand, if he suggests starting off with a few oysters or caviare, you know you can choose regardless of expense. Caviare is a stumbling block to many. You eat it as you'd eat toast and jam—spread it on with a small knife.

Another embarrassing moment is often caused by the presentation of the bill. (I have yet to meet the man who doesn't look horribly uncomfortable while he fumbles for money). But why not choose this moment for the retreat to the cloak-room to powder your nose? So many men are still put off to see you do this at the table.

Your Lead

When it is your turn to play hostess outside the home to a girl friend, it is up to you to give the "lead." Tell her, as soon as you sit down, "The beef is pretty good here"; so that, even if she doesn't care for beef, she can select something costing about the same price.

If she happens to be one of those people who enjoy wading through the soup, fish, entree and sweets of a table d'hôte, don't spoil her fun by saying, "I never like more than one dish," even if you choose something which costs the same price or more. There are few things more embarrassing to a guest than to be still eating long after the hostess has lighted her cigarette.

Another thing—never be ashamed of your own hospitality. So long as you are offering the best you can manage, don't let it worry you that your friend was able to take you to a much smarter restaurant than you can afford.

There are so many little courtesies one can bestow on a guest which all the money in the world can't buy. For instance, remember that she likes her coffee very strong, and get to the restaurant a little before the appointed time in order to book a good table.

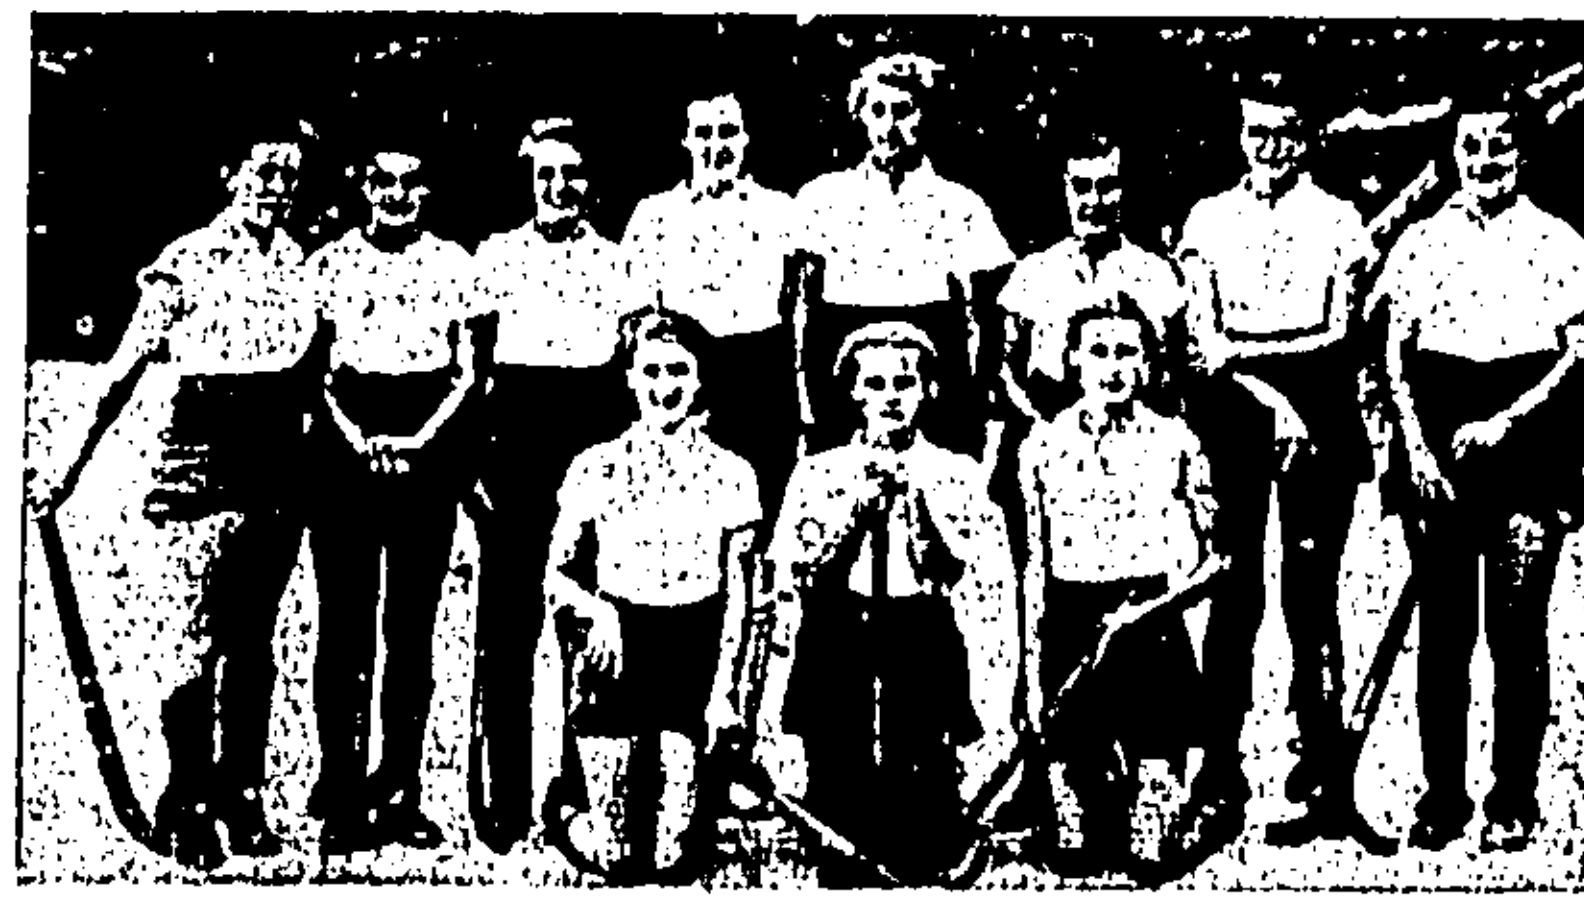

On the other hand, accept her more lavish hospitality with gracious gratitude, and don't make her thoroughly uncomfortable by protesting: "I can't afford to ask you to this sort of swanky restaurant."

And, lastly, don't ever forget to say "Thanks a lot!" to a host or hostess, as though you really meant it.

Restaurant manners, you see, like all other manners, are only a form of kindness, so now you have learnt the few little points of etiquette that may have been troubling you, you can really go out and about and enjoy yourself!

FASHION'S FOIBLES

In 1391, Isabella of Bavaria, wife of Charles VI of France, sent life-size dolls dressed in the latest French fashions as a gift to the Queen of England. This became an annual custom so strong that not even war could break it. For, when France and England were at war and the English ports were closed, a huge alabaster doll, "Grand Courier de la Mode," was granted a pass by the Court of St. James to cross the Channel in safety.

Mainly about WOMEN

Careers For Women At Sea

WOMEN are always interested to hear of new careers for themselves and their sisters — there are not so many to date after all. The recent voyage of Russia's first girl sea-captain has fired the imaginations of sea-loving girls all over the world. Though it is not yet possible for English women to command ships, there are many jobs open to-day to girls with enterprise and love of travel. Not only the career of stewardess. With the development of such ships as the Queen Mary and the Normandie many new tasks have been created.

Imagine the scene in the banking department of a trans-Atlantic liner, for in this recently developed branch of ocean life the city typist has a chance to earn her £15 a month.

"I've been at this job for two years now, and I wouldn't go back to the city for anything," one young typist says. "Except for the throb of the far away engines, it might be an office in the heart of London. Of course you can hardly call it a 'steady' job, but I'm a good sailor, so I don't mind. Lunch hours are the best. Sandwiches on the windswept deck and a tramp on the weather side."

Her work is seldom monotonous, for at sea even hard-headed business men do strange things with their money. Small deals assume fantastic proportions to the usually cautious, who have been known to cable away a fortune over a drink in mid-Atlantic. Cheques cashed for £5,000 disappear overnight. But the ocean-going shorthand typist gets good food, a comfortable cabin, and brief spells of leave every six days.

Shop Assistants

PERHAPS the most lucrative job of all is that of shop assistant on a trans-Atlantic liner, for she receives £10 a month salary and commission on all articles sold. On board liners plying between England and America there are jewellers, dress and trinket shops selling the luxuries of life at the top prices, for that sensationally speedy factor, shipboard friendship, demands and pays for the richest and best.

It is this that makes money for the girl behind the ship's counter. Before the depression, when genuine millionaires were common, it was possible for shop girls to retire from business with a comfortable little income after a few months voyaging.

Mannequins were employed on board the Normandie during her maiden voyage, representing many of the famous Paris dress-makers. Picture the brilliant scene on a fine night at sea, the lights of the hurrying liner dancing on the ruffled water as the gay crowd on board revolve to the rhythmic music. The mannequins stroll with all the accustomed grace, their clothes the envy of every woman on board, resulting in big orders for the dressmakers concerned. Mannequins are paid a definite salary by the firms employing them, and receive commission on the dresses they sell.

Hairdressers and manicurists are employed on board most large liners, and here there is a wide scope for intelligent girls who have sea-travel in their blood. Usually they are taken on by a well-known hairdressing firm and receive wages starting from £2/10 a week.

The Nursery Hostess

OCEAN liners, large and small, carry a ship's doctor and most of them employ a qualified nurse, who frequently acts as dispenser. She usually has a roomy cabin near the surgery and takes her meals in the first-class saloon. On board the Normandie there is a new opening for the job of qualified nurse.

The newest job of all at sea is that of nursery hostess. It is no easy task looking after two or three hundred children of all ages, who are particularly obstreperous on board. One of the most responsible jobs on the ship, it requires infinite patience, tact, and resource. The nursery hostess ranks as a ship's officer and her pay is £12 a month.

With the development of the world cruise, girls trained in dancing can find a job as dance hostess. This job is, of course, a social one, and on her personality, charm and efficiency the success of a cruise often depends. In the morning she gives lessons, and in the evening she may be called upon for exhibition dancing. She can usually reckon to return from a five months' cruise with about £26 in hand.

Interesting comparative figures show how largely women are being employed at sea to-day. The Empress of Britain employs 30 women on the trans-Atlantic run and 45 on the world cruise. The Normandie carries a permanent staff of 32 women who are employed at a dozen different types of job. On board the new P. and O. liner Strathmore, 12 women are employed. In the last 15 years the number of women who work at sea has increased by 35 per cent., and this percentage will almost certainly rise rapidly in the near future.

"Ovaltine" is nice!
I'm glad it's good for me"

THE delicious flavour of 'Ovaltine' makes it a great favourite with children. And that is fortunate—for 'Ovaltine' supplies, in abundant measure, the additional nourishment which children need to make good the energy they spend so prodigally all day long.

'Ovaltine' is prepared from the highest qualities of malt extract, creamy milk and new-laid eggs.

But remember, it must be 'Ovaltine.' Unlike imitations, 'Ovaltine' does not contain household sugar to give it bulk and to cheapen the cost, nor does it contain a large percentage of cocoa.—Reject substitutes.

FIVE FAMOUS CRIMES

RECALLED BY FORMER SCOTLAND YARD CHIEF

These five stories are told by Sir Basil Thomson, celebrated war time head of Scotland Yard. Each of the five crimes described in this series stood out prominently in its day. Indeed, each remains alive in England's crime annals even now because of certain legal or factual precedents or unusually intriguing circumstances.

III

The Salt Hill Murder

By SIR BASIL THOMSON

THE murder that was committed at Salt Hill, near Slough, on January 2, 1845, created a deep sensation at the time, because the murderer, John Tawell, was a Quaker, a married man of comfortable means who had formerly been a chemist; but to the historian of Scotland Yard it is of interest as having been the first, or almost the first, criminal case in which that new marvel, the electric telegraph, was used by the police.

Just as in the Crippen case, in which wireless telegraphy was used for the first time, almost every scientific discovery has been turned to account by detective science—photography, electro-block printing, X-rays, microscopy, telephony, telegraphy, and wireless, without counting the ingenious apparatus used for the detecting of forgeries and tampering with documents.

The details of the crime were squalid enough. John Tawell had had relations with his former servant, Mrs. Sarah Hart, who lived with her children near Slough. One of her neighbours, hearing stifled groans coming from her cottage, went to see what was the matter, and met Tawell coming down the garden path, agitated and trembling. She found the woman lying on the floor, apparently dying. On the table were glasses and a bottle, but an examination of these showed no traces of poison. Nevertheless an analysis of the contents of the stomach showed the presence of prussic acid.

As the prisoner's behaviour appeared suspicious, the "person" who conducts the electric telegraph was informed and "a signal was made to the station in London," with the result that when Tawell, who was known to be making for the city, arrived at Paddington he was met by a policeman "with a plain coat over his police dress," who kept him under observation on the omnibus as far as the house of a Quaker who lived near Cannon Street.

Professor S. F. B. Morse's invention, the telegraph, was used in 1845 for the first time to arrest a murderer.

He took no action that day, but on the morrow, no further news coming from Slough, he took another officer to the house and arrested Tawell, bringing him back to Slough and handing him over to the superintendent of the Eton police. The prisoner affected to discuss the matter fully with Superintendent Perkins, explaining that Mrs. Hart had herself taken the poison. "She was a very good servant, but a very bad woman," he said. He declared that she poured something from a phial into her stout and then lay down on the rug; he then left her.

It was proved that the prisoner had bought two drams of prussic acid "for an external injury." His statement was inconsistent. He said that Mrs. Hart had poured something from a phial into her glass, but no trace of the poison was found in any of the vessels examined, nor was there any trace of poison in two phials found in the cupboard.

The prisoner's defence was that though he had in early life offended against the moral laws, he had since atoned for his lapse from virtue by a life of industry and kindness. There were long technical arguments on the poison. One suggestion was that the neighbour who had come in and administered water to the dying woman had caused her to choke.

After a three days' trial the jury found the prisoner guilty. He was executed at Aylesbury. His respectability, his profession, and his firm and unshrinking bearing both before and after conviction aroused intense interest in him, and a reprieve had been generally expected. Before his execution he wrote a full confession. He was hanged in his Quaker's dress.

ODD CHURCH DESIGN

Our photograph shows a designer's sketch of a new plan for a church. The giant figure of Christ at Gethsemane would be made of copper, and at night special floodlights would provide a halo and illuminate the entire structure.

PATENTS have been issued for an odd architectural design for churches. The plan calls for a giant figure of Christ, to be constructed of burnished copper, which would dominate the church building made of cement in natural stone colour. The design has Christ seated on a rock at Gethsemane, with the church entrance in the rock, beneath the flowing robes of the figure. A halo for the figure and illumination for the entire structure would be provided by a system of floodlights.

GOLFER SIGHTS GREEN WITH THIRTY-FOOT PERISCOPE

Before teeing off for a 165-yard hole on a golf course in Wales the player must look through a 30-foot periscope to see whether the players ahead are still on the green, obscured by high sandhills. On the right is a close-up picture of the view-finder.

WHEN hazards are mountain-high, a golfer really needs a periscope. There is one hole on the Aberdovey course in North Wales where the green, only 165 yards away, is quite out of sight and it's not safe to drive until you have peeked in the periscope to learn whether the foursome ahead has putted down and moved out of the way. The periscope is thirty feet high. Sand hills form the natural hazard that obscures the view from the tee.

About TOWN

IT is safe to say that everybody in Hong Kong who ever watches any form of sport either has seen or will see during the coming week the great tennis champions, and it is to be hoped that they have been, and will be, well satisfied with the result. At any rate the support that they received is the best that Hong Kong can do. For ourselves there is no doubt that it is an excellent thing to see how the strokes ought to be played. That is really the chief interest of a professional exhibition. The result as shown by the score is not what draws the crowd.

I had the pleasure of seeing "Big Bill" defeat the Australian champion, Norman Brookes, at Wimbledon, and thereby establish his pre-eminence. The famous "Centre Court" was of course very inconveniently crammed, but the game was well worth some discomfort. Brookes won the toss and had first service. He started off with four double faults! It was said afterwards that the old system of playing out the tournament and then calling upon the existing champion to defend his title was really to his disadvantage, because he came to the big match short of training. Quite probably this was correct, and in any case there is no reason for making a difference between the former champion and anyone else, whether it is in his favour or not. The system of "seeding" was an excellent compromise. It gave all the entrants a chance of adequate practice, and avoided a dull finish caused by champions having knocked each other out in the early stages.

A Grim Struggle

BROOKES soon pulled himself together, and although the figures of the score have escaped my memory, it was a grim struggle that we saw. From the gladiatorial point of view all such contests work up to a climax — probably somewhere near the middle of the match, when one feels that both players are "all out" to win a crucial game, regardless of the amount of energy it may cost. Like a good tragedy, which simmers down in the fourth act, so as to allow the audience to depart in a complacent frame of mind, one has passed the climax of excitement a good deal before the end, which arrives with the inevitability of fate. In that particular match the climax as I remember it was a game in which Tilden, after sending down three services that shot along the ground like shots from a gun, advanced to the net on his fourth service to secure the point and match. Years do make a difference, and it would not be reasonable to expect him to do that sort of thing now—particularly against a partner with whom he is touring the world.

The hockey teams of Headquarter Wing and "A" (S) Company of the 1st Bn. Royal Ulster Rifles photographed after their recent Mamak Tournament match at Sookunpoo. (K. Fujiyama).

Play To The Gallery

EVIDENTLY Tilden is the showman of the combination, but a joke on the match court is very like a joke from the judicial bench. Laughter in Court may be taken for granted; though afterwards one wonders what it was about. Anyway it can hardly be expected that the spectators will not imitate the example, and the result is not to increase the "concentration" which the referee told us was so essential. The record breakdown of Perry in his match with Donald Budge indicates what is likely to happen. Talking about Perry, by the way, Tilden's remarks in his Press interview are not very convincing. Possibly after a long spell of strenuous matches Perry was a bit off colour at the end of the season, but it can only be a matter of personal opinion whether or not he would have won at Wimbledon if the championship had been an "open" event like the golf championship. Most probably he would have won last year, even if this year was doubtful. The remark sounded like a bit of clever publicity in view of a coming match. If it be granted that Wimbledon is sacred to the amateur there does not seem to be any reason why there should not be an open championship as well, to give the professionals an opportunity of measuring themselves against youth and enthusiasm.

American Visitors

THE signs that Hong Kong is emerging into the limelight are unmistakable. Four Admirals here all at once is a most unusual coincidence, probably unprecedented. And as an augury of coming prominence the "look-see" appearances of newspaper magnates is even more encouraging. Peaceful va et vient is what we want, and even the plans for a bigger garrison are only a second best to the present position of being secure from any war at all. It appears however that the chance of continuing the clause of the Washington Treaty that secured us from the fortification of any base near enough to threaten us must be considered to have gone "into the discard." This, of course, means that the Philippines also will have a new naval base. Independence notwithstanding the United States could hardly sit still and see some foreign Power walk in as the American Army walked out. The American policy is quite consistent, and amounts to saying to Japan: "If you will not agree to limit your fleet you must take all the consequences." The Japanese show of indifference was purely diplomatic. Naval bases cost a lot of money, and the enormous military borrowings cannot go on much longer. Incidentally, could not our American visitors show us a football match under their own rules so that we could understand the peculiar manoeuvres of men we see rushing unintelligibly about in the newsreels? —COMMENTATOR.

A DOZEN REASONS

There are a dozen reasons why Norvic and Sir Herbert Barker Shoes are the choice of modern men who look before they buy. We will confine ourselves to one . . . But that one reason seems to sum up all others. From the first moment they show themselves the friends of your feet: to the last day of a long and honourable service, their fidelity and reliability will remain.

Sports Chatter

I HEAR from a very reliable source that the majority of the South China "A" footballers, including Lee Tin-sang, Wong Mei-shun, Tso Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheong and Ip Pak-wa, are retiring from local soccer after this present season to make way for newcomers from South China "B." This is a move which is not unexpected in view of the very strenuous soccer programme these players have gone through within the last two years.

Promising Soccer Player
ONE of the most promising players in the South China "B" team is Chan Tak-fai, their centre-forward. Very fast, with good ball control, he keeps his forwards together in perfect style.

W. C. HUNG, the Kowloon Cricket Club all-round cricketer, states that he is contemplating giving up the game owing to the fact that he can find little or no time for nets during week days.

Not Playing Just Yet
MISS Violet Bradbury, who returned to the Colony almost a fortnight ago, will not play hockey just yet for the "Y" Ladies, but it is more than probable that she will captain the second team once again when she does.

Basketball At "Y" Again?
THE Gymnastic Class at the European Y.M.C.A. is just about to commence now that the cool weather has set in and should be in full swing by the end of the current month. There is also a definite possibility that the European Y.M.C.A. basketball team, which played here in the local League some years ago, will be revived.

Promising Rugby Forward
ONE of the most improved junior Rugby players in the Colony is B. Hynes, younger brother of Desmond Hynes, who has shone conspicuously in Club "A" fifteen games recently. Possessing an unbounded amount of stamina and energy, he is always to the fore in the loose, and it will not be very long before he finds a place in the first fifteen, providing he is taken in hand immediately.

C.R.C. MIXED DOUBLES HOPES
THERE is a possibility that Mrs. K. W. Chaun, sister of Mrs. Enid Le-Liton, will play tennis more often for the Chinese Recreation Club next summer. Mrs. Chaun is left-handed and ought to be a definite acquisition to their mixed doubles team.

By Judge

THOUGH boxing was one of the main attractions at the V.R.C. in former years, this form of sport had been sadly neglected for the past ten years or so. Followers of the Noble Art, however, will be glad to learn that interest has again been revived and that members of the Club are now only awaiting the arrival of new gear before taking to it once more. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the Amateur Boxing Championships, formerly held under the auspices of the Club, will again be a major item on their programme this winter.

Lt. Rice-Evans Due In January
LEUT. J. A. M. Rice-Evans, the Welsh Rugby International and former captain of the Army first fifteen in the Colony, is expected to return to Hong Kong on January 2, and not sooner as was previously stated in these columns.

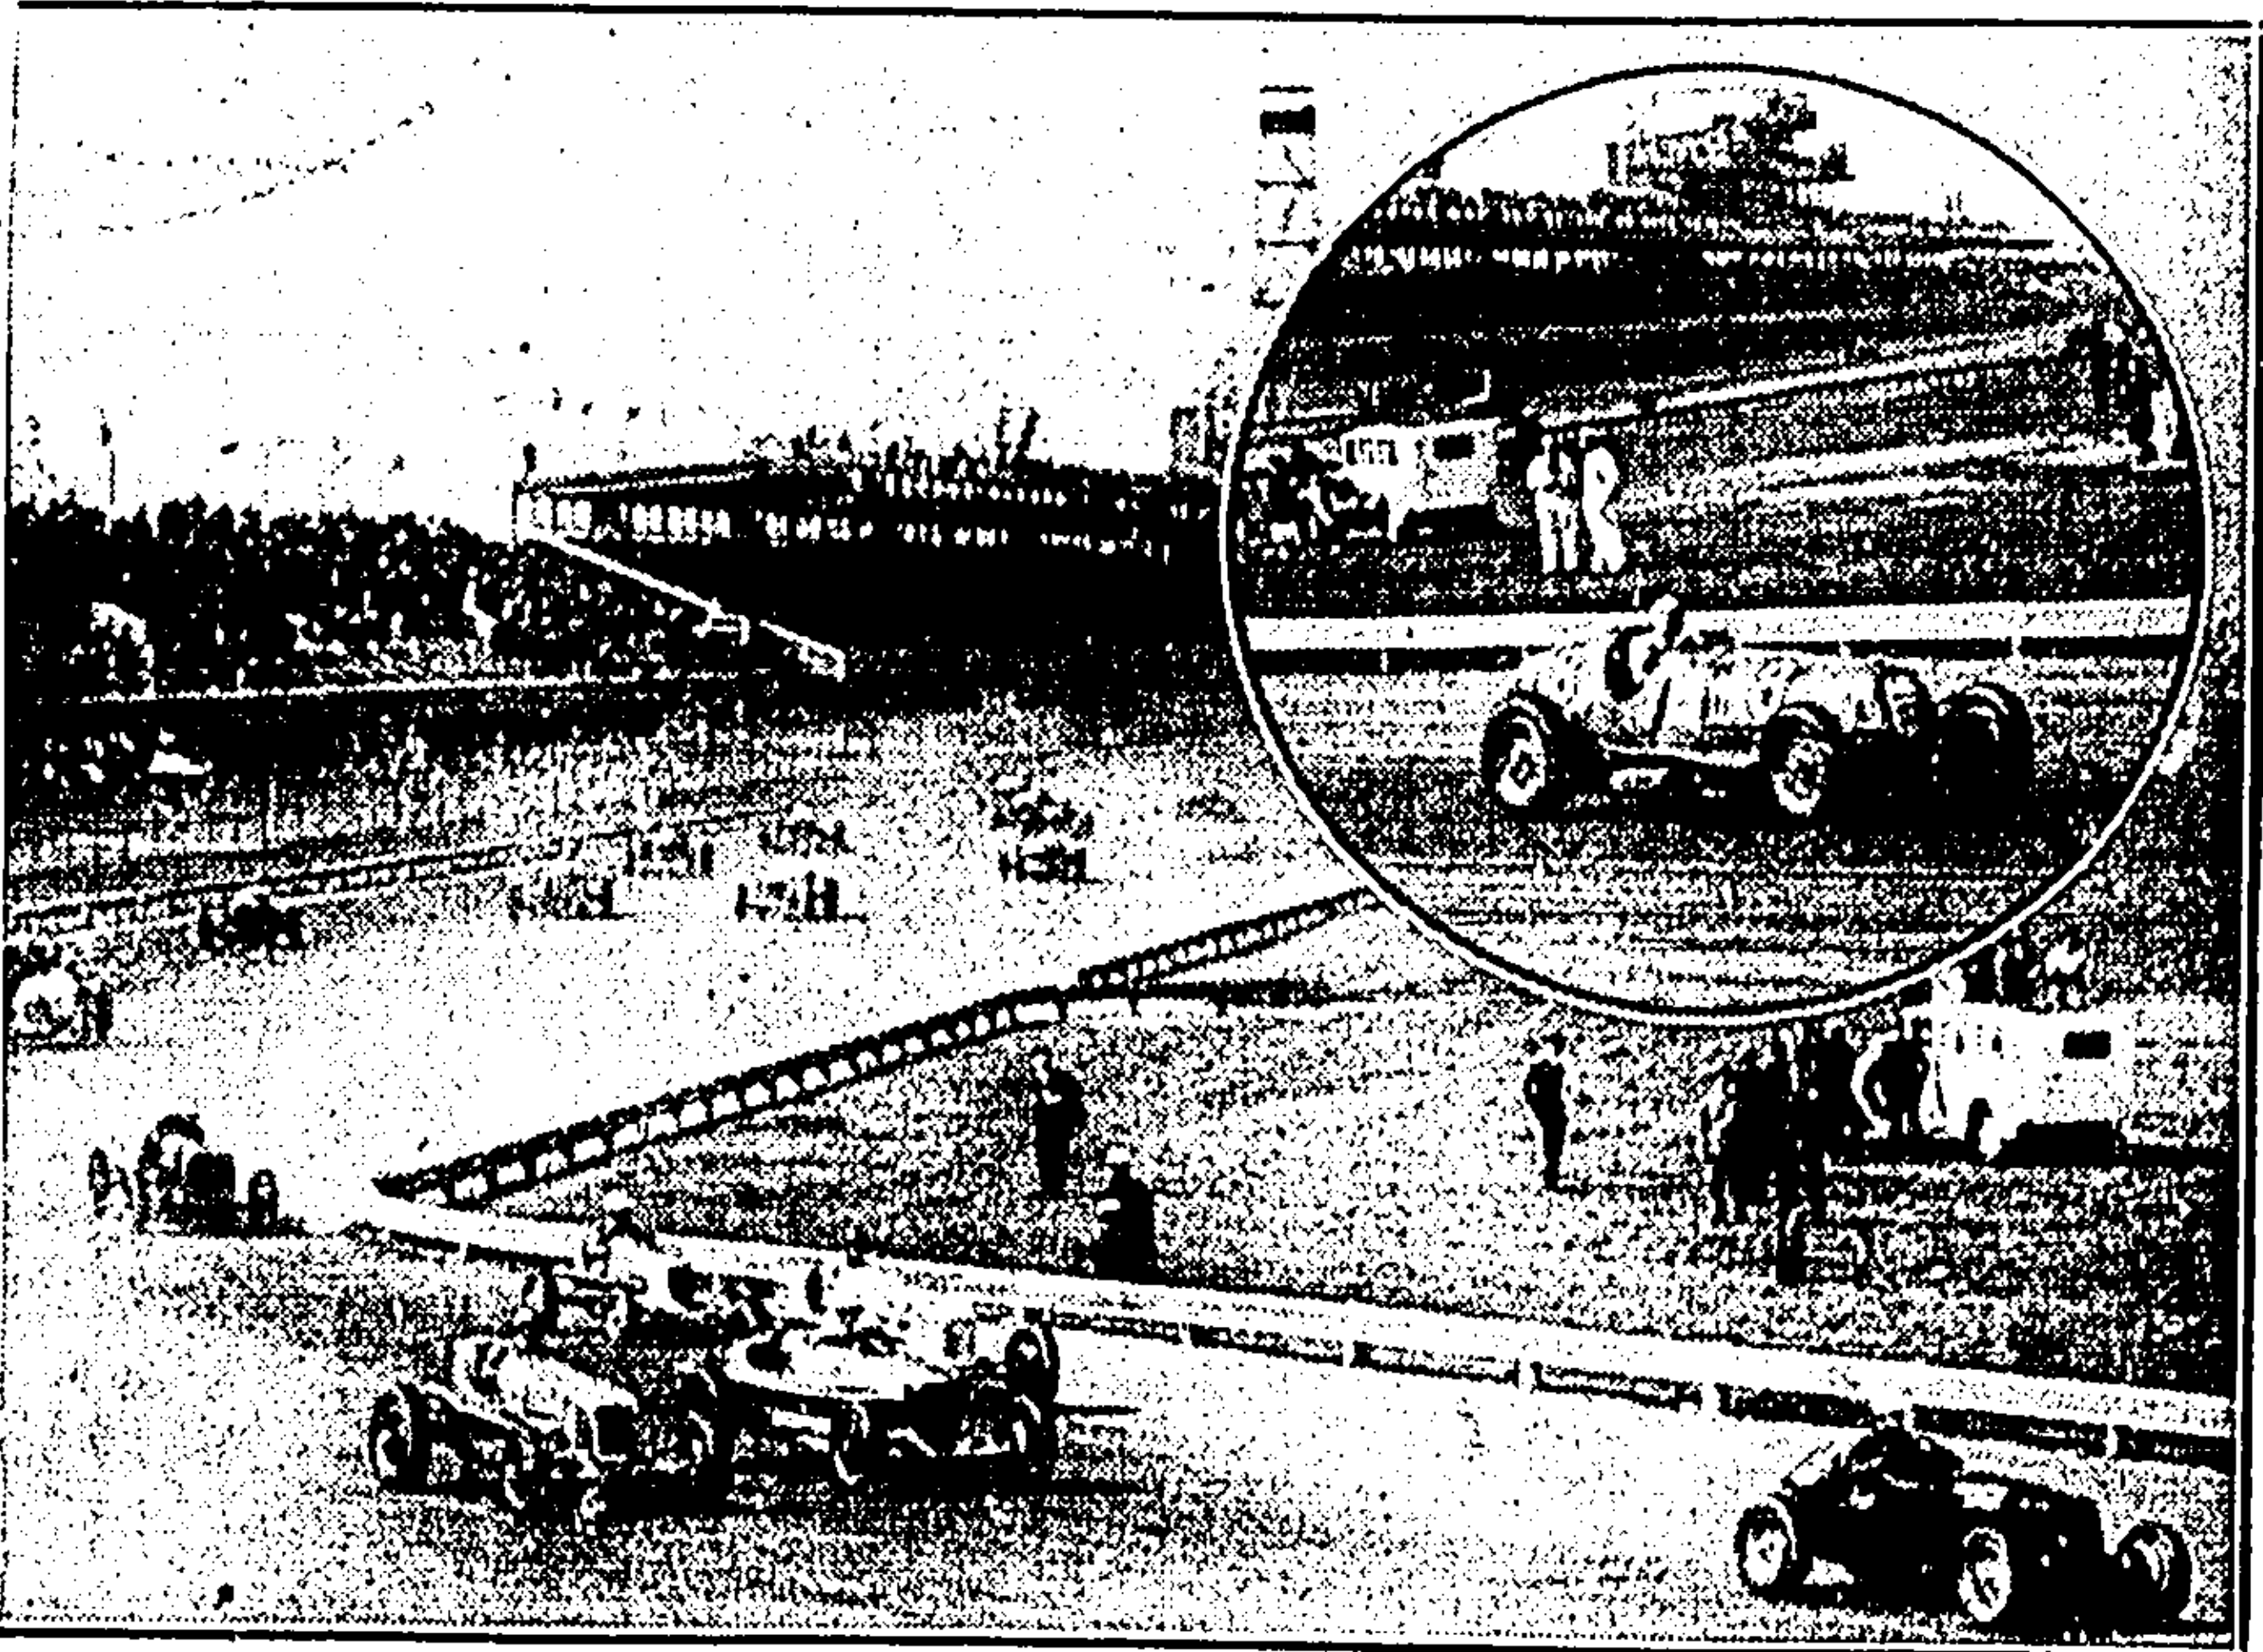

"Y" Billiards Championship
THE European Y.M.C.A. Billiards Championship Draw has been made and eight players will play for the Challenge trophy which is at present held by J. Ponsford.

Winter Aquatic Galas
I learn that now that the cross-harbour swim held under the auspices of the V.R.C. has been held, the majority of their swimmers of both sexes have gone into winter training, and there is every reason to believe that friendly swimming meetings between the Mak Ngah Association, of Canton, who are most anxious to swim in the "Y" pool again, the Chinese Y.M.C.A., the V.R.C. and the European Y.M.C.A., whose complement will be augmented towards the end of this month by the return of G. H. Fowler, one of their best all-rounders, and R. B. "Reggie" Wood, one of their best sprinters, will be possible.

Fencing Enthusiast
J. D. REMEDIOS, who recently won the billiards championship of the Victoria Recreation Club, is now spending most of his leisure hours in the gymnasium, learning the art of fencing. He is picking up this pastime very rapidly and is regarded as one of the most promising "pupils" in the club.

Tazio Nuvolari, famous Italian racing driver, won himself a few thousands of dollars as well as this beautiful cup when he led a field of 45 daredevils across the line in the renewal of the Vanderbilt Cup classic on the Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, Long Island, last month.

In the inset at the upper right is the Italian ace, Tazio Nuvolari, in action in the new Vanderbilt Cup race at Roosevelt Raceway, Westbury, Long Island, last month. Nuvolari, pick of the foreign drivers in the race, started as a hot favourite and set such a sizzling pace that he won. Known as "the man who has a contract with the devil" the Italian roared the 300 miles on the pretzel-like course in the amazing time of 4 hours, 32 minutes 44.04 seconds for an average of 65.998 miles an hour and as a consequence took the lion's share of the $80,000 prizes offered.

THERE are several players in the Chinese Police team who are well up to First Division standard, and a team representative of the Force should be able to hold its own against most teams in the League. Among these players are Ip Lai-kee and Cheung Wing-kam.

BAD LUCK ON POLICE

IT is practically certain that Johnston, the Police centre-forward, will not be seen on the football field this season as he is suffering from athletic heart and has been advised to refrain from all sports for a time.

Another Setback

THE Police football team will be sustaining another loss early next year as G. Moss will be going on leave in January, and, with the present dearth of inside forwards, his position will be hard to fill.

Loss To "Y" Swimming

Ihear that H. G. "Bert" Lange, captain of swimming at the European Y.M.C.A. at the moment, will be leaving for Germany next year. His loss will be a serious one to the Swimming Section.

Y.M.C.A. Billiards Tourney

THE following is the draw for the European Y.M.C.A. billiards championship, which will probably commence this week:
First Round:—

R. Goldman v W. J. Ashton,
J. Fruen v T. Paton.

Second Round:—

J. R. Luke v A. W. Ingram,
S. A. Gray v J. Ponsford,
L. Hickman v J. Young.

V.R.C. Badminton Tourney

THE badminton court at the Victoria Recreation Club is now used practically every day, and most of the evenings as well, and the members have shown so much keenness that the committee has decided to run a double tournament in the very near future.

Ju-Jitsu Exponent

LEO SILVA, one of the most promising breast-stroke swimmers at the Victoria Recreation Club, is now playing the role of instructor of ju-jitsu to a certain section of the members of the Club. He picked up the Japanese art of self-defence when he was in Japan some years ago and is regarded to be quite an expert at it.

Sunday Cricket League

THE Sunday Cricket League at the Indian Recreation Club commenced last week when the "Diehards" took on the "Bhorns." The idea this year is to give as many non-League players as possible a chance of playing in matches. The Ellis Kadoorie School for Indians have entered a side, but they will have the assistance of A. Bakar and F. M. el Arculli.

Snooker Tourney At V.R.C.

NOW that their billiards tournament has been decided, the authorities at the Victoria Recreation Club are turning their attention to snooker, it being understood that a tournament, confined to members, will be held shortly.

Warning To F.A.

THE local football season is barely two months old, but a number of games have already been postponed, and unless some endeavour is made to have these games played soon there is no doubt that the same disastrous state of affairs as in past seasons will again occur and the season drag into the end of May.

Chinese Dinner As Prize

IN the recent intra-club badminton tournament at Club de Recreio M. A. Oliveira's team beat L. A. Carvalho's team, who were consequently hosts at the Chinese dinner at stake.

V.R.C. To Play At Talkoo?

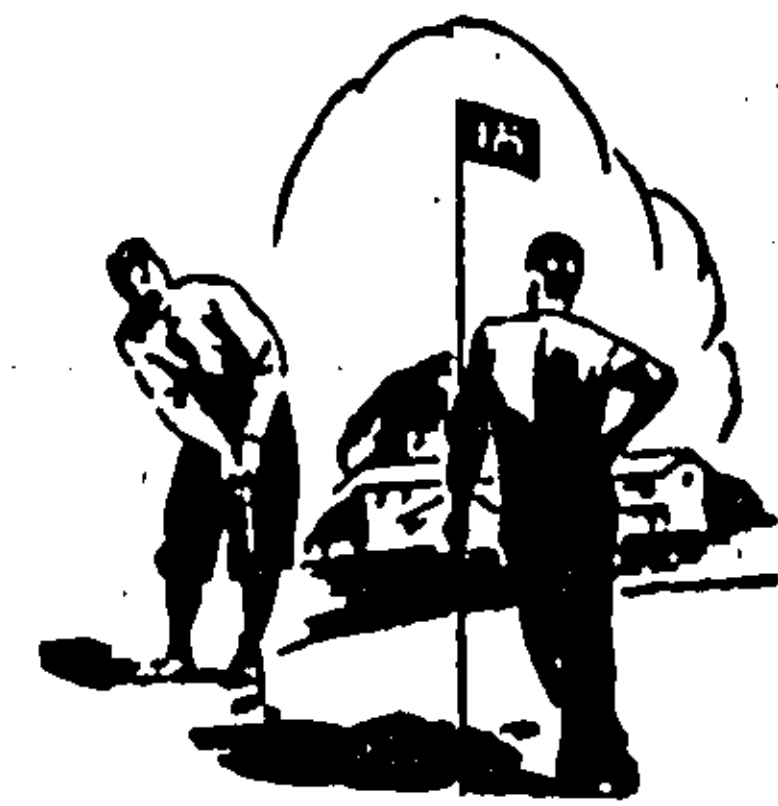

AS the Talkoo Recreation Club are not entering the Badminton League this season, the Victoria Recreation Club, having no suitable court of their own, will probably play all their League fixtures there.

AN inter-club snooker match was played recently between the Victoria Recreation Club (J. D. Remedios, L. V. Antonio, A. A. Noronha, J. A. Guterres, Ed. da Roza and C. F. Ribeiro) and the Club Lusitano (Dick Noronha, G. P. Remedios, E. A. Remedios, J. C. Remedios, C. Xavier and V. M. Barradas). Each side won three matches, but the Lusitano scored more points, while the prize for the highest break (for the visitors) was won by L. V. Antonio.

FLEMING TO BE RESTED

FLEMING, the Club inside-right, is suffering from an injured ankle and will not be playing for some time. I understand that the committee are giving him a good rest in preparation for the Shield contest at the end of the month.

These three emulsions faithfully reproduce the true colourvalues and differ essentially only in grain and speed. This difference must be made and different filmkinds are absolutely necessary considering the abundance of photographic problems which are tackled to-day, as a matter of course, by all amateurs, specialists and beginners, with the most varied systems and sizes of apparatus.

The desire of all serious amateurs for "recte-panchromatic" emulsions was first realised by the firm Perutz with the introduction of the filmkinds "Rectepan", "Peromnia" and "Perpantic".

Pasteurized Milk
Supplies

TWO UNCONFIRMED DEATHS REPORTED

In view of the grave concern felt among the general public at the dysentery epidemic now sweeping Hong Kong, the far-sighted decision taken by the Dairy Farm Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., to which special reference is drawn in our advertisement columns, will be welcomed. The company state that from to-day and until further notice all milk and cream supplied by them will be pasteurized. It is further stated that the medical authorities are satisfied that pasteurized milk can be taken with impunity, and thoroughly approve of this precautionary measure.

This step reflects great credit on the public spirit of the company, who show themselves determined to do all they can — and it is a great deal — to combat the infection of this dread disease. The pasteurization of the company's milk and cream supplies will no doubt involve them in considerable expense, but the prices of these safe brands will remain the same. The company deserves every credit for the important step they have taken in the matter.

TWO MORE DEATHS?

Enquiries made from Dr. G. W. Pope, Medical Officer of Health, at a late hour last night, revealed the information that two more deaths from dysentery had occurred in the early hours of yesterday morning, one of them stated to have taken place at the War Memorial Nursing Home and the other in the Kowloon Hospital.

Neither the Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, nor Dr. Pope, however, were able to let us "have the names offhand," though Dr. Pope stated that the two victims were very young European children.

Dr. L. Pringle, Medical Officer on duty at the Kowloon Hospital last night, stated that in the early hours of yesterday a European girl was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital suffering from a mild attack of dysentery. Apart from this he knew of no fresh cases during the day.

Enquiries at the War Memorial Nursing Home regarding the name of the child reported to have died there proved fruitless.

Dr. Pope told the Sunday Herald that he had learned that one of the children who died was the child of an unfortunate Naval Officer who has another child in hospital, also suffering from dysentery. Dr. Pope also told us that, according to information given him, one case of dysentery had

ALLEGED BOMBING BY FOREIGN PLANES OF CHINESE LINES

[From A Special Correspondent]

Canton, Yesterday. During the seventh meeting of the Sino-Japanese negotiations on Tuesday last, M. Chang Chun, the Chinese Foreign Minister, protested strongly to Mr. S. Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador to China, against the immediate military activities of the Manchuria-Mongolian bandits backed up by the Japanese authorities, on the frontiers of Chahar and Suiyuan Provinces; but instead of stopping this military movement, it is probable that the Japanese troops may direct the invasion of Suiyuan themselves.

News which reached here this morning reported that the tension has been greatly increased in Suiyuan. Large quantities of foodstuffs and ammunition have been transported by motor-trucks to Shangtu (East of Suiyuan) and Paklingmao (North of Suiyuan) from Jehol Province during the last two days, and large companies of Japanese troops have already been despatched to those two places. The Japanese Military Investigation Corps can be found in such important places as Kalgan in Chahar, Pautau and Kwetsui (the capital) in Suiyuan, and the Ninghia Province, though the Chinese Government has definitely notified the foreign Ambassadors and Ministers that foreign residents are advised to evacuate for safety from Inner Mongolia, Suiyuan, Ninghia and Ko-konor, places which have been declared a bandit-suppression area.

MISSIONARIES REPORTED
CAPTURED BY BANDITS

Peiping, Yesterday.

It is learned in Tientsin that the American Consulate has communicated by letter with all Americans in Suiyuan and Ninghsia, transmitting the substance of the Chinese request for their evacuation. It is suggested that if the situation grows critical and they consider themselves to be in jeopardy they should seek places of safety.

It is understood that the American Consular authorities are leaving for Kalgan from Tientsin to-day, and may also go beyond that point.

An unconfirmed report says that Mr. and Mrs. Wiens, American missionaries, have been captured by bandits at Chotgeshan, to the east of Kueihua. The American authorities are at present without information on the matter.—Reuter.

It is also reported that early yesterday morning there was severe fighting between the Government troops and the Manchuria-Mongolian bandits in Tulin, a city on the eastern frontier of Suiyuan, and that the bandits were escorted by foreign planes and tanks. At 9 a.m. three foreign planes were seen to fly over Pingti-chuan, an important city in the extreme east of Suiyuan where General Fu Chai-ye, the Chairman of the Province, was directing the resistance, and several bombs were dropped.

It is stated in well-informed circles that the bandits have changed the direction of their invasion. They are now coming to invade Pingti-chuan and Taitung. (Continued on Page 22)

SOVIET STRENGTHENING WESTERN FRONTIER PREPARATIONS FOR REPULSE OF POSSIBLE GERMAN AGGRESSION

London, Yesterday.—The Riga correspondent of the "Morning Post" states that M. Voroshiloff, the Soviet Commissary for War, is accelerating his reinforcement of the garrison on the Western frontier.

Five trainloads of munitions have left Leningrad and Moscow for the Soviet Ukraine this week, and 50,000 workers are working night and day building strategic roads in the Western frontier zone.

A thousand war-planes will be stationed permanently on the Western frontier in the neighbourhood of Poland and Czechoslovakia from December 1, by which date the Soviet preparations for the repulse of possible German aggression will be completed.—Reuter

FIRST SEA LORD'S ANALYSIS

London, Yesterday. Referring last night in a broadcast speech on sea power to the bomb versus battleship controversy, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Samuel Hoare, said that great progress had been made in the defence of ships. Their armour had been made stronger, their range of operation greater and their power of attack strengthened by their own use of the new air arm. It was these reasons that had made the Cabinet Committee affirm once again the principle of sea power and conclude that while a new problem had undoubtedly been created and priority could never be reached in the struggle between attack and defence, there was no reason to (Continued on Page 19.)

Chancellor Hitler has denounced the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles regarding the internationalisation of rivers. The decision was communicated to the Governments concerned to-day.

THREE MACHINES BROUGHT DOWN IN FLAMES

Madrid, Yesterday.

Reuter's special correspondent with the insurgents cables that the Government offensive south and south-west of Madrid has led to the fiercest fighting so far witnessed, but the military positions were not altered last evening.

No fewer than 50 aeroplanes participated in one of two violent air-battles in the daytime.

The Government was able to put a number of entirely new machines in the air which are faster than anything the insurgents have. Three machines were seen to have been brought down in flames over Madrid.

GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF MADRID'S
COUNTER-OFFENSIVE

Madrid, Yesterday.

A graphic account of Madrid's counter-offensive yesterday is given by Reuter's special correspondent with the insurgents, cabling from Campanario.

He says that the fighting was the fiercest yet seen in the civil war. There were desperate sallies and bayonet-charges all day long, and machine-guns almost incessantly spat fire at each other across the No Man's Land. The Government artillery poured barrages of shrapnel at the insurgents the whole day, while overhead fighters and bombers swooped and roared, engaging each other in desperate death-struggles and discharging deadly cargoes of bombs on the troops and buildings below. The valley of the Manzanares was transformed into a veritable inferno of death and destruction, but at the end of the day neither side had gained any ground.

A feature of the fight was the appearance of a number of new Government aeroplanes, faster than anything possessed by the insurgents. There were two fierce air battles, in which five aeroplanes were shot down. No fewer than 50 machines, bombers and fighters, participated in the first battle, and 21 in the second. The first battle took place in the morning under a blue sky in brilliant sunshine and lasted an hour. Three machines were brought down in flames.

Montana Barracks Wiped Out

In the afternoon three insurgent bombers heavily bombed a factory west of the Manzanares and buildings left of the Segovia Bridge, and later a formation of five insurgent bombers, escorted by 12 fighters, dropped a score of bombs from under 2,000 feet on the Montana barracks. They appeared to score at least 10 direct hits, and the whole great red-brick block of barracks disappeared from view beneath a huge cloud of smoke 300 feet high.

The five bombers were returning when nine of Madrid's new fighters suddenly appeared and engaged the bombers and their escort. The speedy Government planes seemed to have the fight all their own way. They soared up to a great height and then nose-dived and peppered the tails of their opponents with machine-guns. The opponents soon retreated.

The pilot of one insurgent machine was apparently killed by a bullet and his plane crashed beside the Segovia Bridge and burst into flames. The fight continued for half an hour, the combatants beginning to fly home when a Government machine, surprised by three insurgent fighters, dived to the ground with part of its wing ripped off. The pilot parachuted safely to the earth.—Reuter.

Capital Extensively Mined

Paris: Aerial battles have been fought thousands of feet over the Spanish capital, the greatest encounters of their kind that have occurred since the Spanish civil war began. The reason for this extraordinary development in the fight for the possession of Madrid is, as has already been stated, that there are the best of reasons for believing that the Reds have laid mines in many important parts of the city and have threatened to explode these before retreating. Apart from the loss of life this would certainly involve many public buildings, including the Ministries, likely to be among those destroyed. To prevent Madrid's being turned into a heap of ruins the Nationalists are forced to use less direct methods of attack.

During yesterday morning and afternoon nearly 50 aeroplanes were engaged in actions at various points. In nearly every case the Reds outnumbered the Nationalists, but what the latter lacked in numbers was more than compensated for by their superior skill in manipulation and daring in attack, so that in all cases the Nationalists proved victorious.

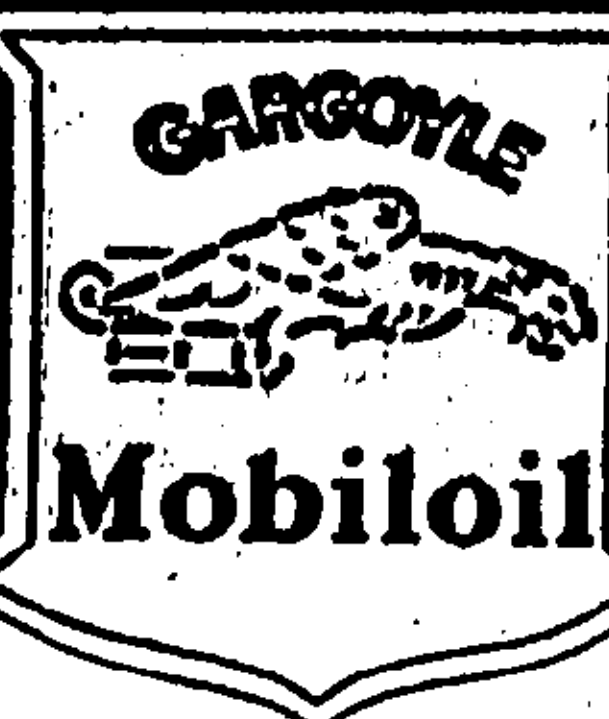

Russian Machines In Action

General Queipo de Llano announced by wireless from Sevilla that altogether 11 Red aeroplanes had been destroyed, while the Nationalist forces lost but one single plane through a collision with a crashing Red plane. This news tallies with the bulletin issued from the headquarters at Salamanca last night, except that the latter statement returns the Reds' losses at 18, the difference being possibly due to later information received by the headquarters' scout service.

The first heavy engagement of the day began just before the forenoon, when five Nationalist bombers, under the convoy of seven pursuit planes, bombed the enemy positions. A few minutes later 12 brand-new Russian planes made an appearance on the horizon. Soon the two fleets were in contact, both going lower and lower till, at one time, they appeared just to skim the roofs of the houses. One Red plane was hit and burst into flames, plunging on to the roofs below. A second Red plane was also hit and capsized, and finally dived into the Manzanares River near the spot where the Toledo Bridge was blown up yesterday. Before the battle which started in the morning had finished the Nationalists had destroyed one Red bomber and seven pursuit planes.

My Idea of a Perfect Day

Sole Agents:— W. R. LOXLEY & CO. (CHINA), LTD.

ANNIE said the pillow deftly into its case and folded the sheet precisely over the blanket.

"That your baby, ma'am, in the silver frame on the dresser?"

"That's the way he used to look. The large picture on the desk is the way he looks now."

"Looks like a right nice boy. But I like 'em best when they're real small." Annie paused in the final smoothing of the spread. "Still, I dunno as I do. They're sweet any time. I have a baby too."

The note of pride in her words demanded something further on my part in the way of conversation. Although I had made stern resolves not to encourage any confidences on the part of this new maid, I remembered Lena, recently transferred to another floor because the "permanents" complained of her daily recitals of recurrent rifts in her love affairs.

"How old is your baby?" No woman could decently ask less than that.

"Just two and a half—about as big as yours in the picture."

It hovered on the tip of my tongue to say: "You must have married rather late—" but I checked that and murmured one of those trite and safe comments. "That's lovely. It must keep you busy."

"Yes ma'am, lots of work. But such a comfort..."

I am afraid that in my haste I closed the door on Annie's last words. But all the way down in the elevator I found myself thinking how strange it was that Annie should have a baby only two and a half years old. Annie—with her stringy, graying hair. With her gentle tap, and entered with her wrinkled face and her limping step.

It would be far easier to picture her as a grandmother than as the mother of a little child. Fifty, surely, I thought. Possibly older. Almost impossible, I should have said. But there was no mistaking that radiance that flashed across her thin face as she spoke of her child.

I must remember—and to make up for my abruptness, show some interest in the baby.

I was very busy, leaving my room early every morning, and for weeks I forgot all about Annie and her baby, until one Sunday she knocked at my door with her gentle tap, and entered with her basket and armful of clean linen.

"Tell me about your baby, Annie," I began. "How is he getting along?"

"Just grand," she answered joyously. "He's the sweetest thing. And so good! Never cries at night after I get home. He's so much company to me. I just don't know what I'd do without him—"

"Who takes care of him all day while you are at work? Does his father—"

"No'm. I never bother none about his father. There's just me and Edward. I never go no place at night. With takin' care of his little clothes an' all—fixin' his food an' puttin' him to bed—I have plenty to do."

Plainly, the topic of the baby's father was unwelcome. But the baby himself—that was a happy subject. Every one of Annie's "ladies" on our corridor soon learned all about the blessed child.

Edward cut his teeth. That didn't trouble him much, Annie boasted. He had a new coat, which Annie brought in from the linen room, all in its tissue wrappings, concealed beneath her apron, and showed me with pride.

She bought him a new perambulator and showed me the very one in the catalogue.

At Christmas time there were toys and gifts from all the guests on our corridor. Most of us are rather settled folk, we "permanents" on the 10th floor, so busy that we resent any changes that affect our comfort. And Annie was, certainly, a competent maid. In spite of her limp, she was deft and quick.

Annie was careful about remembering our various eccentricities—where we like our slippers left; how our curtains should be arranged; how many blankets we needed on cold nights. Trifles so highly important to those who dwell in hotel rooms.

So it was not long before most of us on the 10th floor began to feel a personal interest in Annie's baby. The months hurried by into a year—two years—and the baby, we were told, continued to grow "just like a weed."

We learned when Edward first began to talk, and when he escaped measles—as though by a miracle, "for all the other kids on our block had 'em something dreadful, ma'am."

Such A Comfort To Annie

(By EDITH BRISTOL)

Little Edward, it seemed, bore a charmed life and the illnesses that threatened other babies passed him by.

"Why don't you bring your baby in to town on your afternoon off and have his picture taken?" one day I asked Annie.

"Tain't safe, ma'am. Not with the chicken pox and the scarlet fever, and goodness knows what dyin' round loose," she objected.

It was the same when the kindly Mrs. Martin offered to send her car and driver to take Annie and the baby riding in the park. Mrs. Martin, in her suite at the end of the hall, for her consideration and generosity is the idol of the entire staff. She spoke to me about Annie.

"It was the first time I have ever heard of Annie's baby being ill," Mrs. Martin related. "She really grew quite upset when I asked her if she wouldn't like to have Nelson take her and the baby out in the car some sunny afternoon to enjoy the fresh air in the park. She said it wouldn't be safe to take the baby out. She seemed very grateful—but I didn't insist."

It must have been nearly three years after Annie first came on our floor that a new girl appeared in her place. A ruddy-cheeked Swedish girl. We felt a little resentful about it. Annie suited us so well.

"Annie is sick," we were promptly informed by the new maid.

After a week of Annie's absence, either curiosity or sympathy—call it which you will—got the better of me. I telephoned the housekeeper, some place below stairs, to ask after Annie. Then I realized for the first time that I didn't even know Annie's other name. Just Annie—that was all. Annie, with her gray hair and her wrinkles and her limp—and her baby.

"Annie is sick," the housekeeper informed me. "At the Women's Hospital they say she's seriously ill—very serious."

All morning I had Annie on my mind. With Annie in the hospital, where was the baby? I spoke of the matter to Mrs. Martin and found her immediately sympathetic. Not even 10 years of the impersonal detachment of hotel living had quenched the spark of small-town neighbourliness in Mrs. Martin's breast.

"Why, the poor creature," she exclaimed, "just wait till I call Nelson to bring the car around and we'll go and see Annie and find out about the baby."

The nurse ushered us into a hushed room, redolent with disinfectants, tense with the feeling of impending crisis.

"Not more than three minutes," she cautioned. "If you can tell her something reassuring about her baby it may quiet her. She calls for him every minute when not under a sedative."

"My baby... he always stays at home... I'm afraid he needs me..." Annie was tossing her head restlessly on the pillow and speaking with evident effort.

"That's the way she keeps up all the time," the nurse continued. "He's a good child... never cries... such a comfort..." the weak, plaintive tones went on.

I started to speak but the nurse restrained me.

"Better not try to rouse her," she warned. "If you could bring her the baby it might quiet her. A few minutes with him might make all the difference. We tried to find the child but nobody seems to know where he is."

"We'll find him and bring him in to set her mind at rest," I promised the nurse as we left.

Mrs. Martin told Nelson to drive to Annie's address on Orchard street, as listed on the hospital records.

Orchard street! A dull gray street in drab part of the city. Blocks and blocks of flats all of the same colour and monotonous design. Dismal. Dingy. Discouraged.

Annie's flat was up three flights of steep and narrow stairs on which our footsteps echoed in the uncarpeted hall.

At the top of the third flight we knocked at a door with Annie's name upon it. There was no answer. We knocked again. Another door on the opposite side of the small landing opened a crack and a frowzy head peeked cautiously out.

I explained that we were friends of Annie's and had just come from seeing her.

"Sure, I've heard Annie speak of Mrs. Martin. You're the lady with the swell sweet of rooms and the showfur—the one that give her the invite to ride in the park. I'm Mrs. Potter."

"We came to see if there was anything we could do for Annie. She keeps calling for the baby all the time."

A lean arm, reached into the open door for a key hanging on a nail. Mrs. Potter slipped it in the lock of Annie's door.

"Come inside, wench, and set down," Mrs. Potter pulled the shade and light flooded the room.

The place was spotless. Plain, cheap furniture. A worn rug. Everything dusted and in perfect order. The room was filled with playthings for a little child. Beyond, through the open door, we could see a white crib beside the larger bed.

In the bay window were other things, too. Baby things. A bassinet with pink ruffles. A folding bath tub with roses painted on its stand. A tiny chest of drawers with little white scales upon the top.

Everything unused and now and clean—just as we see them displayed in store windows.

Speechless, Mrs. Martin and I stared at each other. We both looked wonderingly at Mrs. Potter.

"But where's the baby?" we burst out in the same breath.

"They ain't no baby."

"Annie's told us all about him." "Sure, Annie's told you. She's told every body. But I've lived here for six years and I know."

"What do you mean?" Mrs. Martin spoke sternly.

"She never had a baby. She never had a husband. Never had nobody 'cept a girl friend who lived with her, and a boy friend. She was all set to marry him. Lent him the money to buy the ring, 'n' everything 'an had her wedding dress all ready. Then one night she comes home from work an' he had run off with the other girl." Mrs. Potter paused for breath.

"Well, Annie she cried for about three weeks, seems like," the woman went on, smoothing the coverlet of the crib as she talked.

"One morning she come in to my flat an' she says, 'Mis' Potter, she says, 'I'm so lonesome I can't stand it... I just make up a baby for myself, nights, to take the lonesome away'... That's how she got started, you see. She just pretended there was an Edward."

"I'd hear her at night, talkin' to him and laughing to him... I said, 'Annie, I said, 'Why don't you 'dopt you a baby?'... 'No, Mis' Potter, she says, 'if I 'dopted one he might turn out bad. This way I have Edward all to myself and I'm sure he'll turn out right.'"

"First I thought she was kinda coo-coo... bugs, you know. Then after a while when I got to know her better I seen she was only cracked on that one thing."

"So I just said to myself, 'What's the difference?' I said, 'And Annie'd talk to me about her baby an' I'd act just like I could see him too.'"

There was no chance to break in on the flow of Mrs. Potter's story. Plainly it had been told many times.

"Annie made good money—saved all her wages and her tips and she told me, herself, she had four thousand dollars in savings."

"Sorta funny, an't it? She's always told me how she was savin' her money for the baby—and they ain't no baby!"

The tears were dropping quite frankly down Mrs. Martin's carefully tinted cheeks as without a word we stepped back into her car.

"The pitiful creature... eating out her heart in loneliness all these years... I never heard of anything so sad..."

Nelson touched his cap.

"Where next, Mrs. Martin?"

"If she only had a child to comfort her... it just breaks my heart," Mrs. Martin continued unheeding.

I leaned forward and tugged at Nelson's sleeve.

"Drive just as fast as you can," I urged, "down Maple street to the Home of the Holy Infant."

"Where did you say?" questioned Mrs. Martin, wiping her eyes and reaching for her powder.

"We're going to get that baby for Annie—right now," I answered confidently. "Sister Mary Hildegard will help us."

Sister Mary Hildegard's tranquility was unruffled when I dashed breathlessly into her serene office and demanded a five-year-old boy. One who was affectionate and not afraid of strangers.

In disjointed sentences I poured out my story... but the sister, tolerant and wise, seemed to understand it all before I reached its end.

"Little Vincent, I think, will be the best," she said thoughtfully. "He is affectionate and tractable and always takes to strangers."

She rang the bell for the little boy.

Little Vincent was adorable. Brown curls and brown eyes. A drooping, pathetic mouth. Life had taken an unfair advantage of Vincent before he was born. There was something plaintively appealing about the way he slipped his grimy little hand into mine. He promised to be a good boy and let the sick lady love him.

As we hurried back to the hospital, I wondered: Should I explain to the nurse?

I needed no decision, for she let us pass, unquestioned, into Annie's room.

I leaned over the sick woman. "Annie," I whispered. "Here's your baby."

I never expect to see again such a look of transfiguration upon any woman's face as that shining on Annie's wrinkled, pallid features as I held little Vincent close beside her bed.

If she had been stronger, she might have grasped him closely in her arms and he might have been afraid. But she was too weak for that. She only smiled. And such a smile—tender as the voices of angels.

All the pent-up devotion of the lonely years lavished upon a baby who never was, found consummation when Annie smiled.

And little Vincent, bless his heart—reached up his tiny hand, patted the wizened cheek and put his shining curly head on the pillow, beside her gray one.

So the two rested, silently, for a long, long pause. There was not a sound in the room.

Then Annie broke the quiet. Sick and weak and falling as she was, the inspiration was hers.

She beckoned me to lean closer. It was too much effort to speak loud. She whispered huskily, feebly.

"You work... for a lawyer... and you know about... wills... please make me one... so my baby'll get everything..."

Her tired eyes turned towards the little head so close to hers. "I've worked... so hard... and saved... and there's nobody else... she paused, too weak to go on."

It was a short will I wrote on the back of a hospital chart. But it was a good will and legal. It left everything that Annie possessed to little Vincent, entrusted to the Home of the Holy Infant until he came of age.

Annie was too weak to sign her name but I guided her wavering hand while she made her mark and Mrs. Martin and the nurse witnessed her signature.

STOMACH SUFFERER DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL AS INCURABLE

Now Eats Good Meals

There is no need for stomach sufferers to despair of relief if they have not tried Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Almost every day letters arrive from one-time "incurables" who have been put right by Maclean Brand. Read this letter from Mr. J. H.:

"Four years ago I suffered agony, and hospital treatment was useless. I have rolled over in the garden so great has been the pain. I was X-rayed each hour for 7 hours and was later told that I had a Duodenal Ulcer and must undergo an operation. I refused and was discharged from the hospital as incurable. I then started to take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and Tablets. Soon after, all pain vanished and the pain and agony has not returned. I can now sit down to a good meal without any fear. Before, even a cup of tea was distasteful to me."

Why not make your digestive troubles vanish the same swift way? Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is as effective in banishing flatulence, biliousness, heartburn as the most serious digestive complaints. But make sure that it is the genuine Maclean Brand—the "signature" brand. Just look for the "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" signature on the bottle and carton and you can't go wrong. Powder or tablets, never sold loose.

LADY LITTLE, wife of His Excellency Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Little, Commander-in-Chief of the China Fleet, arrived in the Colony from Home on Armistice Day and has taken up residence at Admiralty House.

Lieut.-Col. R. M. Rodwell, Officer Commanding, Royal Ulster Rifles, is at present spending a holiday in Shanghai. It is understood that he will be back here in about a week's time.

Lieut. Metcalfe, Royal Artillery, left for England recently, and it is learned that he will not be returning to this Station. He was one of the most popular officers amongst the Gunners here, and his Great Dane will also be badly missed at hockey matches on the Marina ground.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Lindquist, together with the Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Desterhaft, returned to the Colony by the s.s. President Lincoln last Monday. They have since gone back to Cheung Chau, where they are old residents.

Mrs. Franklin, one of the most popular residents of Cheung Chau, left the Colony recently for New Zealand to visit her son and his family. Mrs. Franklin is looking forward to a very pleasant holiday, after which it is her intention to return to Cheung Chau again.

Mr. W. J. Carroll, the popular chairman of the Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association, has returned to the Colony again after spending about two weeks in Manila on a visit that was a business combined with pleasure.

Latest Fashions Introduced At H.K. Hotel Roof Garden

THE Roof Garden at the Hong Kong Hotel was crowded out with guests on Saturday of last week to see the initial appearance of the dancers Eula Hoff and Bob Burnett.

There were many gay parties dining, and a great number of other people arrived later, after seeing the final show of the A.D.C. production "Night Must Fall."

The new tunic dresses are very much in evidence now. We noticed Mrs. Scott in a silver lame flared tunic worn over a black satin skirt. Mrs. Anderson's smart and pretty dress was of black lace, also cut in the tunic style and with the new high neckline. Yet another tunic dress was Mrs. Stanton's. This was of black velvet with a demure little collar and pockets piped with green.

Mrs. Grune, who arrived in a large party, was wearing white; the little cape sleeves were lined with pink, and pink flowers at the front and back décolletage completed the colour scheme. Mrs. Holmes was in blue organdy, a pretty material with a darker spot in it. It was of backless cut and was finished with a velvet ribbon sash.

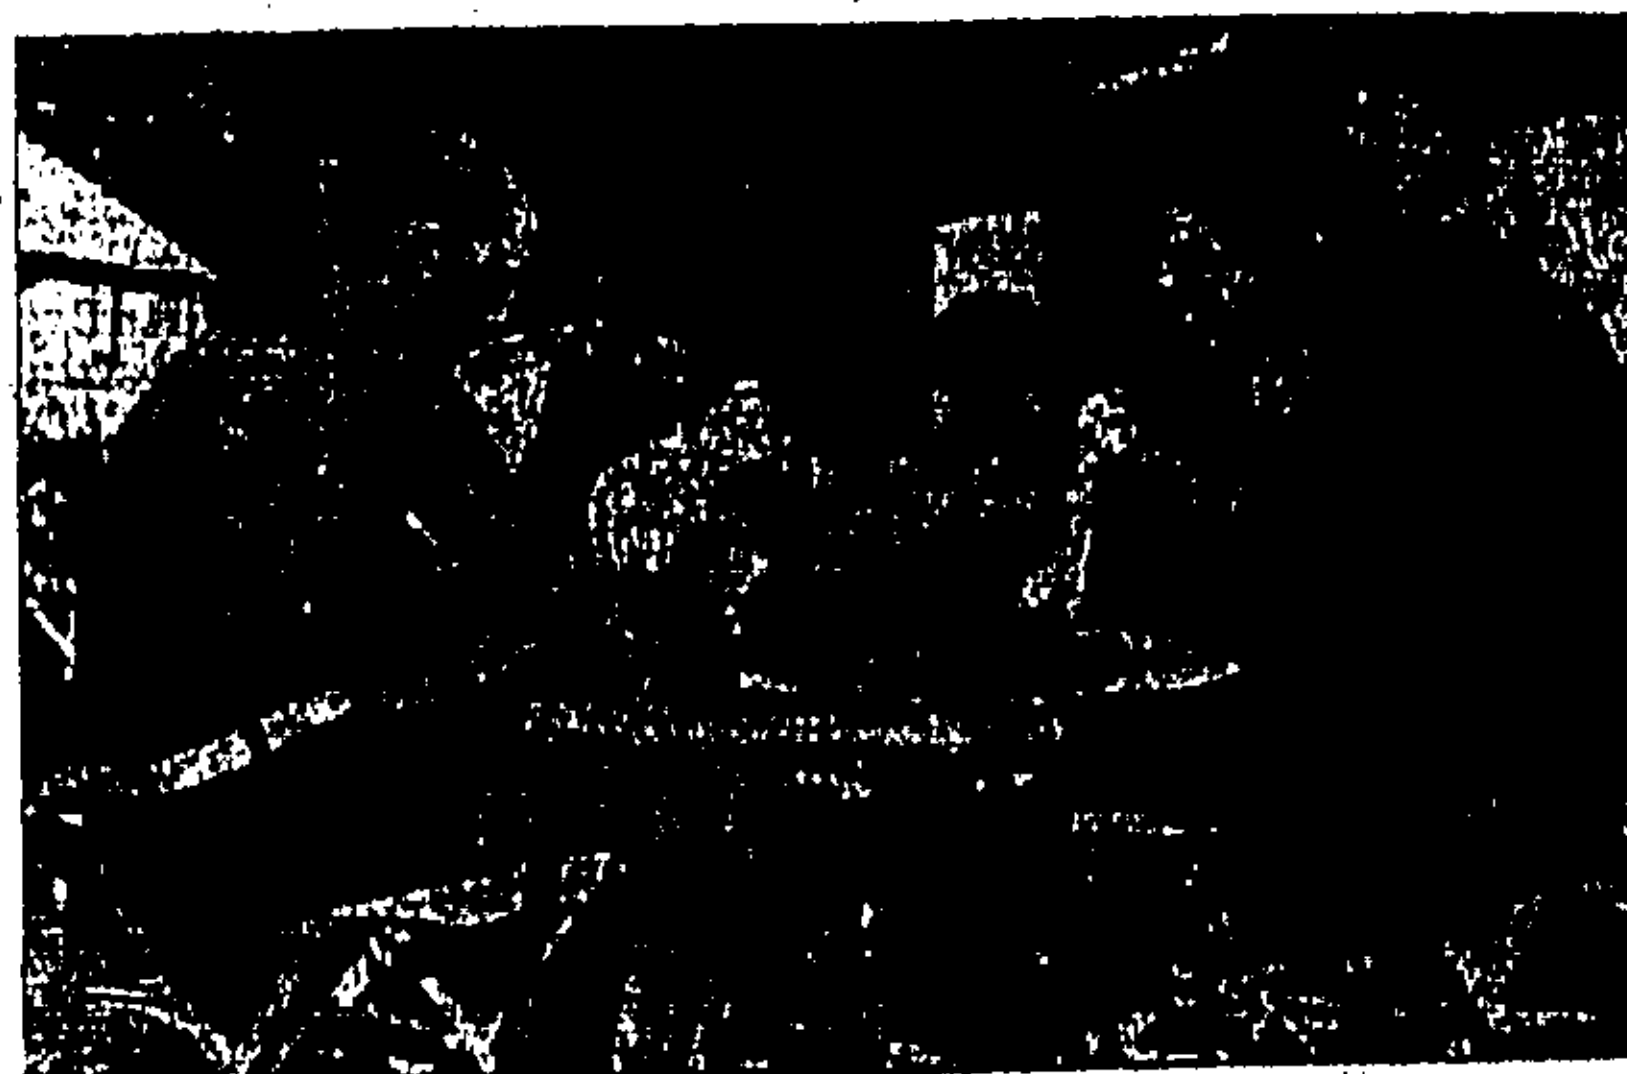

Mrs. Lock was looking smart in an uncommon red tartan silk. Mrs. Penke's blue dress was very becomingly finished with long "wings" of material hanging down the back from her shoulders nearly to the floor, and floating gracefully out as she danced. Miss Peggy Morrow was there in a pretty backless flowered frock—gay bunches of flowers on a white ground; it was finished off with a green belt.

Mrs. Cavanaugh-Mainwaring was wearing blue, a colour that suits her very well. Her frock had a silver tinsel material twisted into the belt. Mrs. Coltart was in black satin. Satin is a lovely material for evening dresses, and both the Morris sisters had chosen it also. Miss Sylvia Morris's being a peach shade, and Miss Valerie Morris's a very pretty pale blue.

We noticed that headdresses and hair ornaments seem to be getting increasingly popular in Hong Kong these days — or rather, nights. One lady was wearing a wide black and gold band round her head which was ornamented in front with an open lotus flower in gold and pink over her forehead. Another was wearing a silver sequin turban cap with the edging of it the same material as her frock. Nearly all the dancers were wearing flowers or some ornament in their hair.

Amongst others we noticed present were Wing Commander and Mrs. Bishop, Lt-Comdr. and Mrs. Conway, Mr. Williams, Mrs. Bathurst, Squadron-Leader Dalzell, Mr. Nelson, Captain and Mrs. Rybot, Mr. and Mrs. Clough-Taylor, Major and Mrs. Campbell and Lieutenant Pirrie.

The many friends of Mr. S. P. Healey of the Dollar Steamship Line will be interested to learn that he has been permanently transferred to Canton. For some time now Mr. Healey has spent half the week here and the other half in Canton, but he states that in the future he will only be able to manage the week-ends in Hong Kong.

Judging by the lady's smile, she is holding a grand slam hand! This photograph was taken last Sunday when members of the Cheero Club were entertained at First Beach, Repulse Bay. (King's Studio).

THE many friends of Mr. E. S. Abraham, the exchange broker, will be glad to learn that he has now fully recovered from his recent illness and that he has been back at work for some days now.

Mr. Choy Wing-chiu, the novice jockey and a member of the firm of Fred Kow and Company, left for Shanghai last Friday and will be away for about two or three weeks. The trip, it is understood, is purely in the nature of a holiday.

There was a large gathering on board the R.M.S. Empress of Canada last Friday to bid au revoir to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Garrod and family, who left for Vancouver on leave. They will be away for about six months and it is not yet known whether they will be coming back here or whether they will go to another of the C.P.R.'s many branches.

Mr. L. D. Skinner, of the Hong Kong Telephone Co., Ltd., has returned from Home leave looking very fit and well. He travelled by the R.M.S. Queen Mary on her first east to west crossing, as did Miss Marian Bryson, the well-known local hockey player.

Mr. M. Greenberg, who is in charge of the local offices of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the well-known film company, is about to pay a short visit to Amoy and the North. It is understood that Mr. Greenberg will be travelling by plane as much as possible.

Mr. Mok Ying-kie, a member of the Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association and head of the firm bearing his name, intends to pay a visit to Manila sometime next month, possibly during the Christmas holidays. He will, it is learned, be taking Mrs. Mok along with him.

Mr. P. A. Cox, the retired assistant Oriental Manager of Canadian Pacific Railways, with headquarters in Shanghai, is now in the Colony on a holiday visit. He is staying at Fanling, and we understand that he will be here till February next.

Miss G. A. Archer, who is in the Colony on a holiday visit, from Manila, has "moved out" to the Hong Kong Hotel after having been in residence at Repulse Bay Hotel for some days.

Miss Lois Savage, who has visited Hong Kong a number of times, arrived here again on Monday, bringing with her Mr. and Mrs. C. Dench, Mrs. E. Webster, Miss A. Colvin, Mrs. E. Wells and Mr. W. R. Huntsman. The party arrived from Japan and stayed at the Gloucester Hotel. They have, however, since returned to Australia.

Amongst the passengers who arrived in the Colony by the s.s. Gleniffer last Tuesday was Mr. W. E. Bowerman, the well-known travelling manufacturers' representative. Mr. Bowerman, who came here from Shanghai, is travelling in piece goods, having represented Bubberrys for many years. He is staying at the Gloucester Hotel and intends to remain here for about three weeks.

Although it is generally thought that Cheung Chau is a resort that only attracts visitors during the summer months, there are quite a number of people holidaying on that island at the moment. The latest to go there is Mrs. R. A. Jeffray who, however, has her own house on the island. It is understood that she will remain in residence there for some time.

Miss Noreen Cooper, left, and Miss Audrey Steel performed yeoman service on Armistice Day in aid of Earl Haig's Fund. (King's Studio).

THE dinner dance at the Gloucester Hotel last Saturday night attracted a full house once again, and amongst those present were Capt. Grey, R.M. and Mrs. Gray, Major Duclos, the popular Canadian Trade Commissioner, Miss Doreen Ma, Mr. L. N. Ryan and party and Lieut. Butler, R.N. and party. Dancing at the Gloucester seems to grow in popularity each week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hennessy Seth, together with their daughter, Miss Katherine Seth, have returned to the Colony from long leave, and they are all looking remarkably fit and well after their holiday. Mr. Seth is the head of the well-known firm of Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming.

MESSRS. Li Tse-cho, K. F. Chiu, Hoo Kgm-chiu and Yeung Wing-kuai, gave a very successful party at the Kam Ling Restaurant last Saturday when a large number of jockeys were invited to attend. The four hosts are, incidentally, all novice jockeys so that it was really a "racing party," and very good fun too!

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

Were an Oriental Prince to display to you the wealth of the Far East, you could scarcely feel more wonder and delight than you do on the occasion of a visit to the JADE TREE. You look, you choose, and then one of the wonders of the "Thousand and One Nights" is sent off to be opened by those at home on an exciting, albeit chilly, Xmas morning. And what a choice you have! There is jewellery, embroidered jewellery boxes, novelties of all kinds, vanity boxes, evening bags... The loveliest of kimonos, Mandarin coats, underwear specially designed for the JADE TREE, Chinese rugs, and a host of others...

"Anything new this week?" I asked at DOLLY VARDEN'S. "There's always something new," came the reply — and that's very true. DOLLY VARDEN'S have a tremendous selection of every kind and type of frock or suit, and as for hats — well, there's no competing with DOLLY VARDEN'S there! But you want to know about the new thing in this week... and I'm just as eager to tell you. Three-piece suits. The little costume and swaggar coat in matching colour. Beautifully smart and easy to wear and right for so many occasions. There are some Paris models among the afternoon frocks — a lovely grey creation from Alix was one.

"As good as gold"—that applies to both WATSON'S BABY WATER and the baby who takes it. You will be happy when his crying stops, his griping or indigestion relieved, all his pain gone. It really is a wonder what this BABY WATER can do. It aids digestion, does away with flatulence and acidity, and is invaluable during weaning time when it acts as a preventive against digestive trouble, and during the trying teething period it helps him to keep healthy and contented. Once you start using it for baby, you won't want to be without it again. And you get all that for only 25 cents. A real investment.

MAIZEE'S! You saw their Mannequin Parade on Thursday, so you know something of what they've got. And isn't it good to know? Those formal! Gowns of subtle elegance, of fabrics woven with care and richness, moulded to the infinitely flattering lines of the season. Velvets, laces, laces, heavy satins and striking combinations, make gowns that will take you glowingly to St. Andrew's Ball. And then their cocktail hats — are they not exquisite? They have some good-looking coats too, masterpieces of line. No, you won't forget MAIZEE'S this week — you wouldn't dare!

Make it a modern gift this year... Play the role of Santa in a grand manner... give her a gift of enchanting allurements — give her the finest of French perfumes! Where can you get the greatest selection of them? The answer, in capital letters, is "GRAND DISPENSARY." You need no introduction to these names: Bourjois, Caron, Chanel, Coty, D'Orsay, Guerlain, Houbigant, Lenthéric, Molyneux, Roger & Gallet. Names with traditions and a definite meaning to all women in the world. You can get their products at the GRAND DISPENSARY at reasonable prices.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

LANE, CRAWFORD'S think of everything... and they're thinking of the Ball to come. You won't know how to begin looking at their evening gowns... when we saw them we nearly lost control. There were so many we'd like to have. There were gowns of every possible material and of every possible colour. Lovely ring-velvets; plain velvets, crepes, taffetas; and they were plain, beautifully plain, or spotted, flowered, patterned, checked... The heaviest or the lightest, the most fanciful or the most severe. You'll scarcely be able to wait for the great day when you've made your pick of these — you'll be sure of your success, and with reason.

If you're thinking of helping Santa Claus in his Xmas shopping—and I'm sure you are—the very place to visit is BREWERS BOOKSHOP. There you'll find a deluge of lovely bright-coloured books that'll be ideal for coming down the chimney. Books the kiddies will love: all the well-known annuals and a host of new ones, including a large variety of the adventures and deeds of the great favourite Mickey Mouse. And then a collection of the most famous "Fairy Tales" beautifully illustrated — they'll be a real treat for the little ones. You'll be pleased to learn, too, that BREWERS BOOKSHOP has a number of portable typewriters on sale.

Nowhere else in town will you find things such as PAUL RENNET'S have just got in — the very smartest woollen dresses and suits from that famous English house — Zambrene. The material is beautiful enough to make you wonder why you ever appeared in anything not so good; the suits have the smartest, most tailored cut you could imagine; the colours are soft and infinitely attractive. PAUL RENNET'S also have a new shipment of very smart afternoon and evening frocks — things so lovely I don't know how to begin telling you about them. You'll enjoy seeing them for yourselves — and that's something you won't want to miss!

The Zenith 1937 Radio is "the" one — no doubt about that. The newest in the world... but made by the radio's oldest manufacturer. There certainly couldn't be a finer gift to the home and family than a Zenith — visit the INTERNATIONAL RADIO SALES AND SERVICE, 27 Harkow Road, Kowloon, and find out about it. You may start with a small Zenith and pave the way for an All Wave World-wide Automatic Radio-Gram. But whatever it is, let your slogan be: "A Zenith in the home." There's no end to the pleasure you'll have, for its a radio famous for its selectivity, sensitivity, and tone quality. Cash, or terms arranged to suit.

The season for lovely cakes and all sorts of delicious things to eat is here. Well, before you start making them, let me give you a tip I know you'll be grateful for. There are new Jams on the market; new Fruit Butters, new Jellies and new Marmalades — they're the EMA brand products, and they're the kind to use! The Fruit Butters are an improvement on the ordinary jams; prepared under a special process that ensures the rich individual flavour of fresh fruits — and what a range of varieties! You'll suit everyone's taste if you're using the EMA products. And there's another attraction — lovely free prizes you may win with any jar.

ST JOSEPH'S AGAIN GIVE PLUCKY DISPLAY WITH ONLY TEN MEN

TALBOT PROMINENT FOR FUSILIERS

HUGHES AND PARRY DO WELL AT FORWARD

SOUZA AND COSTA GIVEN GRUELLING TIME

FIGHTING for almost three parts of the game with only 10 men and against opponents who put everything they possessed into their play, St. Joseph's were forced to concede both points to the Fusiliers in their premier League soccer encounter at Chatham Road yesterday by the odd goal in three. Honours of the game must be assigned to the Saints' defence — a defence in which the play of Souza and Costa predominated and undoubtedly saved their goal time and again in the closing stages of the game.

The Saints' front line men were rarely impressive, there appearing to be a complete lack of understanding and co-operation between Leonard and his inside men, while Castillo and Fernandez made little use of what opportunities they did receive from an intermediate line fully occupied with curtailing the activities of the Fusilier front-line men. An unfortunate injury to Elms further upset the Saints' attack as they played with four forwards in the latter half.

Excellent distribution and powerful accurate kicking on the part of Talbot, together with keen, skilful work on the part of Hughes and Parry, were features of the soldiers' display. Evans and Sullivan married a workmanlike display by indiscriminate kicking, the latter appearing to be upset by the robust methods of the Saints' defence. The defence was, comparatively speaking, little troubled and have little to reproach themselves with for Ward netting a shot which gave Rowlands a very slight chance of averting.

Evans opened the scoring for the Fusiliers and the ragged efforts of the Saints to secure the equaliser were held up by Keating and Talbot.

The resumption found the soldiers pressing home their one goal advantage, Talbot stretching Marques full length with an excellent effort from 20 yards out. The Saints goal was again in danger soon after, but Sullivan hooked the ball over the bar, a lapse for which he atoned a few moments later when he made no error in converting a penalty awarded for hands.

From this stage the game developed into a duel between the Saints' defence and the soldiers' forwards, the Saints' only goal arriving by way of Ward from a lightning-like breakthrough.

Fusiliers: — Rowlands; Wheeler, Keating, Wanklyn, Talbot, Taylor; Parry, Coakley, Evans, Sullivan and Hughes.

St. Joseph's: — Marques; Souza, Costa; Castro, Hussain, Elms; Castillo, Dolgado, Leonard, Ward and Fernandez.

CHINESE AT THEIR BEST

Much more formidable opposition was required to upset South China "B" than that provided by Recreio at Caroline Hill, the Chinese emerging worthy victors by 4 goals to 2 after providing really attractive football.

South China set a very fast pace and delighted their fans with early goals. Although they failed to score in the second period they maintained a very high standard of football, though they were inclined to concentrate on "gallery" play instead of goal-scoring. A perfect understanding existed in all departments throughout, and this contrasted very favourably with the uncertainty of Recreio's attack, for although the latter possessed a sound knowledge of construction, they attempted it very feebly.

Chan Tak-zai, the "B" team's leader was in superb form, while Yeung Shui-yick and Cheuk Shek-kam gave of their best and Lee Shek-yau, at outside-left, played a leading part in all phases of the attack. The best half-back was Henry Young, and a formidable rearguard was formed by Chung Chi-hing and Leung In-chan. Recreio had no outstanding players with perhaps the exception of Marques in goal, and also Beltrao, who finally dropped back to half-back in order to check the speedy Chan Tak-zai.

South China scored in the first few minutes, through Lee Shek-yau, and a phenomenal shot by Cheuk Shek-kam shortly afterwards caused a great deal of excitement; the ball struck the upright and rebounded across the goal line from post to post at least three times without entering the net!

The Chinese, however, went further ahead through Chan Tak-zai. In spite of their poor display, Recreio's goal was probably the best of the match. Alves centred a good ball to Beltrao, the latter heading past Wong with wonderful judgement.

Close on the interval the Chinese were sent further ahead through Chan Tak-zai and shortly after Yeung Shui-yick scored the fourth.

A surprise breakthrough by Campos in the second half resulted in goal.

South China "B": — Wong Wah-gay; Leung In-chan, Chung Chi-hing; Tong Kwen, Lim Tak-po, H. Young; Yeung Shui-yick, Yeung Hui-woo, Chan Tak-zai, Cheuk Shek-kam and Lee Shek-yau.

Recreio: — Marques; J. L. Alves, A. V. Campos, G. Marques, Fernandez, V. Marques, Aquino, Campos, Beltrao, Gomes and Alves.

KOWLOON SURPRISE CLUB

The spirit prevailing on the Kowloon ground was something in the nature of the familiar local "Derby" variety. Kowloon pitting their determined spirit against their opponents the Club. The determined spirit won the day, Kowloon emerging victors by the odd goal in three, and very deservedly, all the goals being obtained during the first half.

The Kowloon forwards were not very sure of themselves during the opening exchanges and lacked a definite understanding when on the move and approaching their opponents' goal. However, this defect was remedied as the game proceeded and the combined efforts of Rodger, Nicholls and S. Strange were necessary to keep the Kowloon forwards, and the ball, out. After persevering for 10 minutes D. Knox flashed in a fast shot which beat Rodger to open the scoring.

Kowloon's second goal came from a penalty against S. Strange, D. Knox increasing his average from the spot-kick.

After Kowloon's second goal the Club forwards increased their efforts and worried Everest and Bowen for all they were worth. Minihannet brought off several very admirable saves near the interval, but he was unable to stop Fowler claiming a goal for the Club.

The exchanges during the second half were very even and the result was in the balance until the final whistle; midfield play claimed the majority with a few swift dashes to either end.

Kowloon: — Minihannet; Everest and Bowen; G. White, Ellis and O'Connor; Eastman, Evans, D. Knox, V. White and Honnball.

Club: — Rodger; Nicholls and S. Strange; Skinner, Forrow and E. Strango; F. Fowler, Hill, Elliott, Wilson and Bickford.

EASTERN HOLD UP RIFLES

Failure to convert a penalty-kick in the last minute of the game robbed Eastern of a well deserved point and left the Rifles winners of a game in which they were made to look anything but the redoubtable side that their previous performances have suggested them to be.

Taking the field as much fancied winners, they anticipated obtaining a comfortable victory, indeed, they made little secret of their intention to 'crowd' on the goals in an endeavour to establish a favourable average, whereas, they only just managed to scramble to victory by the narrow margin of a single point, scored by Doherty nine minutes after the 'kick-off', and they were distinctly fortunate to do so!

Had Eastern's forwards displayed greater steadiness when in shooting range, or had there been the least slackening off by Pickering and Stevens, it is a certainty that goals would have accrued; as it was, however, Sabhan, although provided with many excellent openings, failed to make the best use of the ball and the fine defensive played of the Rifles backs stayed the activities of a virile bunch of forwards.

The outstanding player in the Rifles' side was Pickering. He kicked with accuracy and amazing strength and was one of the few military players that kept cool when things looked black for his side. He was ably partnered by Stevens and with Connor, who crowned a steady performance by blocking Cheng Sui Hong's 'spot kick', earned for his side the maximum points. Moore at centre-half was the best of the in-termediate line and kept a watchful eye on the activities of the opposing inside-men, but McGonigle and Miller often found the Eastern wingers a bit too much for them. Killen made one, or two, nice centres, early in the game, but otherwise was a poor substitute for Hartigan. Doherty and Ferguson were well attended by the vigilant Eastern defenders and it was the right wing that captured most of the honours that fell to the Rifles' attack. The best man in the Rifles' forward-line was Erwin, although neglected, for long periods, by his colleagues.

The Eastern forwards and halves displayed a nice understanding and were responsible for the prettiest football of the day. Chan Ping To—excellent on the right wing and all three inside forwards played progressive football whenever they cleared of Moore. It was Eastern's defence, however, that earned the greatest distinction. Lai Ting Choi, small in stature, was a tower of strength and, up against the best wing, he performed wonders. Tsui Hang gave a sterling display 'between the sticks' and was always the essence of coolness in his handling of the ball.

Rifles: — Connor; Pickering, Stevens; McGonigle, Moore, Miller; Erwin, Campbell, Ferguson, Doherty and Killen.

Eastern: — Tsui Hang; Tsang Ching-wai, Lai Ting-choi; Ng Yin-kai, Geo. Young, Chung Kwok-choi; Chan Ping-to, Chan Yin-ting, Cheng Shui-hing, Sung Ling-sing and M. Sabhan.

POLICE WELL BEATEN

The Police sadly missed the services of Pila and Blackburn, and cut a sorry figure at Causeway Bay yesterday afternoon, where the Navy had an easy task in gaining the day by 5 goals to 1. Play as a whole was scrappy, and once they had a clear lead, the Navy seemed content to rest on their laurels, and during the latter part of the game there was a lot of aimless kicking on both sides.

The Police forwards were never in the picture, and only Rose and Moss performed anything of note, but even when they centred Brooks, Morrison and Green were allowed and easily succumbed to the quick tackling of Wolverson and Tucker.

As a contrast Le Page and Wilde, laying well back, were ever eager to seize on the loose balls, which, when challenged by Bone and Britain, they transferred to their wing men. Consequently the Navy wingers had plenty of time and room in which to centre, and it speaks much for the sterling display of McHardy that the score was not doubled in the first period.

The Navy soon took up the offensive, and Wride and Wolverson went close, before McLeod crossed the ball to Tippett, for the latter to beat McHardy from close range. The Navy added three more goals in the last 10 minutes of the first half, Baxter sending over two accurate centres for Le Page to net twice, and the former converting a fine centre from Tippett.

After 20 minutes in the second half Tippett beat North and Bone, and sent in a high centre which McLeod headed into the roof of the net. Shortly before the final whistle, however, Rose flashed across a centre which deceived Cocker to give the Police their only goal.

Navy: — Cocker, Tucker, Wolverson, Laister, Bower, Gardner, Baxter, Le Page, McLeod, Wride and Tippett. Police: — McHardy, Bone, Britain, North, Gough, Parker, Rose, Morrison and Green.

LYEMUN DISAPPOINT

Lyemun failed to maintain the promise displayed by their excellent victory over the Kowloon Chinese last week, conceding both points to the Fusiliers in their Second Division soccer encounter at Chatham Road by 8 goals to 1.

Excellent work by Morton, in the Gunners' intermediate line, featured the Artillery's display, though his forwards made little use of the openings. Coakley and Grindley were the pick of the Fusiliers.

The Fusiliers opened the scoring through Grindley, who scored from an almost impossible angle, Coakley adding the second soon after the resumption. Grindley scored the Fusiliers' third goal. The Gunners' only reply came from Brown, who netted a few minutes before the final whistle.

KOWLOON OUT OF LUCK

After a stern tussle in their Second Division clash at Chatham Road, the Club defeated Kowloon by the odd goal in three. The result, however, was no indication of the play, Kowloon dominating play for a large portion of the first half and almost the whole of the second.

Walkden opened the Club's scoring, and they were presented with their second goal, Boyes being out of position and Gilchrist had only to tap the ball into the net.

On the resumption Kowloon kept the ball in the Club goal area for long periods, but only managed to score once, through Smith.

S. CHINA BEAT SCUTTERS

The robust methods adopted by Stonecutters for their visit to Caroline Hill were offset by the nippy South China players, who comfortably accounted for the soldiers by 3 goals to 1.

In spite of the strong opposition, the Gunners showed a marked improvement in form, but once again their finishing touches spoiled good midfield play. Gardner played a very hard game at centre-half, and half kept goal well.

The Chinese worked with more method, and at times were the opponents of some real pretty football. Tang Chung-pak was a tough proposition at left-back, while the best forwards were Mok Yim-sang and Lau Wing-kui.

Leung Pak-wai gave the Gunners the lead in the first half when he netted into his own goal, but the Chinese equalised through Lau Wing-kui. After the resumption the Chinese went ahead through Lau Wing-kui and Mok Yim-sang.

NAVY'S COMFORTABLE WIN

The Navy continued in winning vein at Causeway Bay when they easily accounted for the Chinese Police by 7 goals to 4.

The direct methods of Stone and Johnson, coupled with the quick shooting of Wolf, Spencer and Tozer, and the accurate backing-up of the halves, was chiefly responsible for their victory.

Kong Hing and Wong Man-wai were the best of the Police forwards, but they did not receive the support they merited. Cheung Kam and Chan Kwong-yee, the Chinese backs, excelled themselves, and Chan Wai-kam gave a creditable display in goal.

Wolf (2), Hutobby and Johnson netted for the Navy in the first half, while Wang Man-wai and Chan Kwong-yee (penalty) replied for the Chinese Police. In the second period, Kong Hing and Wong Man-wai scored for the Police while Stone and Spencer completed the Navy's tally.

HONG KONG LADIES BEAT SAINTS

C.B.A. TAKE POINTS OFF CLUB DE RECREIO

FUSILIER AND RIFLES' LADIES WIN

DISPLAYING much better team work and understanding, the Hong Kong Ladies beat St. Andrew's Ladies in their Caer Clark Cup hockey match by two clear goals on the United Services Recreation Club ground yesterday.

St. Andrew's were unlucky not to have made a draw of it, but they had only their forwards to blame, for opportunities for them to score were by no means few, and but for the fact that they were too inclined to wander about when inside the circle they would at least have shared the points.

It was the Saints who first took up the attack, and in the first five minutes of the game they were all over the Hong Kong Ladies, who took some time to settle down. Once they did this, however, they had more of the play, though the Saints did have a couple of glorious opportunities of scoring, once when Miss Phyllis Gittins missed an open goal!

The winners' distribution stood out in sharp contrast against the "bunching" methods of the Saints, and it was in this connection that the latter made their biggest mistake. Instead of feeding their wingers, the inside forwards, and also the intermediate line, preferred to bunch together whenever they gained possession of the ball and as a result several scoring opportunities went begging.

After a whirlwind start by St. Andrew's, Hong Kong Ladies settled down to play a cool, steady game and their persistent raids on the St. Andrew's goal bore fruit when Miss Ferguson found the net with a weak shot which looked decidedly like "sticks."

The game had only been in progress for about two minutes after the change-over when Miss P. Gittins went through on her own, and drawing Miss J. Smalley out of goal, she had only to tap the ball into the net, but failed to do so by a matter of inches!

Encouraged by this stroke of luck, Hong Kong Ladies once again took up the offensive and carried the ball down to the other end of the field and the St. Andrew's defence were then given a busy time. The second goal for the winners came from Mrs. Harrop, who scored with a rising shot. Then followed a gruelling five minutes for the Hong Kong Ladies' defence, for the Saints attacked with a vengeance and only the brilliant work of Miss E. Gray and Miss J. Smalley kept them from scoring.

H.K. Ladies: — Miss J. Smalley; Miss E. Gray, Miss R. Smalley; Miss J. Dalziel, Miss B. Pope, Miss K. Glover; Mrs. P. M. Harrop, Miss F. Marsh, Miss M. Smalley, Mrs. H. Propper and Miss C. Ferguson.

St. Andrew's Ladies: — Mrs. Rose; Miss G. White, Miss R. Stephenson; Miss J. Humphreys, Miss J. Wong, Miss L. Jorje; Miss E. Wong, Miss M. Roza, Miss P. Gittins, Miss S. West and Miss J. Booker.

MISS PETERS EXCELS

In a poor game at King's Park yesterday, the Central British Association Ladies, the champions, beat Recreio Ladies by two clear goals in the Caer Clark Cup League.

In one respect, in their poor finishing. This almost brought about their undoing as they only just gained a victory by virtue of a penalty, just after the interval.

Eastern played resolute football and offered a stubborn resistance to the overwhelming superiority of their opponents, and almost succeeded in snatching a win.

Wilson registered for the Rifles in the first half and the lead was increased 10 minutes after the interval through Coyle, who converted a penalty.

A breakthrough by the Eastern right winger reduced the lead, but despite determined attempts they could not draw level.

THIRD DIVISION

SAINTS DEFEATED

After a very even game, the Fusiliers beat St. Joseph's in their Third Division soccer match at Prince Edward Road by the odd goal in five. G. Gottsche (2) scored for the Saints, while Roberts Catlin and Tatler replied for the Fusiliers.

MEDICALS BEAT RECREIO

In their encounter at Happy Valley the R.A.M.C. defeated Recreio by the odd goal in five. Harrison (2) and Castell scored for the Medicals, and Maher and Gonsalves for Recreio.

WATSON'S FINE KICKING

The fine performance of the Club backs, the good goal-kicking of Watson, a rousing display by the skip's forwards in the loose and the tackling of Lieut. Patridge and Lieut. Ackery were the main features of the friendly Rugby encounter at the Valley yesterday when the Club beat H.M.S. Hermes by two goals, two penalty goals and a try (19 points) to a penalty goal (3 points).

The game was by far the best of the season and was featured by splendid passing, running and tackling, while the Hermes forwards certainly showed up their opposite numbers in the loose, feeling brilliantly from the tight scrums. Where the ship's side was weak was in their back division, where they had only two good men in Lieut. Patridge and Lieut. Ackery.

Their halves threw away glorious opportunities of opening up the game, particularly E. R. A. Evans, who, despite the fact that he dropped an excellent penalty-goal, was very weak behind the scrum in the fly-half berth, while Pluggo tumbled on several occasions with his threequarters waiting for the ball.

Bidwell again stood head and shoulders above the rest of the threequarters on display, scoring two tries and paving the way for one other earlier on in the game.

Another feature of the Club display was the good understanding between Bonnar and Butcher, who are undoubtedly the best pair of halves we have seen this season. Bonnar was very good yesterday while Butcher seems to improve with every game. The forwards were a ragged lot, with the exception of Watson and Heath, who were always to the fore, while Bradford shone in patches.

A "Navy" Discovery?

Curtis, who was being given a trial at full-back, did not inspire confidence, and had the Navy selectors been present they would have discovered the right selection for their full-back berth in A. B. Oxenham, who has outshone anyone in this position this season. He was very sure in his handling and kicked a beautiful length, finding touch on almost every occasion, while his defence was equally good.

Bidwell opened the scoring when he executed a corker over run through the Hermes defence to score wide of the posts, Watson failing with the kick. Soon after the Hermes were penalised for off-side and Watson landed his first penalty goal with a good effort.

The Hermes were awarded a free-kick for an infringement near the half-way mark and Evans, attempting a drop at goal from the mark, had the satisfaction of seeing his effort hit the cross-bar and drop the right side.

The second half saw the Club backs all over the opposition and Bidwell paved the way for a fine try on the left, sending Chadwick over in the corner for Watson to convert with a brilliant effort. Watson increased the score soon after with his second penalty-goal and just before the end Bidwell crossed the Hermes' line after a magnificent effort and he added the two points himself.

Club 1st XV:—M. H. Curtis, H. van Leeuwen, W. E. Grieve, H. D. Bidwell, G. K. Chadwick, A. H. R. Butcher, J. L. Bonnar, N. E. Clarke, J. S. Dunnett, K. A. Watson, I. H. Bradford, W. E. Peers, H. W. E. Heath, A. F. Walkden (Captain) and J. Rodman.

H.M.S. Hermes:—A. B. Oxenham; Lieut. Ackery, Lieut. Patridge, R. M. Lieut. Burch, R. M. F/O Weir; E. R. A. Evans (Captain) and Lieut. Pluggo; Surg. Lieut. Miles, A. B. Somers, Sig. Ford, M. Davidson, A. G. Frizzell, Lieut. Lucy, Ldg. Wtr. Rogers and L. A. C. Woodward.

Club "A" Beat Rifles

A very ragged Rugby match was witnessed at the Valley yesterday when the Club "A" beat the Royal Ulster Rifles by a goal and a try (8 points) to nil. D. Hynes, the Club left centre-threequarter, being the outstanding player on view, while Lt. Lincoln, the Army captain and hooker, was seen in the Rifles' threequarter line, where he also shone.

The Rifles were unlucky in the manner of injuries as just after the start of the second half L/Opl. Fleming had his knee put out and was carried off, and only a few minutes later 2nd/Lieut. Johnson sustained an ugly gash under the right-eye and was also compelled to leave. It was following these

TO-DAY'S FOOTBALL PROGRAMME

Tsui Ah-Fai To Play
For K. Chinese

Some very interesting football should be witnessed to-day on the Club ground when the Kowloon Chinese entertain the East Lanes, in the First Division in a game which promises to be one of the most evenly contested this season.

The Chinese will be strengthened by the inclusion of Tsui Ah-fai the All-China soccer player, and will be assisted by Ho Chor-yin and Lai Kwok-chui. In the forward line Wong Wing-hon, will be a doubtful starter owing to an injury received last week.

The East Lanes, will probably retain the same team which did well against South China "B" last week, and with their fair share of luck should at least divide the points. Smith and Sandford are a useful pair on the right-wing, but the latter should shoot more often.

South China "A" meet Chinese Athletic at Caroline Hill and should win, though not too comfortably. They have reinstated Wong Mei-shun in the pivotal position after his splendid performance on Armistice Day. Tam Kong-pak will be at inside-left, and Lau Mau will be playing at left-back.

The following is to-day's programme:

TENNIS AS IT SHOULD BE

Tilden And Vines In Action This Week

ARRANGEMENTS CANCELLED
OWING TO SHIP'S DELAY

W. T. "Big Bill" Tilden and H. Ellsworth Vines, the two famous professional lawn tennis aces who gave an exhibition in the Colony on the Stand Court of the Hong Kong Cricket Club last Monday and Tuesday, are expected to return to the Colony next Friday when it is hoped they will give a further five-set exhibition on the same court commencing at 3 p.m. sharp—not 3.30 p.m. This will, it is hoped, be followed by the last five-set exhibition match on Saturday.

On their last visit here Ellsworth Vines won on both days, beating Tilden by 15-13, 6-3, last Monday, and by 10-8, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 last Tuesday, the stands being packed to capacity on both days.

Owing to the delay in sailing of the s.s. President Lincoln, which will not leave Manila until Wednesday, all the earlier arrangements for exhibitions to-morrow and Tuesday have had to be cancelled.

We understand that the L.T.A. are now trying to arrange the two exhibitions for next Friday and Saturday, but it is extremely doubtful whether the Saturday exhibition can be held at the H.K.C.C. in the afternoon as the Club have a premier League cricket match against the Army on that date. The K.C.C. ground is also booked for a senior League game, and the only solution therefore is to play in the morning at the H.K.C.C., if that is possible, or play at the Chinese Recreation Club in the afternoon.

It must also be remembered that next Saturday's sports programme will include the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting.

Tilden has autographed a tennis racket which is now being raffled in aid of Earl Haig's Poppy Day Fund. Tickets are obtainable at all sports clubs.

MINIATURE RIFLE MATCH
ALSO ON CARD

A Kowloon Cricket Club tennis team, comprising seven men and three ladies, left last Friday night for Canton by the s.s. Fatsan, and to-day will meet the German Club, at Tungshan, in a series of tennis matches, while a shooting match, on the Tungshan Miniature Range, will be held this morning.

The players who left on Friday were Miss O. Dalziel, Miss A. Mackenzie and Messrs. E. C. Fincher, A. W. Ramsey, W. W. Hirst, V. H. Freeman, A. G. Philipps, R. S. Capell and S. A. Gray.

The other lady member of the team, Miss M. Griffiths, left for Canton yesterday afternoon.

The team will leave Canton by the night boat to-night, arriving here early to-morrow morning.

BADMINTON ERROR

The statement in last Sunday's issue to the effect that Miss Muriel Smith intended to play badminton for the V. R. C. is declared to be incorrect. Miss Smith is the ladies' captain of the St. John's team.

The local agents of Johnnie Walker Whisky, Messrs. Caldbek Magregor and Messrs. A. Ltd., have issued very neat Hong Kong Cricket League fixture cards for the 1936-37 season. These cards, which were given away free at the various Clubs, should prove invaluable to all who participate in local League cricket.

Wholesale Extraction Avoided

"All the credit, I believe, due to—
"A patient came for treatment...
The usual treatment suggested would be wholesale extraction (which I detest). I scaled, and gave him a tube of 'S.R.'
He returned when the tube was finished, I advised him to get another tube and carry on, which he did. When he called again the month was clean and whole, some, and all I shall do for him now is one extraction of a stump. All the credit, I believe, is due to 'S.R.'"

SINO-BRITISH FRIENDSHIP

Mr. W. M. Kirkpatrick
Interviewed

CONTACTS IN LONDON

London, Yesterday.
"The interest with which I look forward to my work in China is more than doubled by the approval of my appointment shown towards me everywhere," said Mr. W. M. Kirkpatrick, interviewed by Reuter yesterday. Apart from the press comment, which had been universally favourable, Mr. Kirkpatrick said, hardly any business organisation in the country, from the Federation of British Industries downwards, had not sent him congratulations and good wishes. "It is evident too that these feelings are not due only to the desire for increased trade, but also to a genuine desire to promote Sino-British friendship," he remarked.

Besides making the acquaintance of official Chinese, with whom he has had several long conversations, Mr. Kirkpatrick recently visited the Chinese Institute and addressed about 40 indemnity students, who closely questioned him afterwards and entertained him to tea. "This was a particularly pleasant meeting," he said. "I have since received some most charming letters from the students, one of whom particularly wishes me to meet his family at Nanking and promises that they will give me good shooting."

STUDYING BOOKS
Mr. Kirkpatrick is now assiduously studying the most informing works on China and is daily working at the Export Credits Department to familiarise himself with every aspect of Chinese business. "I am also eating an inordinate number of luncheons and dinners to meet people interested in the Far East," he added. "I shall really have to take a course of starvation on board the steamer."
Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick are leaving for Shanghai by the P. and O. s.s. Rawalpindi on December 9.

KING'S VISIT TO THE FLEET

Immensely Successful
Inspection

MESSAGES EXCHANGED

London, Yesterday.
"I congratulate you all," was signalled from the Royal Yacht when H. M. the King, as Admiral of the Fleet, bade au revoir to the officers and men on completing a busy two-days' inspection of the Home Fleet. His Majesty entertained at Weymouth for London yesterday afternoon.

That the King's visit to the Fleet was immensely successful and his satisfaction real is shown by the messages exchanged after his departure. The King wirelessed all ships: "I wish to express to the Flag and commanding officers my entire satisfaction at all I have seen. The appearance of the ships and men was admirable."

The Commander-in-Chief, in reply, declared that all the officers and men highly valued the message and were greatly privileged by the King's inspection. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

FOOD "WASHED" WITH PURE AIR

Constantly Circulating

in the Modern Air Conditioned Refrigerator

Certain stored foods pass off impurities, unpleasant in odor, which are quickly absorbed by other foods. Thus food, to remain impurity-free and to prevent decay, must be kept in air that is constantly purified as well as chilled. Cold alone is not enough!

The new OLYMPIC ICE Refrigerator, utilizing SIX-SIDED REFRIGERATION, keeps vitalized fresh air constantly circulating around your food. It "picks up" odors and impurities, carries them to the melting ice film, where they are absorbed and eliminated through the drain pipe. Food odors cannot interchange!

Too, the new OLYMPIC Air Conditioned Refrigerator maintains the correct balance of moisture in the air, preventing foods from drying out. Foods retain their natural flavors, juices and vitamins.

Our Ice Service Man will gladly demonstrate the new OLYMPIC Refrigerator.

BAL MASQUE FOR CHARITY

Splendid Result Achieved

THANKS EXPRESSED

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul is gratified at being able to present the following accounts of the Bal Masque recently held at the Gloucester Hotel.

The Society first of all wishes to tender their most grateful thanks to Mrs. Beatrice Church and the Directors and Staff of the Advertising and Publicity Bureau, Ltd., who gave so freely of their valuable time. Mrs. Beatrice Church's well-known organising ability, backed by the unique experience of the Advertising and Publicity Bureau, Ltd., was a sure guarantee of the success of the Bal Masque.

The Society also wishes to thank most gratefully all who volunteered so readily to assist Mrs. Beatrice Church. Particularly, thanks are due to the Judges for their painstaking care in the difficult task of adjudging the prizes for costumes; to Mrs. S. H. Dodwell for so graciously giving away the prizes to the winners; to the ladies who so kindly volunteered to act as Dance Hostesses; to the ladies who sold tickets and programmes; to the Hong Kong Daily Press, China Mail, and Sunday Herald who devoted space in their papers to publicity and advertising for the Ball without any charges; to the Gloucester Hotel who gave their space in the South China Morning Post and Telegraph to the same purpose, and who provided the printing of the tickets; to the South China Morning Post and Telegraph, who accepted advertising at a reduced price; to Messrs. Lane Crawford; Messrs. Reuter, Brockelmann & Co.; Messrs. British American Tobacco Co. Ltd.; Messrs. Dodwell & Co.; and Messrs. Calbeck Macgregor & Co. Ltd.; Messrs. General Electric (China) Co. Ltd.; who so generously contributed prizes; to the gentlemen who contributed towards the purchases of additional prizes, as already acknowledged through the Press; to the Star Ferry Co., and the Peak Tram Co. for displaying posters free of charge, and to the Advertising & Publicity Bureau, Ltd., for designing the posters.

STREET SALE OF FLOWERS

About $3,000 Taken
For Free School

MISS LAU WOON-TO AGAIN
HIGHEST COLLECTOR.

The street sale of flowers carried out yesterday in aid of the Hong Kong Confucian Society's free vernacular schools resulted in approximately $3,000 being collected towards this very deserving cause.

There are altogether 17 free schools maintained by the Society and the money collected will greatly augment the funds required for the maintenance of these institutions.

At the conclusion of the sale yesterday, the Committee members of the Society gave a dinner at the Kam Loong Restaurant in honour of those who had helped with the sale, and the opportunity was taken to congratulate Miss Lau Woon-to, daughter of Mr. Lau King-ting, who collected the highest amount, namely $121.56. It will be recalled that at last year's sale Miss Lau also returned the highest collection, her $443.55 representing a record for any individual collector in sales organised by the Society.

Miss Luen Shing-ting, returning $34.19 yesterday, was the second highest collector.

JUMBLE SALE AT ST. ANDREW'S

$100 Collected

A very successful jumble sale was held in St. Andrew's Church Hall yesterday under the auspices of the Diocesan Old Girls' Association and the Diocesan Girls' School.

A large array of articles and clothing were on display at most attractive prices, and the sale produced very satisfying results, the attendance being so encouraging that approximately $100 was taken. After the "customers" had departed, however, it was found that a few pieces of clothing were left over, and it is understood that these will be given to the Hong Kong Benevolent Society.

The following ladies helped with the sale: Mrs. A. E. P. Guent, Mrs. E. C. Fincher, Mrs. S. Jox, Mrs. Fenner, and the Misses M. Churn, K. Grose, M. Grose, Joyce Anderson, Nora Zimmern and Ethel Banker.

Two cases of diphtheria and three of enteric fever were reported to the local Health authorities during the 24 hours ended on Friday.

"Hong Kong Head" Affliction Irritability And Then Forgetfulness Epidemic In Colony

(By A Special Correspondent)

THERE is such a thing in medical lore as the "Punjab Head," a designation which is meant to describe a mental condition which afflicts the European and which arises as a result of residence in India. Its main features are irritability and forgetfulness. It is, of course, a characteristic of most tropical regions, and might equally well be called "Hong Kong Head" and so complete the nomenclature of the ailments which attack the parts of our body which are equidistant from one another—so we would then be liable to Hong Kong Foot, Hong Kong Dog and Hong Kong Head.

With regard to irritability, this symptom is not perhaps so prominent in Hong Kong as we might expect. Possibly the necessity for repression in polite society of any unsocial quality restricts its exhibition to the privacy of one's home. Few there are who are openly reduced by climatic conditions to the dreadful confession of the formula—"Where I am not, there happiness is." Only occasionally do we meet such a victim, whose restlessness, impatience and shifting interests betoken a malaise, for which there is no care, certainly not in this Colony.

It is the forgetfulness part of this affliction which seems to be epidemic in the Colony. It is not unusual to meet a fellow citizen, a person with whom you are quite intimate—the men seem to be much more susceptible to this mental disease than the women—who does not confess that he has quite forgotten your name. He will admit that he lives in fear of having suddenly to introduce two of his friends to one another, both of whom he has known for many years, while in the panic of the moment he either forgets both of their names or certainly one.

At Critical Moments

The problem is really a serious one for it presents itself at critical moments just when the individual is off his guard. Often the name is there when the person it belongs to is absent, but when the person is present the name is absent; the attempt to bring the two together produces a mental excitement which simply causes them to recede further and further from one another. To one poor unfortunate individual the matter is becoming such an obsession that after inviting a friend and his wife to dinner and then having to rush in to his own wife at the last moment to find out their names he has had recurrent nightmares from which he awakens in a cold perspiration!

He recounts that on the last occasion he dreamed that he had made an appointment to play tennis and having forgotten all about it till it was too late, he went to the Club and there found his friend somewhat disconsolate but still on speaking terms. He then suggested that as it was too late for tennis he might accompany him home to dinner. The invitation having been accepted the dreamer telephoned to his wife to announce the fact and had to ask his wife over the telephone not to bother if he mumbled his friend's name when he introduced him as he could not remember what it was, and would not be able to find out before returning. Having accepted a return invitation to dinner he found himself in town at 8 p.m. on the date of appointment, only to realise that his dinner suit was not available and had to be sent for. He then set out on his journey half an hour late to find a house the name of which he had forgotten. He wakened up suffering from hunger and complete exhaustion, his quest for his friend in the various parts of the Colony proving quite unsuccessful.

A dream of this sort is a severe strain but not so serious a strain as the actual experience is in real life, an experience which for many of us is all too common.

Unpleasant Associations

There is a theory that we forget any name which has unpleasant associations. These associations may have nothing whatever to do with the person whose names we forget but may be suggested by, and recalled to our consciousness by that name. Thus, for example, if we had ever been knocked down by a motor car and badly hurt we would on this principle not remember the name of a person called Carr or Horne. If, however, we were handsomely compensated because of the accident and recovered completely through the loving attentions of the sister who nursed us through the succeeding sickness we should probably remember such names quite well. Carr, Driver, Horne, Hood, etc., would leap into the mind as it were with joy, especially if we married the sister and found happiness thereby!

This theory would seem to indicate that there are an unconscionable number of people in Hong Kong who rouse unpleasant memories, for the malady of forgetfulness is widespread. It may be so, of course, but the truth probably lies in the effect of the climate which no doubt has a debilitating influence on the nerve cells, making the brain lose its freshness and producing a dolce far niente state of mind which refuses to work unnecessarily even to the extent of recalling a friend's name.

The only solution of the problem seems to lie in every person's being compelled by law to wear his name legibly in his button-hole and thus putting an end to those distressing episodes which at present disfigure social life. The name had better be in luminous characters so that even in the darkness the victim of this form of forgetfulness will be able to continue his course with a quiet, untroubled mind.

Wise and Otherwise.

Butch and Gyppo sat in a cell. "How long you in for?" asked Butch. "Ninety-nine years," returned Gyppo gloomily. "How about you?" "The first convict sighed. "I'm worse off than you," he muttered. "I'm in for life!"

Sample
No matter how many times a year Uncle Eli goes to the city, he just can't seem to get used to city ways, specially round restaurants. As a result, he often gets into embarrassing predicaments. Just the other day a waitress in a Washington cafe set his order before him. Picking up the small portion of steak, Eli examined it critically and said: "Yep, that's exactly what I want. Bring me some of it."

A man driving a truck containing barnyard fertilizer was passing the insane asylum.

One of the patients asked him what he was going to do with it. He replied: "We put it on our strawberries."

The patient said, "You should come and stay with us. We have sugar and cream on ours."

SUSPICION

The grizzled mountaineer sat in a kitchen with his wife. They were drinking corn liquor out of a gallon jug. At four a.m., the door opened and their pretty, eighteen-year-old daughter breezed in.

The old man jumped up. "Where ya' been?" he thundered.

"Nowheres," returned the girl easily. "Nowheres."

The mountaineer slammed the jug off the table.

"Don't ya' lie ter me," he bellowed. "Any gal who comes home sober at this hour has been up ter somethin'!"

NAVY WIT
A lady reader obligingly writes us this little tale about a first classman at Devonport.

It seems, says she, that a certain middle scored a big social success with one of his blind dates, an extremely wealthy and fairly attractive girl from London. The attraction was mutual, and for a long time the two were thick as thieves. Eventually, however, our middle got tired of the young lady's high-handed ways, and she in turn got fed-up with certain of his personal peculiarities. In short, they decided to break things off.

Well, after some time the middle received insistent letters from his ex-girl that he return her photograph. These he ignored in the very best Navy tradition. Finally he received curt notice that if he did not mail the photograph immediately, a gentleman of much influence at the Admiralty would take drastic steps through official channels.

Whereupon, our unperturbed midshipman rounded up all the available photographs in Devonport—photos of sisters, cousins, O. A. O's, and plain femmes. These he wrapped in one enormous bundle which he mailed to London with the following note:

"Please pick yours out. I've forgotten what you look like."

Murphy had been careless in handling the blasting powder at the quarry, and Duffy had been delegated to break the news gently to his widow.

"Mrs. Murphy," said he, "I'm 'fraid shop wished to purchase a shroud, but the price she was asked seemed exorbitant. I could buy it for half the price in Dublin," she continued.

"Yes," replied the draper, "and the corpse would have his knees through it in a week."

A Homely M.D.: "Ah! I've caught you under the mistletoe at last, and now I'm going—"

"Pretty Girl: 'No you're not, Doc. There's only one thing you'll ever be able to kiss me under.'"

"Yes! What's that?"

"An anesthetic!"

Robert: "I've a great mind to rock the boat and frighten you."

Marie: "Once a young man like you tried that with me, and the boat upset."

Robert: "And what did you do?"

Marie: "I swam ashore and notified the coroner."

There once lived a fellow named Bell. He is dead; you may say. "Just as well!"

He invented the 'phone, which some grumblers will own. Should ensure him a warm place in—Harrow.

A coloured labourer doing a hauling job was informed that he could not get his money until he had submitted an itemised statement. After much headscratching and pencil-gnawing, he evolved the following bill:

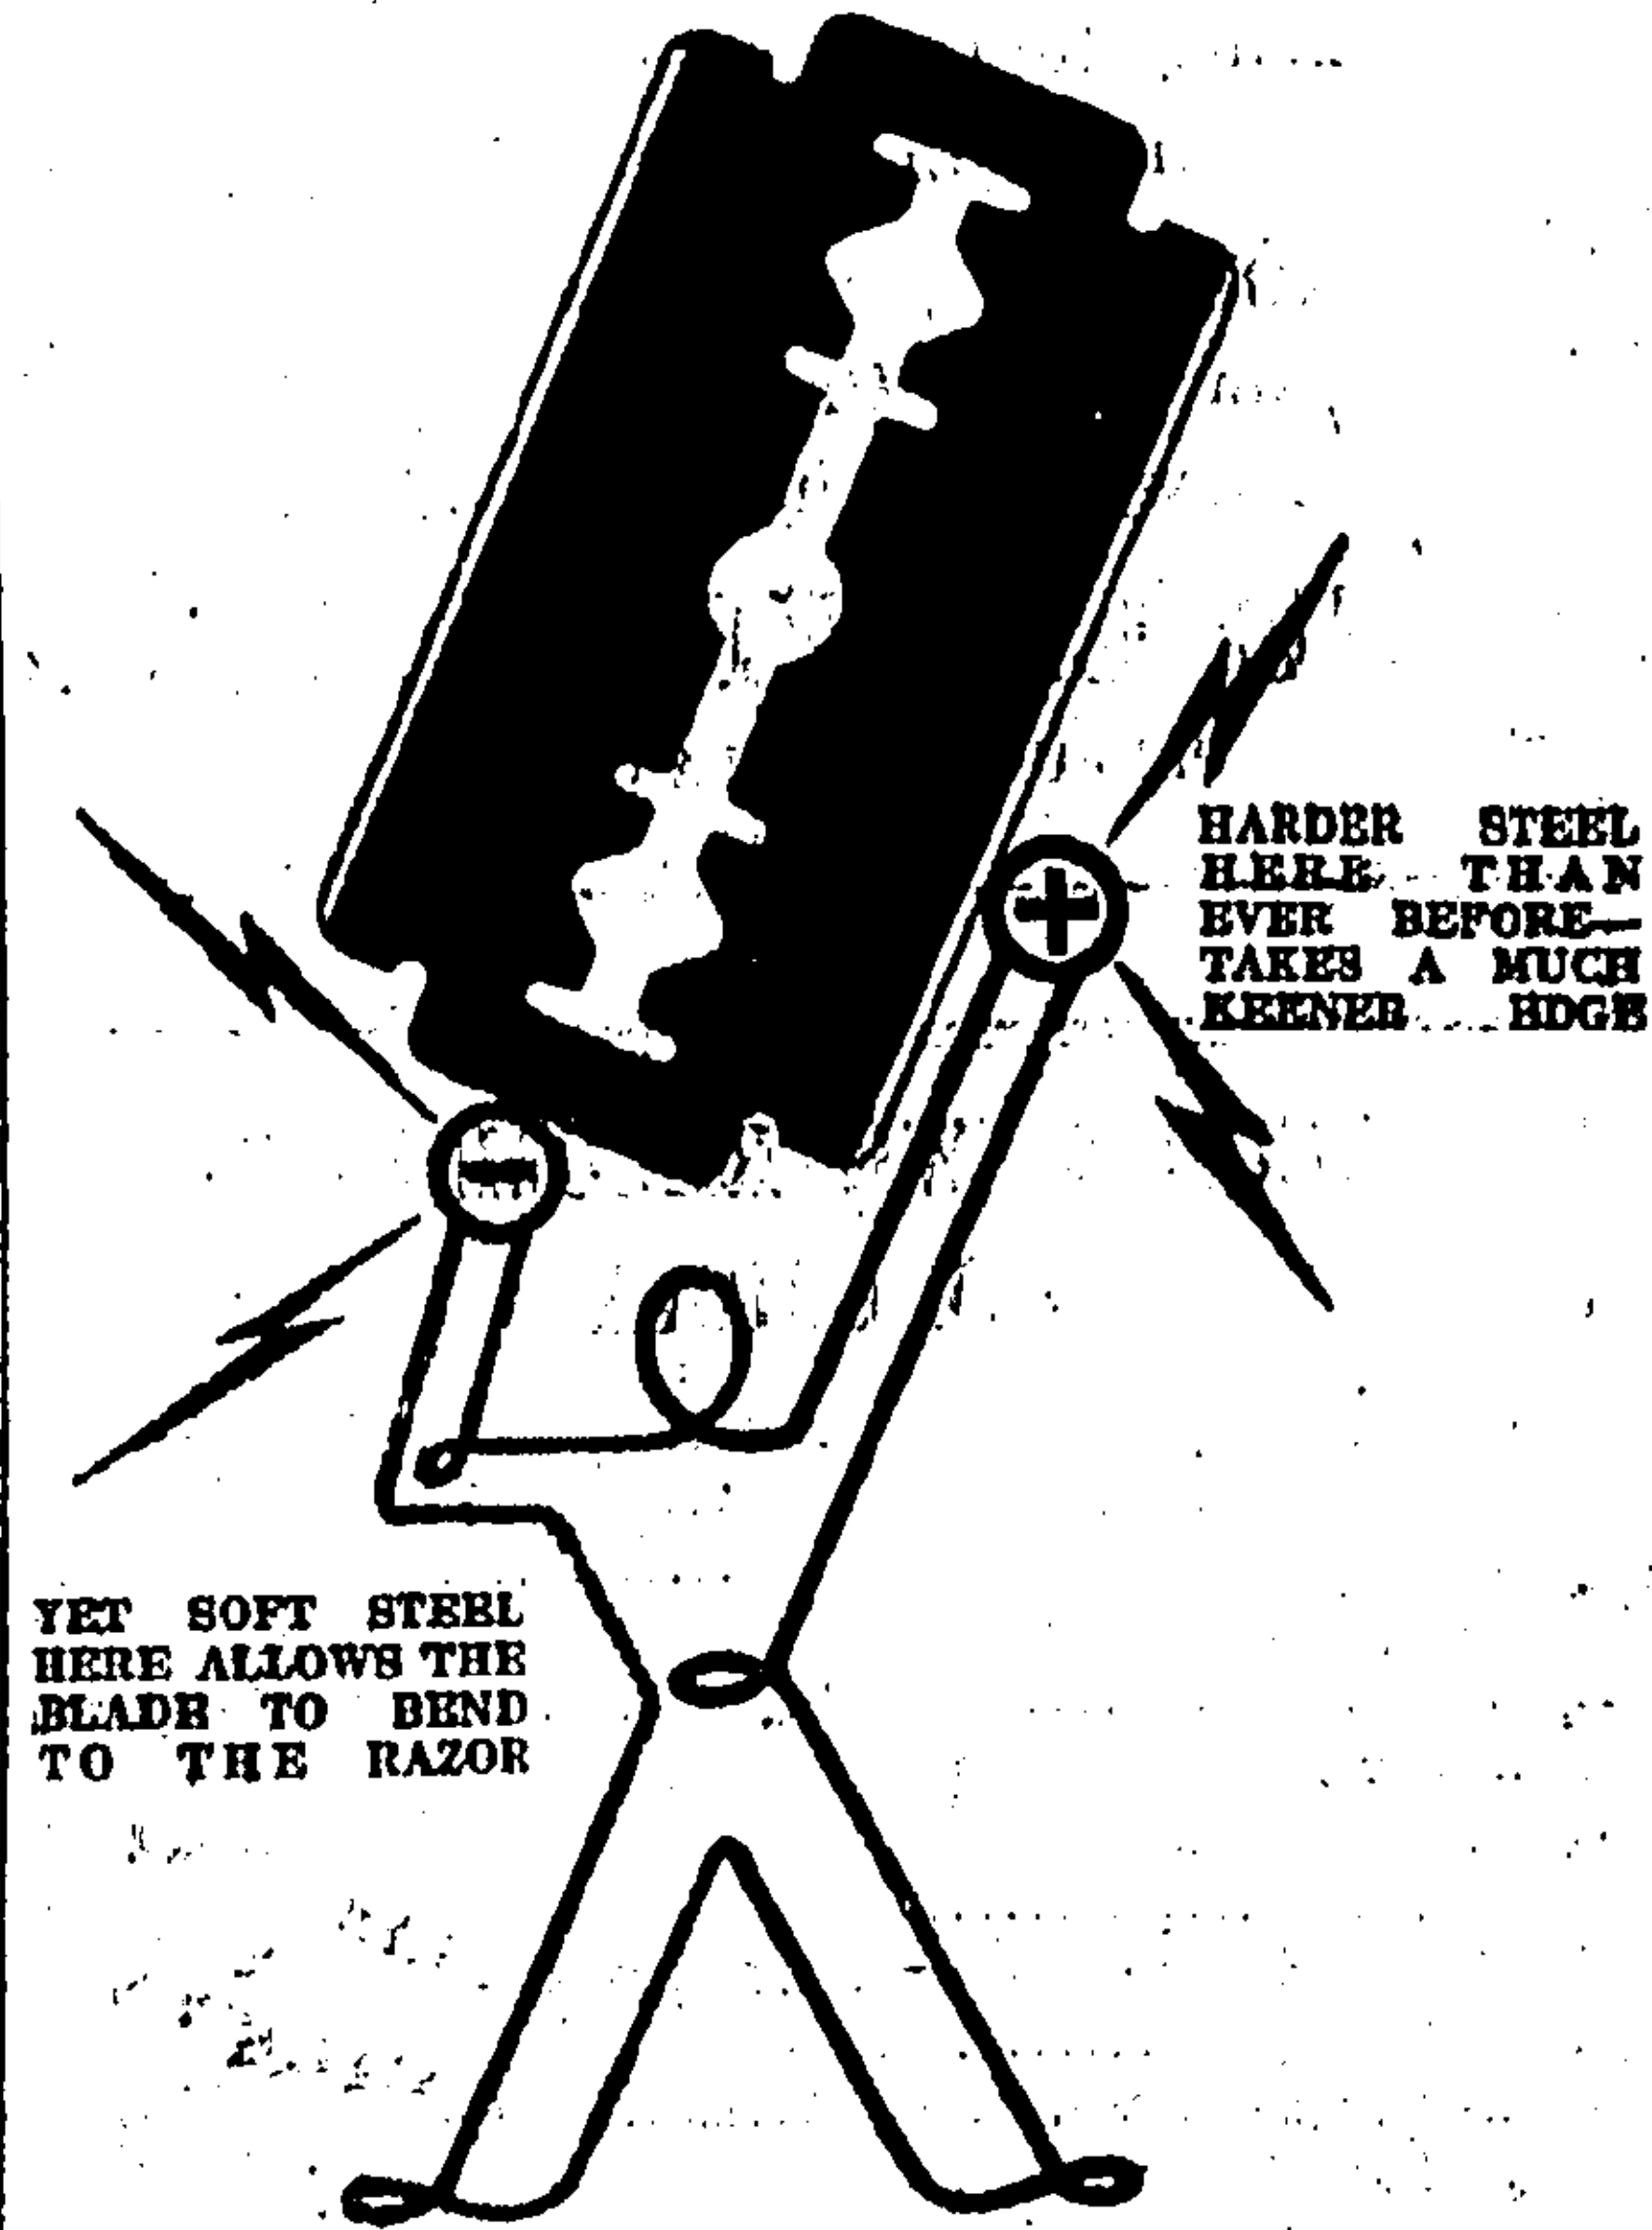

"3 comes and 3 goes at 2 bob a went, 6-bob."

Traveller (dialing in dorp hotel): "Why does that dog sit there and watch me all the time?"

Walter: "You've got the plate he usually eats from, sir."

The Spanish Slaughter

THE worst fact about the anarchy in Spain is that there is so little definite news about it. The absence of new developments capable of being reported in the twenty-seven Provinces from which we have no information whatever does not mean that nothing is happening, but only that the communications have broken down, and that obscure skirmishes have been going on accompanied by wholesale "executions" — indistinguishable from murders — of which it will take years for a connected account to be compiled.

The embroilment of Portugal in the actual fighting has nominally been avoided, but the border has been open and there has been much going and coming. Dr. Salazar has had the difficult job of trying to avoid a break with absolutely irreconcilable combatants, and at the same time justifying to watchful Powers incidents that would have been breaches of neutrality if there had been any real control of the frontier. The most disturbing fact to him was that the "rebels" or "insurgents" or "nationalists" or "loyalists" — the title is chosen by each correspondent according to his own sympathies — were for a time established in a Lisbon Hotel. The advance to the South made removal necessary and convenient, but the fact shows clearly that the Socialist factions in Portugal are what he was chiefly afraid of. Should he succeed in coming through without another revolution there will be no wish to press home too strictly such charges as were brought by M. Litvinov in his characteristic attempt to anticipate similar charges that he knew would be brought against the Soviet Government.

So far as one can judge from the events that have been described in the cables there is little but discouragement for those who love peace. There is first of all the clear demonstration that even if the League of Nations should succeed in keeping the European armies within their own frontiers it will not have removed the chance of desperate and bloody fighting. It is admitted by all who have studied the history of the previous attempt to establish general peace by the Holy Alliance and the Convert of Europe, that no international organisation can safely be authorised to interfere with the internal affairs of a State. That way lies oppression and tyranny. But this fighting is for ideas, and ideas know no boundaries. The ideas themselves are manifold and not easy for anyone to grasp who has not kept up with all the economic theories of the last half century, and also read a good deal of the history of Spain. One can only say that on the side of the former Government are at least four parties to whose only bond is that they think they would be better able to win out if the Government suppresses the rebellion, and on the other side there are at least as many parties that make the same calculation in case the rebels win. It seems absurd to say that men should not fight for an ideal or a principle. It is difficult to refrain from admiration for those who champion a principle — especially if they win. The Spanish Monarchists, for example, seem to be mostly of the Carlist persuasion, advocates of the restoration of a former dynasty rather than of ex-King Alfonso, whom they accuse of deserting them. Recollecting how for a hundred years the Jacobites in our own country toasted "the King over the water," and how even great Whig nobles like the Duke of Marlborough corresponded with St. Germain so as to be on the safe side, we cannot too hotly condemn the men who give their loyalty to "lost causes and forsaken beliefs and impossible loyalties."

An army engaged in a struggle will accept help from any source, and there can be no doubt that the "non-intervention" agreement came too late to stop many volunteers and some cargoes of munitions reaching both sides. Whatever suspicions may rest on the Soviets of assisting the Government, and on Italy and Germany of supplying aeroplanes and bombs to the forces of General Franco, no Government can prevent individual subjects from volunteering their services or making gifts. The non-intervention scheme has at any rate the credit for preventing official interference, and official war. The refusal of supplies to a duly elected Government is something new in international war, but it looks like the first step towards a new definition of neutrality, which ought to mean that countries not directly engaged in war shall refuse to help belligerents, whether they are fighting outside or inside their country. The recently passed neutrality law of the United States is based on that principle, and it is being advocated by some influential writers, such as Mr. Wickham Steed in his last book.

ENGAGEMENT

The forthcoming wedding has been announced between Donald, son of Surgeon Capt. (Retd.) and Mrs. Herbert Hope Gill of Kingswear, S. Devon, and Grace, elder daughter of Mr. & Mrs. John Grover Meadows of Manly.

Hong Kong Personalities

Continuing the exclusive series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Kony, the talented Hungarian artist.

OUR personality for to-day is Dr. Li Shu-pui, the son of the late Mr. Li Hok-pak and Mrs. Li.

Born in Canton in 1903, he received his education at the Canton Christian College, now known as the Lingnam University. From Canton he went to Peking, where he joined the Peking Union Pre-Medical School before coming to Hong Kong to join the University here, taking his M.B., B.S. degrees in 1928. While at the University he won the Ng Lai-hing and Chan Kai-ming scholarships for his second M.B. examination. On graduating he went on to the Government Civil Hospital, where he held the position of House Surgeon, but a year later he left for Vienna to take a post-graduate course in diseases of the nose, ear and throat. He then took a course in surgery in Edinburgh, where he also passed his examination for F.R.C.S., being the first graduate of the University of Hong Kong to gain this distinction.

From Edinburgh Dr. Li went to America, visiting the leading clinics and hospitals before returning to the Colony in 1930 to join his brother, Dr. Li Shu-fan, in the Li Clinic, and it was in that year that he was made a director of the Hong Kong Sanatorium and Hospital, the institution formerly known as the Young Woo Nursing Home. Dr. Li is specially interested in surgery of the tonsils, and in November 1935 he read a paper at the National Medical Conference, held in Canton, in the course of which he discussed the control of hemorrhage during and after tonsillectomy. He also demonstrated a special ligature tier which he invented.

Outside of his profession, Dr. Li Shu-pui has many interests, and in addition to being vice-president of the Chinese Medical Association, he is also vice-president of the University Alumni Association as well as a committee member of the Euro-American Returned Students' Association. He is also the visiting Ear, Nose and Throat surgeon at the Hong Kong Sanatorium and Hospital.

Dr. Li is still a very keen sportsman, and, though he no longer plays football and basketball, his favourite games while at the University, he indulges in shooting birds and big game, tennis and swimming.

GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS

The following Government appointments are notified in the Government Gazette—

Captain G. W. P. Kimm to be a member of the Board of Education for a further period of two years, with effect from November 28;

Mrs. Wong Chow Fuk Ying to be a member of the Nurses Board for a period of three years, with effect from November 9, vice Miss Kong Ching Poh, resigned.

TO-DAY'S QUOTATION

Inordinate ambition exposes us to falling from too great a height. —SENECA.

THE PASSING HOUR

BY A.N.M.

THE clear air and bright sunshine of Armistice Day, together with the perfect arrangements, made, the celebration unusually impressive. The date falls at exactly the right time of the year, so far as the weather is concerned. An old inhabitant who had been present at all the celebrations there have been told me that there had never been a drop of rain on Armistice Day. It may be old-fashioned, but to me it seems that there is no dropping off whatever in the poignancy of the two minutes' silence—an unusually imaginative thought to be taken up by the War Office—and there is much in the omens of current events to renew the appropriateness of the remembrance to all who went through the stresses of emotion to which the original Armistice Day brought relief. It is certainly a day of remembrance and a day that reminds us of our interconnection with the rest of the world, but the time does not seem yet to have come when any other name would appear more fitting. "Remembrance Day" and "International Day," which have been suggested, have not the intimate association of the old name. The recollection of those—often dear friends, sons or brothers—who gave their lives in answer to the call of duty is far too natural a thing to drop out, whatever be the manner of the recollection.

REVERSED ARMS

MR. Ramsay MacDonald's first Labour Government insisted that the military ceremonial was a concession to militarism, and that the troops should parade without arms. That sentiment requires discussion, and the implication goes very deep into the controversies of the hour. It ignores the fundamental distinction between the carrying of arms for defence and for aggression. Overwhelmingly our generation feels that the Napoleonic glorification of war is a crime against civilisation, and that already by adopting it as his inspiration Mussolini has put the clock back. The increased armaments now being provided will cost during this year more than the whole revenue of Italy, even if no rifle comes to be discharged "in anger." But far more important than the waste of material is the deterioration of public confidence. Duce has himself revealed that disarmament is not a precedent to be followed but a temptation to violence, and that a nation that is not ready for war cannot protect the weak. If the democratic nations are to maintain themselves at all the totalitarian nations cannot be allowed to retain the initiative that they have seized as soon as they realised that the public law had no physical support. For soldiers to parade without their arms implies that there is something to be ashamed of in carrying a weapon. So long as the weapon is carried for the protection of the law-abiding there is no reason to keep it in the background. A friend of the late Mrs. Besant asked her on her return from India whether she really approved of Gandhi's doctrines. "Of course not," she replied, "they mean anarchy." At the moment the British Army is suffering from a deficiency of recruits produced by the teaching of the very man who have recently demanded intervention for the protection of Abyssinia, and support of the Spanish Government against the rebels.

first revelation is that the absence of provocation by the Ethiopians was a great inconvenience. We remarked at the time that Ual-Ual, where a skirmish took place, was shown by English maps as 60 miles within the Abyssinian territory. It is now clear that the Italian maps corresponded with ours. But the most sensational revelations are that the submission of the local chiefs which rendered the occupation of Adowa and the subsequent rapid advance possible were secured by bribery. There was always a suspicion that intrigue had been busy, and it was known that most of the subordinate chiefs had at one time been at loggerheads with Haile Selassie or his predecessor Menelik, but a revelation by the Commander-in-Chief that victories had been bought on a cash basis is something new. The line of argument now is that not so much gas was used as has been alleged because it was not really necessary.

WALLACE'S SWORD

SCOTSMEN in general must have been much more interested in the theft of Wallace's sword than in any other "war news" of the week. The old Scottish Crown has always been preserved in Edinburgh Castle—a purple skull cap surrounded with a gold circlet and an orb—rich in associations but not very impressive with its faded and moth-eaten velvet. The next most sacred emblem was the sword, said to have been used by William Wallace and kept in a show case something like a grandfather clock in Stirling Castle, only a stone's throw, or at least a short stroll, from the field of Bannockburn where Bruce finished what Wallace began. What it was that Wallace actually did, and what he fought for, is not quite clear. In those old feudal days fees and dues and loyalties were so mixed up that motives are not easy to disentangle. Bruce himself served in the English Army at one time. The sword itself is a heavy weapon over five feet long, and cannot have been very serviceable even to a strong man. Moreover its "provenance" is not established beyond doubt. But as hundreds of thousands of people have made a pilgrimage to that gaunt old keep to see it, it is a pity that it should have disappeared, and we may hope for a speedy restoration.

Five Years Ago

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of November 21, 1931). At the end of the first day's play in the Interport match Shanghai are only 10 runs behind the Hong Kong total with six wickets in hand. Of the Colony's total of 138 O. G. Simpson was top-scorer with 25; while P. Madar, of Shanghai, with 31 not out, is the leading Shanghai batsman.

The first night of the A.D.C. production "Dear Brutus" was well attended. The Theatre Royal was packed. Mr. Rupert Foster was the producer and Mr. R. R. Davies the stage manager.

Hong Kong Ladies beat the Central British Association by a goal scored by Miss A. G. Orme early in the game. In spite of having more of the game and lasting better, the Central British Association were not able to equalise. The Misses D. Hunt, B. Walker and M. Martin were outstanding for the losers.

VISIT TO HOME FLEET

"Splice The Main Brace"

KING'S MESSAGE TO HIS NAVY

London, Yesterday.
H.M. the King concluded his visit to the Home Fleet at Portland yesterday afternoon with the flashing of two signals from the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert. The first was "Splice the main brace," which authorised an extra ration of rum or lime-juice, and the second was a message of congratulation to the fleet. It was addressed to all ships of the Home Fleet and shore establishments at Portland from His Majesty, and read: "I wish to express to Flag Officers and Commanding Officers my satisfaction with all I have seen. The appearance of the ships and men was admirable, and I congratulate you all."

The King immediately afterwards left the Royal Yacht in the Admiral's barge. All ships were manned, and as the barge moved slowly through the lines they fired a Royal Salute of 21 guns. The barge turned near the flagship and headed for the entrance to the harbour. As the boom of guns ceased it picked up speed, and shortly afterwards reached Weymouth Pier, where the King landed.

A large crowd of people lined the esplanade as His Majesty drove to Weymouth station, where he boarded a special coach attached to the London train.

The weather was fair yesterday and for most of the day, during which destroyers and submarines were inspected and several of them visited, the sun was shining. — British Wireless Service.

ILLICIT DRUG CASE

Alleged Possession Of Huge Amount

COOK AND FOUR WOMEN CHARGED

Pok King-cho, a cook, and four women were yesterday charged before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy with possession of heroin pills at No. 194 Tung Choi Street, Kowloon. The cook was further charged with possession of dangerous drugs at No. 51 Des Voeux Road Central.

Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmitt said that the case was a criminal one and that the Crown Solicitor would be conducting the case. He asked for a week's formal remand, which was granted. The male defendant was allowed bail of $5,000 and the others of $2,500.

Revenue Officer Grimmitt said that the quantity of pills and drugs found was very large. At Kowloon 50,000 pills were found, while in Hong Kong several pounds of drug were found, enough to make millions of pills.

LOOPHOLE IN ORDINANCE

SHIP'S MASTER IN COURT

SUMMONS DISMISSED

At the Marine Court yesterday, Capt. J. Hansen, master of the s.s. Hellas, was summoned for fouling a Government diving boat off the Railway Pier, Kowloon, on October 20, last.

When the case was called, the Marine Magistrate, the Hon. Comdr. G. F. Hole, R.N., retired, said that he was not going to ask Capt. Hellas to plead. He said that he had been going into the details of the case in Chambers and that he held, and was going to give it as a ruling, that in his opinion, Section 83 of Ordinance 10, 1899, was intended for buoys permanently cabled in the harbour and did not apply to temporary buoys that could be moved about. In the circumstances, Comdr. Hole said, he would dismiss the summons.

Miss Phyllis Dobson, who, as Miss California, is in the competition for Miss America 1936 at Atlantic City, is awarded one of the preliminary prizes offered in the beauty display. Major William F. Casey is making the presentation.

First Anniversary Of Commonwealth Filipino Community Celebrating To-day

To-day the Filipino community in every part of the world will commemorate the first anniversary of the Philippine Commonwealth, which was established in the presence of the late General George C. Dern, former United States Secretary of War, in Manila last November 15, when Senor Manuel Quezon was made the first President of the Commonwealth.

In the Colony the occasion will be celebrated on an even larger scale than Rizal Day.

A luncheon, which will be honoured by the presence of the United States Consul-General, Mr. Charles Hoover, and Mrs. Hoover, will be held in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel at 12.30 p.m. This will be followed by a concert, prior to which, Mr. R. P. de la Sala, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Filipino Club, will give a speech.

During the concert an orchestra, conducted by Mr. P. R. Antonio, will render a march entitled "Mi Patria" (My Country), which has been especially composed by the conductor for the occasion.

The function will be concluded with a dance later in the afternoon, when Mr. L. R. Idefonso, Secretary of the Filipino Club, will act as Master of Ceremonies. The "Lido" Orchestra will be in attendance.

SHARP SENTENCE ON SNATCHER

Six Months' Hard Labour

Pleading guilty to a charge of snatching a handbag from Mrs. Stevens, of No. 532, Nathan Road, while she was standing in Nathan Road near Dundas Street last Friday evening, an unemployed Chinese, Leung Tai-sing, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. MacFarland at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning.

According to the prosecution, the accused came up from behind the complainant and snatched the bag out of her hand. He was pursued and arrested by Mr. J. Mason, an ex-naval police officer, and Mr. E. Kay, of No. 562, Nathan Road, who both happened to be in the vicinity at the time when the incident occurred. The value of the bag, including the contents, amounted to $15.

The two gentlemen were congratulated by the magistrate for their timely action.

NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE

Italy May Possibly Withdraw

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Rome, Yesterday.
Regarding the rumours which arose after the Italian attack on the Soviet Union in the non-intervention committee's Thursday session, to the effect that Italy would withdraw from the committee, it is stated in responsible quarters here that before making any decision Italy would await Moscow's answer to the accusations made by the Italian representative, Signor Grandi, and also the decisions of the committee itself. With regard to establishing control over the Spanish harbours, it was declared that Italy would take no initiative in this respect. —Trans-Ocean Service.

FISTICUFFS IN FRENCH CHAMBER

VIOLENT SCENES LEAD TO BLACK EYES AND SORE SHINS

Paris, Yesterday.
The sitting of the Chamber was suspended yesterday following a violent scene during the debate concerning the military record of M. Salengro, Minister of Interior, who was recently vindicated by a Government commission following press allegations of cowardice during the Great War. About 50 Deputies were involved in a scuffle in which blows were exchanged, after M. Lecquart declared that M. Salengro was a revolutionary anti-militarist before the war.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED IN LONDON

London, Yesterday.—An earthquake shock estimated to have occurred about 1,500 miles distant was recorded on the seismograph in London yesterday between 12.51 and 2 p.m. The maximum swing of the needle was nearly two inches. —British Wireless Service.

SCENES OF HORROR WITNESSED AT RIO TINTO MINES

SAVAGE FIGHTING CONTINUES ON MALAGA FRONT

MILITIAMEN EQUIPPED WITH MODERN WEAPONS OF ALLEGED FOREIGN MANUFACTURE

Gibraltar, Yesterday.

Since the insurgents captured the British-owned Rio Tinto mines they have shot over 1,500 Communist miners, including 100 women, according to a high British official of the mine who has arrived here. Many executions were carried out publicly in the presence of the British Rio Tinto officials.

FROM A WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

LIFE IN MADRID TO-DAY

AIR RAID CONDITIONS

Madrid, Yesterday.

Life in the besieged city as seen through feminine eyes was described by Reuter's correspondent yesterday in a special interview with a young married Englishwoman who has been in Madrid since the beginning of the war.

"Shopping is terrible," she said. "This morning (Friday) there was a queue a mile long at a fishmonger's shop. The laundry is another problem, because while it is possible to get clothes washed there is not sufficient heat to warm irons, so that linen is untidy and uncomfortable. The gas supply has been cut off for a long time."

"Fashionable shopping is a thing of the past, as decently-dressed women are regarded as bourgeois and liable to molestation. I have to wear a nondescript overcoat from which the fur trimmings have been removed. Walking is also out of the question owing to the air-raids. Many women have been killed by bombs."

A SLY TRICK

"The shopping queues are a fact which is capitalised by sly women, who, finding themselves at the end of queues, start screaming that bombers are coming and then move up to the front of the queue into a vacancy created by the panic-stricken stampede."

The lady being interviewed confessed that she was becoming accustomed to falling prone in the middle of a public square and lying still, hoping for the best, when bombs are suddenly heard to be crashing. "It is the only thing to do, as the public shelters are very few. One meets many pathetic sights in the streets. People burying home after air-raids find their houses destroyed and their relatives and friends killed and injured." —Reuter.

FRANCE'S NEAR EASTERN MANDATES

Independent Republics To Be Created

Beirut, Yesterday.
With the signature of the Franco-Lebanon Treaty yesterday and the signature of the Syrian Treaty on December 1 both France's mandated territories in the Near East become independent republics. The treaties follow the lines of the Anglo-Iraq Treaty. —Reuter.

THE ARRESTS IN MOSCOW

FOLLOWED POLICE SUPERVISION

FEELING OF INSECURITY AMONG FOREIGNERS

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Warsaw, Yesterday.

With reference to the numerous arrests of foreigners which have recently been made in Moscow it is reported that a large number of foreigners had already been subjected to permanent police supervision for weeks. Many foreigners have been constantly followed by members of the secret police and often suddenly required to produce their papers of identity and then taken to the police stations in order that these papers might be scrutinised. Even children were halted in the street and subjected to interrogation on political questions.

All the arrests were preceded by a thorough search of the arrested persons' dwellings by the police. Arrests have also been made outside Moscow of foreigners having their residences in the Soviet capital. These measures have produced a feeling of great insecurity among foreigners in Moscow, who regard themselves as entirely at the mercy of the Soviet authorities. —Trans-Ocean Service.

CORDIAL EXCHANGE OF TELEGRAMS

Between Colonel Beck And Mr. Eden

London, Yesterday.

In reply to a telegram received from Colonel Beck, in which he expressed his gratitude to His Majesty's Government for the cordial hospitality and the kindly welcome extended to him during his official visit to London, the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, telegraphed: "I am most grateful for your kind telegram, the terms of which I very much appreciate. I believe our discussions have materially helped towards a better understanding between our two countries." —British Wireless Service.

The savage fighting continues at Estepona on the Malaga front. The insurgents are reported to have been driven back by the Militiamen, who are now equipped with field-guns and other modern weapons of foreign manufacture, according to wounded Nationalists brought to the San Roque hospital.

The insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera continues its shuttlecock service across the Straits, bringing Moors and hundreds of boxes of ammunition, which are rushed by train to Ronda, from where they are taken by lorry to the Madrid front. About 10,000 troops have arrived from Ceuta during the last six days. A military officer from Algeciras declares that General Franco requires a further 20,000 to assure a successful entry into the capital.

London: The Spanish Government has ordered a big counter-attack. Reports to this effect from Paris were confirmed by Senor del Vayo, the Foreign Minister, in a telephone conversation with London. The Premier, Senor Largo Caballero, was in Madrid on Thursday night, and it is thought that he is still there. —Reuter.

Madrid: Judging from the small amount of artillery fire on both sides for the past 12 hours it appears that the insurgents' attack has been held up, or perhaps their batteries have been destroyed by the Government planes. The insurgents now appear to be concentrating their best troops on the Toledo road, from where the next thrust is expected.

In the meantime, despite the bombardment which the city has suffered, the morale of the people remains satisfactory. Well-equipped reinforcements have been arriving at the capital from Catalonia. It was categorically denied yesterday that the Government forces have been using gas against the insurgents. —Reuter's Bulletin Service.

LOYALIST SUCCESSES
Madrid: A War Ministry communique with regard to the Government counter-attack says that on the right flank all the objectives were occupied, despite the enemy resistance. It claims that four insurgent planes were brought down in air fights and others hit and forced to retire. Senor Largo Caballero, the Premier, visited the Government positions in Madrid yesterday and conferred with the military staff.

Paris: "Unless unforeseen circumstances occur the Nationalist troops will perhaps have to prepare for a siege of Madrid," stated Captain Aguilas, one of the insurgent General Staff officers, in an interview with the special correspondent of the Paris Soir yesterday. General Franco's original plan, he added, to take the Spanish capital in one grand assault, had had to be modified on account of the stubborn resistance offered in the Madrid suburbs.

IMPORTANT DECREE
Burgos: A decree to prevent the possible disturbance to the Spanish economic system as a result of the rapid exportation of gold by the Madrid Government was issued by the Nationalist Government in Burgos yesterday. Declaring that a demand for the return of the gold will be made, the decree goes on to order that all banknotes must be submitted for special endorsement if they are to retain their value.

The supervisory board of the Bank of Spain, which is sitting at Burgos, declared in an interview that in view of the seizure in Spain by the Madrid Government all banknotes issued after July 19, 1936, are invalid.

BRIDGE NOTES

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A TRUMP END-PLAY

VITAL statistics from all over the world assure us that the mortality rate in civilised parts of the globe is slowly but surely decreasing. Man will soon live to be one hundred years of age and more, we are told, and perhaps will dance a jig on his one-hundredth birthday. Meanwhile, due to the rapid progress which is made by Bridge players toward a fuller understanding of the principles of play, the mortality rate on defensive tricks attains a new high level practically every day. It has become unsafe for any Bridge player to count even a guarded trump honour as a sure winner.

To-day's hand shows how an unwise double of a slam contract led the Declarer to find a means of robbing the doubler of a trick which it seemed that he could not lose. This end was achieved by means of a throw-in play which forced a lead into a trump tenace after all other suits had been stripped from the hands.

The bidding:

3 S Pass 4 S Pass
5 H Pass 6 S Pass

The bidding is very bad in every particular. South was far too weak for an opening two-bid; but when he made this great overbid, North with three spades and 2½ honour-tricks, should practically have forced a slam by bidding four notrump. Instead North was content to reach a game, and left it up to South to make another unwarranted overbid—five hearts, which was an unquestioned slam try. West was even more foolish to double; for he should, if he had played much Contract, have learned before this that his two apparent trump tricks were likely to become only one through the information afforded by his double. If he had not already learned the lesson, then South must have proved a good mentor with his handling of these clubs.

West's opening lead was the club Queen; and the Declarer won this trick with the Ace. When

Local Share Market

Messrs. Harriman's Weekly Report

Messrs. G. A. Harriman & Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon yesterday states:—

The week just passed has provided an exciting one for mining share holders for the Manila market has been subject to very wide fluctuations in rates. For some time past Philippine mining shares have been inclined to ease, but on Tuesday and Wednesday the market dropped with great rapidity and values declined up to 50 per cent. The market staged a remarkable rally during Thursday and this recovery was continued up to Friday's close, bringing quotations back to within about twenty per cent. of those obtaining at the end of last week.

Antamoks fell to P2.90, but close at P3.70. San Mauriclos were at one time as low as P1.60 (and even lower figures were quoted unofficially) but steadied, to close with transactions at P2.85. Baguio fell to 27 centavos and reacted again up to 32 centavos. Consolidated Mines reached 3 centavos, but came back again to 4 centavos. The whole list was subject to very heavy selling, all of which was absorbed (although under such circumstances at lowered rates) which speaks well for the finances of the Manila market. The subsequent strong rally after this "shake-out" put operators in good fettle and a little more disposed, in future, to take profits, rather than to hold on indefinitely, under the illusion that "the sky's the limit."

Hong Kong shares have been rather neglected in view of the speculative activity in gold mining stocks, but a steady undertone prevails and when buyers again take interest, rates should trend upwards. Hong Kong Electric's were dealt in at 53 and Star Ferries at 92 and 92½, closing buyers at the better rate. Trams were sold at 12.50 and China Lights (old) at 14 sellers over. Yumati Ferries are wanted at $25 and Sandakan Lights at $8.90. Wharves made $109 and China Providents (old) $2. Hong Kong Docks can be placed at 14, sellers holding for 14.25. Canton Insurances were placed at $265 and Unions and Banks continue in unenthusiastic demand at $600 and $1675 respectively. Hotels are quiet, either side of $6.10. Lands appear friendless, shares offering at $38.50, without attracting buyers. Raubs are wanted at $12 and New Goldfields at $6.60. Telephones (old) are in good demand near $29 and Cements at $14.5. Ewo Cottons are in better enquiry at $10.76 buyers. Closing tone firm; both in Hong Kong and Manila.

HELENA MAY CONCERT

Fine Programme Rendered

GOOD BEGINNING TO WINTER SEASON

The first concert of the season was given at the Helena May Institute on Friday evening before a disappointingly small audience, who, however, were treated to excellent fare that deserved better support.

The programme was opened by Dr. L. T. Ride (Baritone) who was in good form for his singing of the aria "Mighty Lord and King All Glorious" from Bach's "Christmas Cantata." In the second half of the programme Dr. Ride contributed "Outward Bound" and "Homeward Bound" from the Stanford "Set Songs," both of which were sung with great delicacy and taste. The singer was to have concluded this group with another of the "Sea Songs," but had to cry off on account of a bad throat. This was unfortunate, as he was in good voice and the audience would have welcomed more from him.

Doris Blair (Soprano) made a very welcome contribution to the programme with two groups of songs, sung with every circumstance of skill and discretion. The first two were Strauss's "Morgen" and "Ständchen," which represent the composer at his best in song-writing. "Morgen," especially, is a lovely piece of work and requires exceptionally delicate treatment and control, and they were fully adequately provided by Friday night's soloist. The second group included Coleridge-Taylor's "The Willow Song," "Silkworms," by Alec Rowley, and "The Doll's Song" from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann." Again the soloist's high qualities were evident, and in response to demands for an encore, she gave "A New Umbrella," by Maurice Baisley.

Helen Lockhart

The other vocalist on the programme was Helen Lockhart (Contralto). She is so well known, and deservedly, to Hong Kong audiences and radio listeners that no special commendation is necessary here. Mrs. Lockhart was in fine voice and amply displayed all her purity of tone and genuine artistry in two groups of songs. The first included the aria "O del mio dolce ardor," from Gluck's "Paride ed Elena," and Henschel's lovely "Morning Hymn." The second group consisted of Gretchaninov's "The Dreary Steppe" and Brahms' "Minnelied" and "The Vain Suit." "The Dreary Steppe" is a fine setting in the modern manner, while the "Minnelied" is probably one of the finest love-songs ever written. They were most artistically sung, and Mrs. Lockhart was able to provide a delightful contrast with "The Vain Suit," a light fragment in a distinctly happy style. The singer gave "The Heights of Tatra" by Dvorak as an encore.

All music-lovers in Hong Kong are grateful to Nura Kanis for the pleasure she always provides by her very fine work as a solo pianist. Her sensitive touch and really first-class technique were amply displayed at Friday's concert, when she contributed Liszt's "Concert Study No. 2" in faultless style. She was fully up to all the heavy demands made on her technique by this study, which is

LATEST MURDER IN SHANGHAI

SETTLEMENT POLICE TO TAKE ACTION

ENQUIRY PROMISED BY MAYOR

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.

The Japanese Consul-General at Shanghai went to see Mr. Wu Teh-chen, Mayor of Greater Shanghai, himself yesterday, asking the latter to round up the murderer of the Japanese seaman, Mr. Takase, for him, and the request was accepted by Mr. Wu, who promised that he would order the Chinese police to help in the matter. It is learned that the Japanese Seamen's Union has appealed to Mr. Arita, the Japanese Foreign Minister, to ask the Chinese Government to use effective methods to protect and guarantee the safety of Japanese seamen in China from now on, and Mr. Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador to China, will send a protest to the Chinese Foreign Ministry in connection with the case.

News has reached here that the Japanese bluejackets were still patrolling in Chapel, Hongkew and Yangtszepu yesterday. Both the Shanghai Municipal and the Chinese authorities tried their best to prevent demonstrations by strikers. It is reported that two of the Japanese cotton mills at Shanghai had come to terms with the strikers, and that work had been resumed yesterday, while the rest are still bargaining about the percentage of the increase in wages which is to come into force. It is learned that the employers have promised an increase of 5 per cent., but this is still a long way behind what the strikers demand.

General Yu Hon-mow, Precinct Commissioner of Kwangtung, has announced that the enlistments in the conscription scheme of the second period must be completed within December this year. He has instructed the magistrates of the different districts in the province that all those who are enlisted must come to Canton for training before the end of the year.

NEW GOVERNOR OF KENYA

Sir H. Brooke-Popham Appointed

London, Yesterday.

The Colonial Office announces that H.M. the King has approved the appointment of Air Chief Marshal Sir Henry Brooke-Popham, Principal Air Aide-de-Camp to the King, as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya, in succession to Brigadier-General Sir Joseph Byrne, who will retire from public service towards the end of March on the completion of his term of office.—British Wireless Service.

FAR EAST HEALTH

Calcutta reported 14 cases of cholera during the week ended November 7, and two cases of smallpox. Shanghai and Pnom-Penh also reported three and two cases respectively of the latter disease.

by no means easy to play, and in response to insistent demands for an encore, Mrs. Kanis played Schubert's A Flat "Impromptu" with equal facility.

The accompaniments of the evening were adequately played by Gheorghe Evellie and E. O'Neill Shaw.

If the other concerts of the season attain the same high standard they will be well worth attending, and deserve every support.

TYPEWRITER STOLEN

EURASIAN YOUTH SENTENCED

MACHINE ILLEGALLY PAWNED

Louis White, aged 22, a Eurasian, was yesterday morning sentenced to two months' hard labour by Mr. K. Keon at the Central Magistracy for unlawfully receiving an Underwood portable typewriter which had been stolen from the Christian, Scientist Reading Room, Bank of East Asia Building, on October 24. On the charge of illegally pawning the typewriter he was ordered to pay $30, the amount for which it was pawned, or serve another month.

Mr. G. Stanley Lovett was the complainant and the case was conducted by Detective-Sergeant C. Byron, who stated that the premises had been entered by means of a duplicate key on October 24 and the typewriter and some money stolen. The matter was reported to the Police. On Tuesday the typewriter was traced to a pawn-shop in Wanchai and the master of the shop was instructed to detain the person who had pawned it, should he ever come back to the shop. On the following day defendant went there to pawn some clothing and was arrested.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada Jr. appeared for the defendant, and asked that a lenient view be taken of the case. The machine had been given to him by a friend and, being hard up, he had pawned it. He did not know that it had been stolen.

The defendant, it was stated, was the correspondent of a New York newspaper, and the solicitor felt that the relatives could assist in redeeming the machine.

WHITEHEAD SCORES 108 AND BAKER 93 NOT OUT IN LEAGUE

MCKENZIE BOWLS WELL AT K.C.C. STRANGE & WESTLAKE DEFY CHAMPIONS POLICE SHOW GOOD FORM

TALL scoring featured the Junior League cricket matches yesterday, the Army "B" who beat the Craigengower C.C. by 6 wickets, recording the highest aggregate—211 for 8, to which Cpl. Shipp contributed 71, including 14 boundaries, out of 117, and L/Cpl. Whitley, who hit 10 boundaries, 47 out of 82.

The Army "A" compiled 170 for 2 declared, Bdr. Baker scoring 93 not out and taking part in a first wicket stand of 101 with Sergt. Daniels (45). The Army "C" team were also in scoring mood, rattling up 196 for 9 wickets, Bdr. Whitehead having the distinction of scoring the first League century of the season with 108. W. Stoker, however, bowled well to secure 5 for 54 but the Club were only 6 runs behind with three wickets in hand.

A stand by H.E. Strange (61) and H. F. Westlake (32) for the sixth wicket, which produced 53 runs, failed to set the Junior champions, the I.R.C., a very difficult task and an innings of 56 by A. R. Kitchell resulted in them winning by 2 wickets.

At the Valley the Rectoio were soundly trounced by the Police, for whom A. E. Carey hit up 50 out of 69, including nine boundaries, and W. L. Clarke 54. B. G. Baker (6 for 41) and C. Pope (4 for 41) completed Rectoio's discomfiture. Baker would have returned a better analysis had E. A. R. Alves not hit him for a six before falling an lb.w. victim to him and thus terminating the innings.

W. L. McKenzie, a very promising left-hand spin bowler, who can flight the ball, secured 5 for 18 against the University and was largely responsible for the K.C.C. winning by 8 wickets. C. H. Teoh batted stubbornly for 50, while R. Baldwin also reached the half-century, scored out of 87.

The 160-acre farm of Henry Spies, near Massena, Iowa, like many others, was plagued with drought and a mortgage. Things looked pretty grim until the family organized a dancing team. The various county fairs, earned $50 a day and paid the interest and some of the principal on the mortgage. Here they are in their home-made dancing costumes: left to right, Betty, Georgia, Marjorie, Mary Jane, Cleone, Ada, mother and father and old Dobbin.

KOWLOON STREET SLEEPERS

St. Francis Home To Re-Open

FURTHER ACCOMMODATION REQUIRED

Plans have been made for the re-opening of St. Francis Home for street sleepers, which did such excellent work in Kowloon last winter. This home, which was directed by the members of the Third Order of St. Francis (Catholic laymen), was run on different lines to most of the shelters for street sleepers, for instead of aiming at giving a place to sleep to as large a number as possible, it sought to give good accommodation to a limited number but to establish personal contact with all who come.

From the beginning the facilities afforded by the Home were greatly appreciated by the destitute men who came to it, and after a time it became more like a hostel than a shelter as, for the most part, the same men came regularly. Each night some of the members of the Third Order attended the Home, one of them in turn sleeping there, and after a short time they became very friendly with the men and used to talk with them for a long time every evening. The spontaneous gifts of some who heard of the work made it possible for the home to supply the men also with some food and drink, and on special occasions it was possible to give them a good meal.

Generous Help
The generous help which was given by the people attending the various Catholic Churches in Hong Kong provided the necessary funds for the maintenance of the Home, and the result of the appeal made to them for this purpose was so satisfactory that it is hoped to extend the work this year so that a greater number of men can be accommodated. For this purpose new and more extensive premises will be required, and it is thought that some well-wisher may be able to supply them. If there is any property owner who has vacant premises that can be used for the purpose, or could be adapted to make them suitable, he will confer a very great benefit on the poorest of Hong Kong poor if he puts it at the disposal of the members of the Third Order for the next six months.

The headquarters of the Hong Kong Branch is St. Teresa's Church, Kowloon Tong, where the Secretary will be pleased to receive communications. The telephone number is 59217.

Wreaths were sent from the following:—
"Lo Yuk-chun," "Lily," "Herbert and Rita," "Bennie, Ada, Eric, Gordon and Honor," "His Sorrowing Wife," "His Loving Daughter, Eunice," "His Loving Son, Felix," "His Loving Son, Arthur," "Grannie," Mr. and Mrs. Bolt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Coyle and family, Higgins and Pak Chung, Mr. and Mrs. Leung Hang-kai, Mr. and Mrs. W. Among those who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brown, Mr. G. P. Lamont, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Sleep and Miss Sleep.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Jacobean Room of the Hong Kong Hotel, following which the happy couple proceeded to Repulse Bay Hotel. The honeymoon is to be spent partly at Repulse Bay and sight-seeing in Canton.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Lean among those who were present at the funeral were:—Mr. and Mrs. D. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kinloch, Lt.-Comdr. and Mrs. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mr. J. Dunatt, Mr. Isaac, Mr. O. Brien, Miss May, and Miss Culvert.

OBITUARIES

TWO FUNERALS AT THE VALLEY

MR. A. P. SAMY AND MASTER NORMAN WILSON LEAN

Two funerals took place at the Colonial Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

The first was that of the late Mr. Arthur Poomoo Samy, M.R.S.I., who passed away at his residence, Prospect Place, yesterday morning, at the age of 61 years. The Reverend K. MacKenzie Dow officiated.

The deceased was in his early years articulated with the late Mr. John Lemm, whose practice he later acquired, operating it under his own name. He was of a retiring disposition, but made many friends who admired his sterling character. His wife was his favourite form of exercise.

The chief mourners were Miss Eunice Samy, Mr. Frederick Samy, Mr. Felix Samy, the deceased's daughter and sons respectively, and his son-in-law, Mr. P. Sung.

Among others who attended were the deceased's nephews, Messrs. H. and B. Randall, and Messrs. H. Stanfield, R. Pestonji, Miss Yip Lan-chuen, S. P. Wong, the Rev. H. R. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Coyle, Lee Po-chee, Lam Tak-po, Miss Chan, Mr. J. E. Kotwall, Miss P. Tso, Miss A. Rath, Mr. and Mrs. Yeung Pak-sing, Mr. Johnston Wong, Messrs. E. K. and M. Bolt, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bolt, the Rev. E. Lee, Mrs. Wong See-chun, Mrs. S. W. Phoon and Mr. J. Pestonjee.

From Here And There

Mr. V. R. V. Ribeiro, who is in the Book Office of the Union Insurance Society of Canton, will complete 25 years' service with the firm at the end of this month. Mr. Ribeiro is still hale and hearty, despite anno domini, and is a great lover of dogs.

Mr. A. A. da Roza, more popularly known as Alvaro, the V.R.C. swimmer, celebrated his coming-of-age last Saturday when he gave a very successful party at which a great many of his swimming friends were present.

Mr. A. R. H. Esmail has taken over his father's seat in the Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association and will, therefore, be again taking an active interest in Ice House Street. He is, incidentally, also proprietor of the Import and export firm of Messrs. H. M. H. Esmail and Sons.

Mr. T. F. Wong, the popular Chief Clerk of the Kowloon Canton Railway, will be busy welcoming his many guests on the occasion of his eldest son's marriage next Tuesday.

ANNUAL DRILL DISPLAY Demonstration By Fire Brigade

The Annual Drill Display of the Hong Kong Fire Brigade will take place in the compound of the New No. 2 Police Station, Lockhart Road, Wanchai, commencing at 3 p.m. next Wednesday.

The display will be attended by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Caldecott who have intimated their intention of witnessing the drill. The public, as in previous years, are again invited to attend.

EXPLANATION OF TO-DAY'S CARTOON

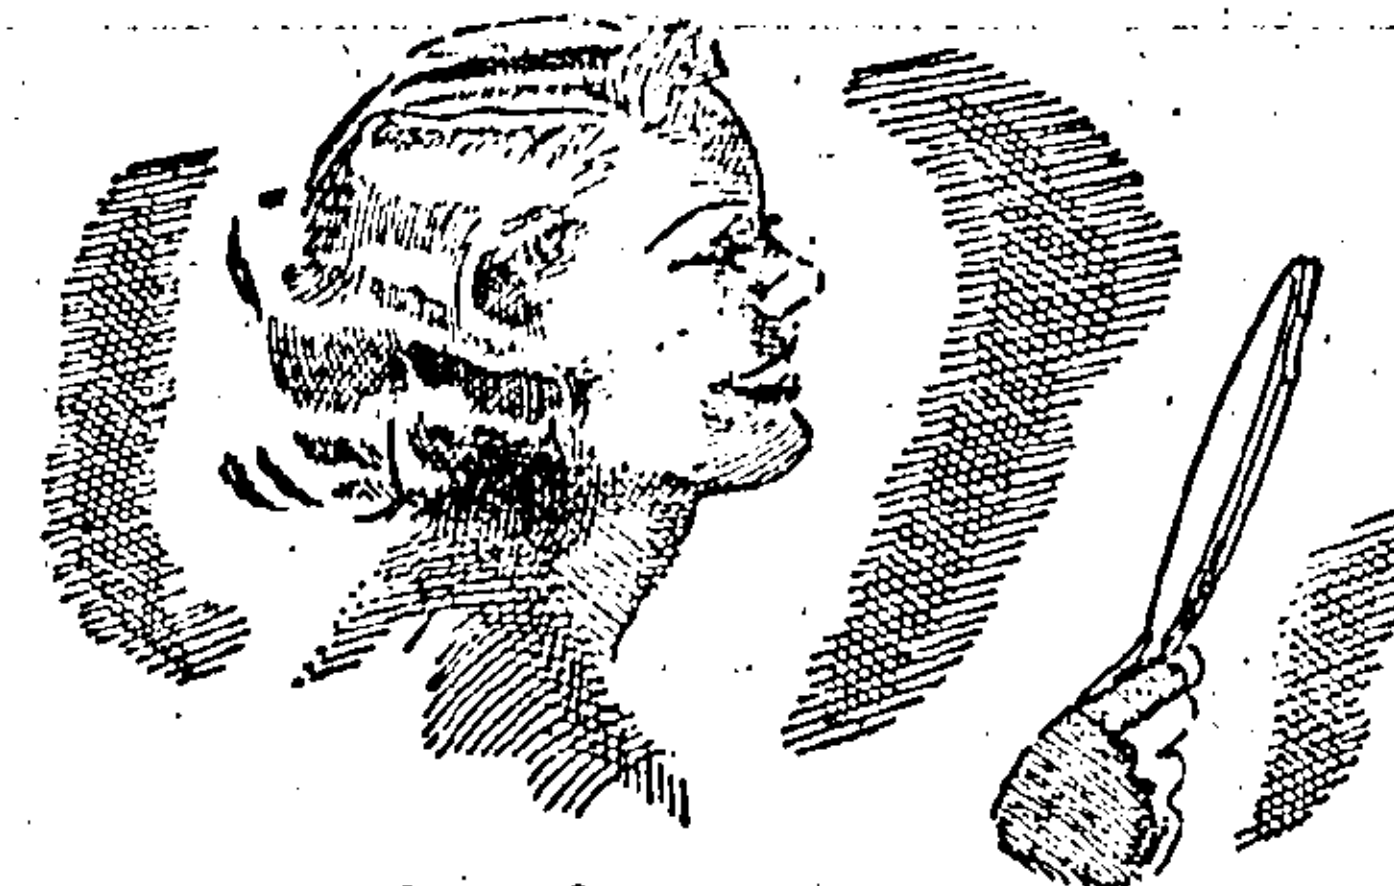

"Physically Unfit" Man
Lived To Be 115

IN his younger days Solomon Rickner was a sturdy, strong man of 220 pounds, yet he was rejected for military service in the Civil War three different times and pronounced physically unfit as a soldier. He was then in his forties. However, Mr. Rickner proved that somebody was wrong. He lived to see his 115th birthday on February 18, 1936, and died three months later at his home in St. Paul, Nebraska. Mr. Rickner's Dutch ancestors were all long-lived people, his father living to the age of 102 and his mother to 99. He attributed his long life to the high cost of living because it forced him to eat only plain, substantial foods.

WE PLOUGH THE FIELDS AND SCATTER

Mineral deficiency

stands between you
and REAL HEALTH

One small defect impairs the efficiency of the most perfect piece of mechanism. And that applies to nature's masterpiece—your body. If the cells are starved ill-health follows. Calcium is the one vital mineral without which the life centre of the body cells would shrivel and die, and Kalzana supplies this element in a form which the system can easily assimilate and retain.

By remedying this deficiency and making the cell-nucleus plump and strong, Kalzana gets right to the root of ill health. Kalzana improves the condition of the blood, strengthens the whole body and supplies the teeth with the elements they need to keep them hard and white and immune from decay. A course of Kalzana quickly gives new strength and vigour—begin yours to-day.

"I am never without Kalzana, not taking them always, but at any time of extra strain, and when there are colds and other infections about."

HOUSING ONE'S CAR

Filipino Legislator
Solves Problem

The ideal automobile prospect has been found! In the Philippines, a motor-car salesman has reported that a prominent Filipino legislator considers the Lincoln-Zephyr to be the only car on the market for his purposes.

It so happens that the approach to his house is so narrow that there is insufficient room for a large car to enter his garage. The legislator has accordingly decided to sell his present house and buy another house with better garage facilities, so he can have room for his Lincoln-Zephyr!

The nurse pressed her finger tips on Annie's stiff wrist. Touched her forehead, ever so gently. "Her pulse is better," she whispered. "The fever is dropping, too. There's a chance, after all—if she can only fall asleep naturally." Beneath her stiff white cap the eyes of the nurse brightened with hope.

The shining head rested against the gray one on Annie's pillow. The smooth cheek touched the wrinkled one.

Mrs. Martin and I stood motionless as the nurse flashed on us a glance that was almost a promise.

Annie's breath came evenly, now. The lines relaxed in her worn face. Gently, serenely, the eyelids closed. Her voice softened with contentment and peace.

"I think I'll go to sleep," and thank you...for bringing my baby...he's always been such a comfort..."

COUGHS-COLDS 'FLU' and RHEUMATISM

REPORTS to hand indicate a wave of Coughs, Colds, and Influenza. Many people are away from business. How to prevent a serious attack and keep going is the question of the moment. The safe and sure method for quick relief is 'ASPRO'. It smashes up an attack in one night and nips developments in the bud. 'ASPRO' is equally effective for Sore Throat—Sciatica—Neuralgia—Rheumatism—and it speedily reduces feverish temperatures. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe. It does not harm the heart or the stomach. Always take 'ASPRO' according to the directions in the packet.

'ASPRO' RELIEVES IN ONE NIGHT

'ASPRO' Much Better Than Other Tablets

MOE, Victoria

Dear Sirs,
We use a lot of 'ASPRO' in our home and find it splendid for Headaches, Colds, and Influenza. My husband, who is a Returned Soldier, gets wonderful relief with 'ASPRO' from attacks of nerves. I really do not know what we would do without 'ASPRO', so you may be sure it is always in our home.

'ASPRO' is much better than other tablets which look like 'ASPRO', and they give such quick relief without upsetting the stomach or leaving behind any harmful after-effects.

I cannot praise 'ASPRO' too highly, because I have always found it can be relied upon to give relief quickly.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) E. A. BLISS.

Could Not Walk or Use Hands — Read What 'ASPRO' Did!

Orient, Rawson Street,
Woy Woy, N.S.W., 2313/32.

Dear Sirs,
I am writing to you to tell you how thankful I am to 'ASPRO'. It is the only thing that has done me any good. I had tried everything, and was in hospital for months, and came home no better. I could not walk or use my hands, and now I can write, and anyone can see how I can walk. I thank the Lord and your 'ASPRO' Tablets. I take one in the morning, and I am here for anyone to see what a good advertisement I am for you.

I am asked by everyone what I have taken, and tell them what 'ASPRO' has done for me. I would not be without it. Before I started to take 'ASPRO' Tablets I had to be lifted up and down, and anyone here can tell you what a different woman I am today.

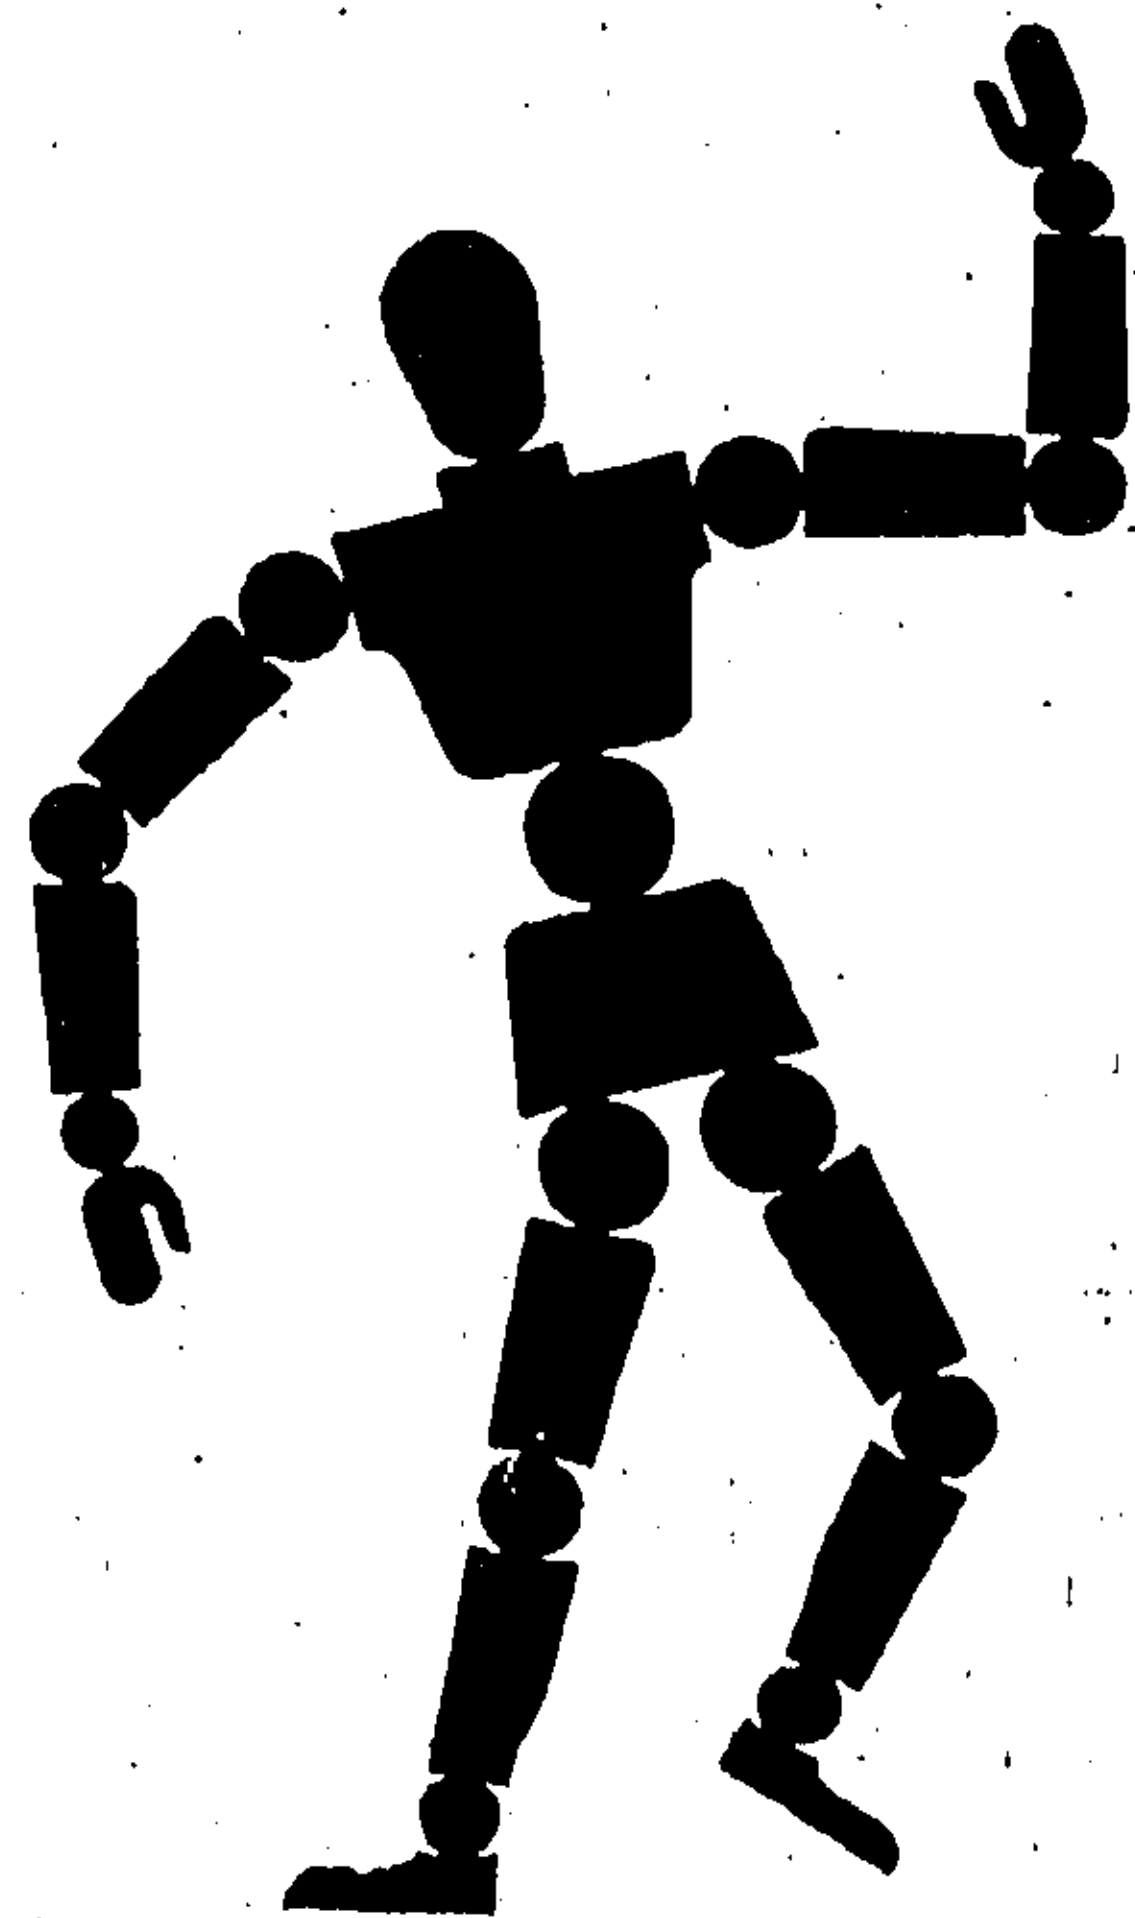

Yours truly,

MANOEUVRES IN THE NORTH

Staged By 29th Army

Peiping, Yesterday. The 29th Army under General Sung Chieh-yuan to-day staged manoeuvres in the Tientsin-Peiping Area. Over 5,000 soldiers are taking part in the manoeuvres, which will last over the week-end.

General Sung stayed overnight at camp last night and returned to Peiping this morning. About 800 students of Tsing Hun University brought food and drink as an encouragement to the soldiers and also camped near the military.

Several high Japanese staff officers witnessed the manoeuvres as the guests of General Sung.—Union News.

PROHIBITION OF GAMBLING

Firm Steps Taken In Canton

Canton, Yesterday. "We order you to destroy all gambling paraphernalia within one week from to-day," warned policemen who went to convey the message from house to house this afternoon.

If the gambling implements are not destroyed or removed from premises by next Saturday, the possessors of such goods will be punished as if they were engaged in gambling. The provincial authorities are determined to wipe out gambling in Canton absolutely.—Union News.

MUSICAL VISIT TO GERMANY

Beecham And The L.P.O.

London, Yesterday. The first concert of the German tour of Sir Thomas Beecham and the London Philharmonic Orchestra in Berlin last night coincided with the close of the short but successful visit to London of the Dresden State Opera Orchestra, which has provided one of the most interesting features of the present season. The invitation to visit Germany was extended to Sir Thomas at the suggestion of the German Ambassador, Herr von Ribbentrop, and at last night's Berlin concert Chancellor Herr Hitler and other members of the Government were among the distinguished audience, which included representatives of the official, diplomatic, social and musical circles of Berlin. During the interval of the British Ambassador and Lady Phipps visited Herr Hitler's box.

The British orchestra will also play in Dresden, Leipzig, Munich, Ludwigshafen, Frankfurt and Cologne.—British Wireless Service.

BOMBS VERSUS BATTLESHIPS

change Britain's historic attitude to the sea or confidence in the fleet as the arm upon which the country depended for food, raw materials and imperial solidarity.

They declared that the capital ship must remain; that no ship was less likely to be destroyed than a heavy battleship; and that no air force could replace the navy. But a system of the closest co-operation must be worked between our Navy and Air Force for ensuring the greatest practicable measure of security in the essential areas of narrow seas, naval bases and civil harbours.

For this purpose it would be necessary for the fleet to make the fullest possible use of ship-borne aircraft, and it would be necessary for the Air Force to be strong enough to give effective assistance with its land-based machines. It was sea power that created the British Empire and in doing so established the greatest area of internal peace the world had ever seen. It was the very foundation of the Imperial structure, and though details had varied the fundamentals remained the same. The British Commonwealth, here and overseas, depended for its highways on the ocean.—British Wireless Service.

Mr. J. E. Henry, former Manager for Renton, Ltd. in the Colony, who has until recently been in charge of the Manila office, is back again in the Colony. He is to be transferred to the Canton Office.

Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, is here shown in the procession that preceded the pontifical high mass that marked the celebration of the 25th anniversary of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City. The Cardinal, on a month's vacation, remained silent regarding the activities of the Detroit radio priest, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin.

SHARE MARKET REPORT

Prices More Or Less Nominal

The following report has been submitted to us by Mr. C. A. L. Rickett, Secretary of the H.K. Sharebrokers' Association:—

The Local Market has remained quiet during the week and prices have given way in sympathy with the setback experienced in the Manila mining section towards the middle of the week. At the close there was a lull in trading with prices more or less nominal. Wharves were done at $109/$110, and China Lights at $13.80. Cements were offering at $11 1/4 and Providents (old) at $2. Banks were in demand at $1.675, with no shares offering. Trams were done at $12 and Electrics at $62 1/2/$53.

The Philippine Gold Mining section opened quietly with an inclination towards lower price levels. Later owing to a "bear" manipulation of the market in Manila, prices experienced a serious setback, but subsequent action taken by the Manila Stock Exchange restored the confidence of those speculators who had been inclined to panic and there was a sharp recovery. A steadier undertone is evident at the close. It is interesting to note the drop in some of the prices last Wednesday in comparison with the year and yesterday's closing rates.

PETITION TO THE GOVERNMENT

Heavy Licence Fees For Restaurants

The owners of Chinese restaurants in Hong Kong have written to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, asking that organisation to approach the Government on their behalf for a reduction of their licence fees, in view of the business depression. It is stated that in the case of some of the larger establishments these fees amount to $8,000 a year. Following consideration of the matter, the Chamber has decided that a representative will call upon the Hon. the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, carrying a petition in the sense requested.

It will be remembered that the To To Sin Koon, one of the oldest and best-known restaurants in the Colony, has lately had to close down, owing to the prevailing difficult business conditions. It was well patronised by foreign residents of the Colony in its time.

FIREMAN INJURED DURING PRACTICE

While engaged in a practice drill in connection with the forthcoming annual drill display of the Hong Kong Fire Brigade, a fireman, Cheung Yoo, attached to the Mong Kok Fire Station, fell from the drill tower in the compound of No. 2 Police Station and sustained injuries which necessitated his admission to the Government Civil Hospital.

CANADIAN CHINESE HOLD DANCE

Annual Function Well Attended

ROSE ROOM CROWDED

The Canadian Chinese Club held their annual dinner and dance at the Peninsula Hotel last night when the Rose Room was packed to capacity. Mr. George Chow, president of the Club, presided at the dinner and proposed the loyal toast.

Major Ducloux, the Canadian Trade Commissioner, proposed the toast of the Club, while that of the Chinese Republic was given by Mr. J. R. Paton, of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

Dancing was indulged in up till 2.30 a.m., a special launch bringing the Hong Kong residents across the harbour. Earlier in the evening the pupils of Miss Violet Capell treated the gathering to two dance numbers—the gypsy and jazz dances, Miss Ethel Banker being at the piano.

Those Present
Amongst those present were Miss Nora Lum, vice-president of the Club, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rosset, Mr. and Mrs. G. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Amps, Dr. and Mrs. Basato, Mr. and Mrs. D. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Paton, Mr. and Mrs. D. Walker, Dr. Li Shu-fan and party, Mr. Lyman Kwan and party, Mr. W. S. Ing, Miss Phyllis Ing, Mr. L. Aitree, Miss B. Allen, Mr. J. Smedley, Miss Joan Lakeman and many others.

R. A. A. DANCE

Well-Attended Function

In furtherance of its objects, the Royal Artillery Association, Hong Kong Branch, held another function when its first dance was held last night at Hotel Cecil, being attended by over 200 persons.

The music was supplied by the band of the Royal Artillery Rifles, by kind permission of Major H. McL. Morrison and Officers.

The hall was tastefully decorated and the Royal Artillery crest bearing the motto "Ubique" was displayed prominently at the entrance. The duties of Masters of Ceremonies were ably carried out by Messrs. Tronham and Percival.

CARNIVAL BALL

Successful Function At Hotel Cecil

The monthly dance for November of the R.A.M.C. Association took the form of a grand carnival ball held successfully at the Hotel Cecil last Friday night, with Sergt-Major A. A. Barton acting as M. C.

The very well arranged decoration at the hotel entrance and precincts included a beautiful red cross, which brightly illuminated the passage up to the lift—a sign reminding of the proud and honourable profession of the members. In spite of the occasion falling on a Friday night, almost all the members and their guests, numbering over 150 couples, attended the function. The dance orchestra of the Royal Artillery Rifles was in attendance, by kind permission of Mayor H. McL. Morrison M. C. and Officers. Among those present were:—Col. H. H. Blake O.B.E., Lt.-Colonel & Mrs. S. D. Reid, Capt. & Mrs. Denning, Major & Mrs. Eccles, Lt.-Colonel W. D. Arthur.

C.C.C. WHIST DRIVE

At the fortnightly whist drive of the Craigavon Cricket Club held last night, Mrs. Dowar, Mrs. Tribble and Mrs. Mitchell won the ladies' prizes. The gentlemen's prizes were secured by Messrs. H. Willon, Sykes and Scott.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Caldecott attended the 7.20 p.m. performance at the Queen's Theatre yesterday when the film "Mary of Scotland" starring Katharine Hepburn and Fredric March, was shown on the screen.

Mr. H. S. Whitehead, who was formerly on the staff of the "Sunday Herald," left the Colony yesterday for Saigon and Singapore.

H. M. Scott-Eames, Mrs. and Miss Turner, Mr. E. Tyson, Mrs. C. R. Updell, Mr. C. H. Unbehauen and Mr. Young.

In the intermediate line Mrs. Stoppard, brought from the forward line in place of Mrs. Wighan, played a good game, while Mrs. Price and Mrs. Jones on her flanks hit well, but both were at fault in their marking.

Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Pepper were seen in some nice movements in the latter parts of the game and the former was always well up with the forwards, her two goals, scored in the first half, were the result of following up. Mrs. Hill led the line well, but her passes to the wingers in the first half often found them in an off-side position. Mrs. Flemming and Mrs. Dandy, on the right wing, combined well, the latter sending over some good centres. The former played in the pivotal position in the second half and was then prominent for her distribution of the ball.

Disheartened Early
The first goal seemed to dishearten the Central British ladies and they did not play so well as in the opening minutes. Miss G. MacNider was hard working in the centre-half berth, while the forwards relied too much on the short-passing game instead of utilising their wingers more.

Mrs. Marvin scored both the Fullers' goals in the first half and in the second Mrs. Hill scored from a pass from Mrs. Pepper.

C.B.A. Ladies:—Miss P. Macfadyen; Miss E. Clewe; Miss M. McAlpine; Miss G. MacNider and Miss I. Buchanan; Miss N. Kempton; Miss J. Lines; Miss K. Finch; Mrs. B. Stoker and Miss O. Smith.

R.W.F. Ladies:—Mrs. Choley; Mrs. Cowan and Mrs. Kidgell; Mrs. G. Jones, Mrs. Stoppard and Mrs. Price; Mrs. Dandy, Mrs. Fleming; Mrs. Hills, Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Pepper.

RIFLES' LADIES BEAT "Y"

The Royal Ulster Rifles' Ladies proved too good for the "Y" Ladies on the "Y" ground yesterday, winning by 4 goals to 1 after holding a 2-1 lead at the interval.

The winners started off with a rush and almost scored in the opening minutes, only being beaten back by a determined defence. It was due more to their superior teamwork than anything else that the Rifles' Ladies carried the day. All the "Y" Ladies played well individually, but they lacked combination. Their centre-forward, Miss J. Lakeman, was outstanding, but she was not properly supported by the other forwards, and had she been given more of the ball the result might have been very different. As it was she scored the only goal for the losers, and from a very difficult angle.

Mrs. Kerr placed the Rifles' Ladies in the lead after the game had been in progress for about 15 minutes and shortly after this they went further ahead when Miss E. Haman netted with a hard drive. The teams changed over with no further scoring, but almost immediately after the resumption Mrs. Elwood scored the third goal for the winners, only to see Miss Lakeman reduce the lead with a very fine shot. That, however, proved the only goal the "Y" could score. Just before the end, however, Miss E. Haman added the fourth goal for the winners.

"Y" Ladies:—Miss J. Weller; Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Slater; Mrs. McLean, Miss K. Tonge, Miss F. Fowler; Miss L. Murray, Miss B. Bloom, Miss J. Lakeman, Miss P. George, and Miss J. Stry.

Rifles' Ladies:—Mrs. Osborne; Mrs. Ratcliffe; Mrs. Downey; Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Hole, Miss W. Haman; Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Campbell, Miss E. Haman, Mrs. Elwood and Mrs. McNeelan.

H.K. LADIES SUCCEEDED

After having suffered a heavy defeat at the hands of the C.B.S. "A" last week, the Hong Kong Ladies recorded their first win when they beat the Central British School "B" team at the Valley by the only goal scored.

Departures By "Taiping"

The following passengers left by J. Godden, Mr. W. R. Huntsman, Mr. A. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Larkin, Miss M. T. MacFarlane, Mrs. McMillan and Nurse (Miss Koppie), Mrs. G. Miles, Miss N. CATALONIA NEXT

A Real War Of Independence

Barcelona, Yesterday. The whole of Catalonia is preparing for the coming war with General Franco's troops, which for Catalonia will not be only a chapter of the revolution but a real war of independence.

It is expected that if and when Madrid is taken General Franco will next attempt the conquest of the last and most strategic point of resistance; but close students of the situation think that unless General Franco is aided by a foreign army Catalonia will remain impregnable, especially in view of the formidable defence of the hilly country around the capital.—Router's Bulletin Service.

INFERNO OF DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

During the afternoon 14 Nationalist planes succeeded in reaching a spot above the centre of the capital before the Reds' defence fleet could be brought into action. But 16 Red planes were soon visible on the horizon and within a few minutes a desperate struggle for the mastery of the air began. Two Red planes were put out of action almost immediately, hit by machine-gun fire. The battle lasted an hour. The thunder of the powerful motors booming continuously away in concert often drowned the cracking of the guns and the tap-tap-tap of the machine-guns.

GUNS OF NO AVAIL
The Red anti-aircraft guns were of little use, as the rapid movements of all the planes made it impossible to fire from the ground without hitting friend and foe alike.

Countless thousands of spectators watched the fight breathlessly from the streets of Madrid, apparently oblivious of or apathetic to their danger from falling planes or spent bullets.

Immediately recognising that they were unequal to their opponents the Red airmen withdrew, making good their retreat by taking refuge in a bank of clouds.

RED TANK EXPLODES
From the other fronts the news of yesterday's operations was of lesser interest, except for one incident at the blown-up Segovia Bridge, where a Red tank hit by an anti-tank gun of the Nationalists exploded, taking fire and burning to complete destruction.

In his usual evening broadcast report General de Llano pointed out that it would be a very simple matter for General Franco to get possession of Madrid if he were not determined to spare the civil population as much as possible. All he would need to do would be to cut off Madrid's water-supply, as Lake Lozoya is in the Nationalists' hands.—Trans-Ocean Service.

CZECH AID FOR REDS
Warsaw: According to a report in the Krakauer Illustrierter Kurier war material has been loaded at a Czechoslovakian Danube port on to the steamers Oznecel Stepanik and Masaryk, destined to pass via the Black Sea and the Mediterranean to Spain, for the use of the Red army.—Trans-Ocean Service.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE
A prominent private medical practitioner, whose name for obvious reasons cannot be disclosed, informed us that he had advised all his patients to abstain from eating all uncooked food and to avoid salads and vegetables, adding that if everybody did that and made an effort to keep away the flies, he did not think there was any need to fear a serious epidemic.

"Face" Principle In China Ingrained Sense Of Dignity Dramatic Struggle Between Two Forces

(By PHYLLIS JURY)

TO keep or to lose face. We are obliged to translate it literally from the Chinese, for the attitude is so complex, impossible to translate it by the one word "prestige," because it is not merely a feeling of superiority one individual wishes to impose upon another; it becomes a dramatic struggle between two forces, a creation of antagonism. And in China this has a great importance, is, in fact, the first characteristic of the Chinese. Even foreigners feel it vaguely, but none explain it well. They feel, even among their servants, that there is always an effort to keep a sense of dignity; they see how in a simple street fight a climax is reached as the audience gathers, the motives of the participants are completely forgotten and the only interest is in the struggle for face: who will be more subtle, more clever? who will manage the more effectively to extricate himself? And in this attitude is a primitive power. Certainly the Chinese have always had a very clever control over the primitive feelings; a control that has been practised by the entire people from times of great antiquity. If these forces are to be let free, the emotions allowed full play, it must be done cleverly and in artistic manner, it must be linked with the dramatic, the theatrical. And where does this very special importance of face come from? For in China everything is explained; nothing is vague but our conception.

This takes us back to the Yin dynasty, 1766-1122 B.C.—a dynasty that nearly ended with King Wu Yi, a king without virtue, who aimed arrows at Heaven, or rather at a leather bottle full of blood which he called Heaven. The struggle began by a game. Wu Yi made a doll representing a human being and named it the God of Heaven, and with it he played the "Game of the Tablet" (a stone of five colours, similar to a quail's egg was called a tablet; this stone was used to worship the Hundred Gods). Whatever the bet was, the King wanted supremacy over the world, and the God lost the game. The winner scoffed at the loser and made a bag of ox-skin, filling it with blood. He hung it up and shot arrows at it, saying he was shooting Heaven.

Sacred Bird

A bag such as this was called Hun-tun, but though it had the appearance of a bag it was a sacred Bird with six claws, four wings, but no face or eyes. It was supposed to live on the Heavenly mountain, a mountain rich in metal. Hun-tun, we are told, received with ceremony two guests, Chou and Hou, and they wished to return his hospitality. Now Hun-tun, in reality Chaos, had none of seven apertures which, by giving a man a face, allow him to breathe, hear, see and eat. Chou and Hou thus set about piercing an aperture a day. On the seventh day Hun-tun died. He had ceased to be himself. The mythical operation had caused a second birth, face had been given, respectability, prestige, all that constitutes a personality.

Another myth tells us that Chaos (Hun-tun) was pierced by the lightning seven times and died. But again his death is really a second birth, an initiation. Formerly, with no apertures, he was personified only as a stupid busybody. He had "neither visage, nor eyes," that is to say he lacked face, or prestige.

The human being is defined by the seven apertures of his face, of which the most important are the eyes. One gives life to an idol by opening its eyes; this was done by drawing points and piercing them on a tablet; to prick the tablet is to give it life, as eyes and apertures constitute the face. Chaos became a being when the seven apertures of his face had been opened; this was the initiation or second birth. The tablet is made and points are pricked in it at the time of the second funeral, when the dead is born to the after life, when he becomes an Ancestor.

The soul of the ancestor, it is said, is wandering; masks were thus made to retain it. The mask placed over the face meant a continued possession of the soul: it was fixed and kept. The first masks were used in the ancient Dance of the Twelve Animals, before all a dance to the worship of the ancestors; they were worn, too, when one wished to drive away the pestilences. Again, it is said: "Confucius had a face similar to the mask of an exorcist." This comparison drawn between the face of an inspired sage and the mask of a sorcerer shows the idea there was of "possession;" all was retained behind his masklike face. A story is told that the mask originated in the state of Pak Tsai in the Chi dynasty. The Emperor Hai Tung Wang was brave and martial, but his face was tender and beautiful as a woman's. Thus he thought he had not enough majesty to go against his enemy. He had a mask carved (a new face that would give him the majesty he felt himself deprived of), and this he wore to battle.

This attitude of keeping face goes back, perhaps, to the ancient festivals when the two choruses of young men and young women, opposed, advanced to meet each other. Still strangers to each other they stood face to face, the actors, observed of a whole assembly; the good repute of a whole family depended upon their demeanour. They sang, not so much concerned by the artistry of their creation, but trying, by clever use of the popular proverbs, to show the superiority of the one group over the other. Always there was a sort of antagonism: each side tried to sense the other, to adapt themselves, but at the same time to show themselves the superior. The arrows of opposed armies crossed each other in the air. Each side in turn flashes its reply: no sooner does it return to the first side than it is flung back, to be again returned; and this goes on till the game ends. It was a duel in which one side tried the other: only by trying to excel the other were they in the end united.

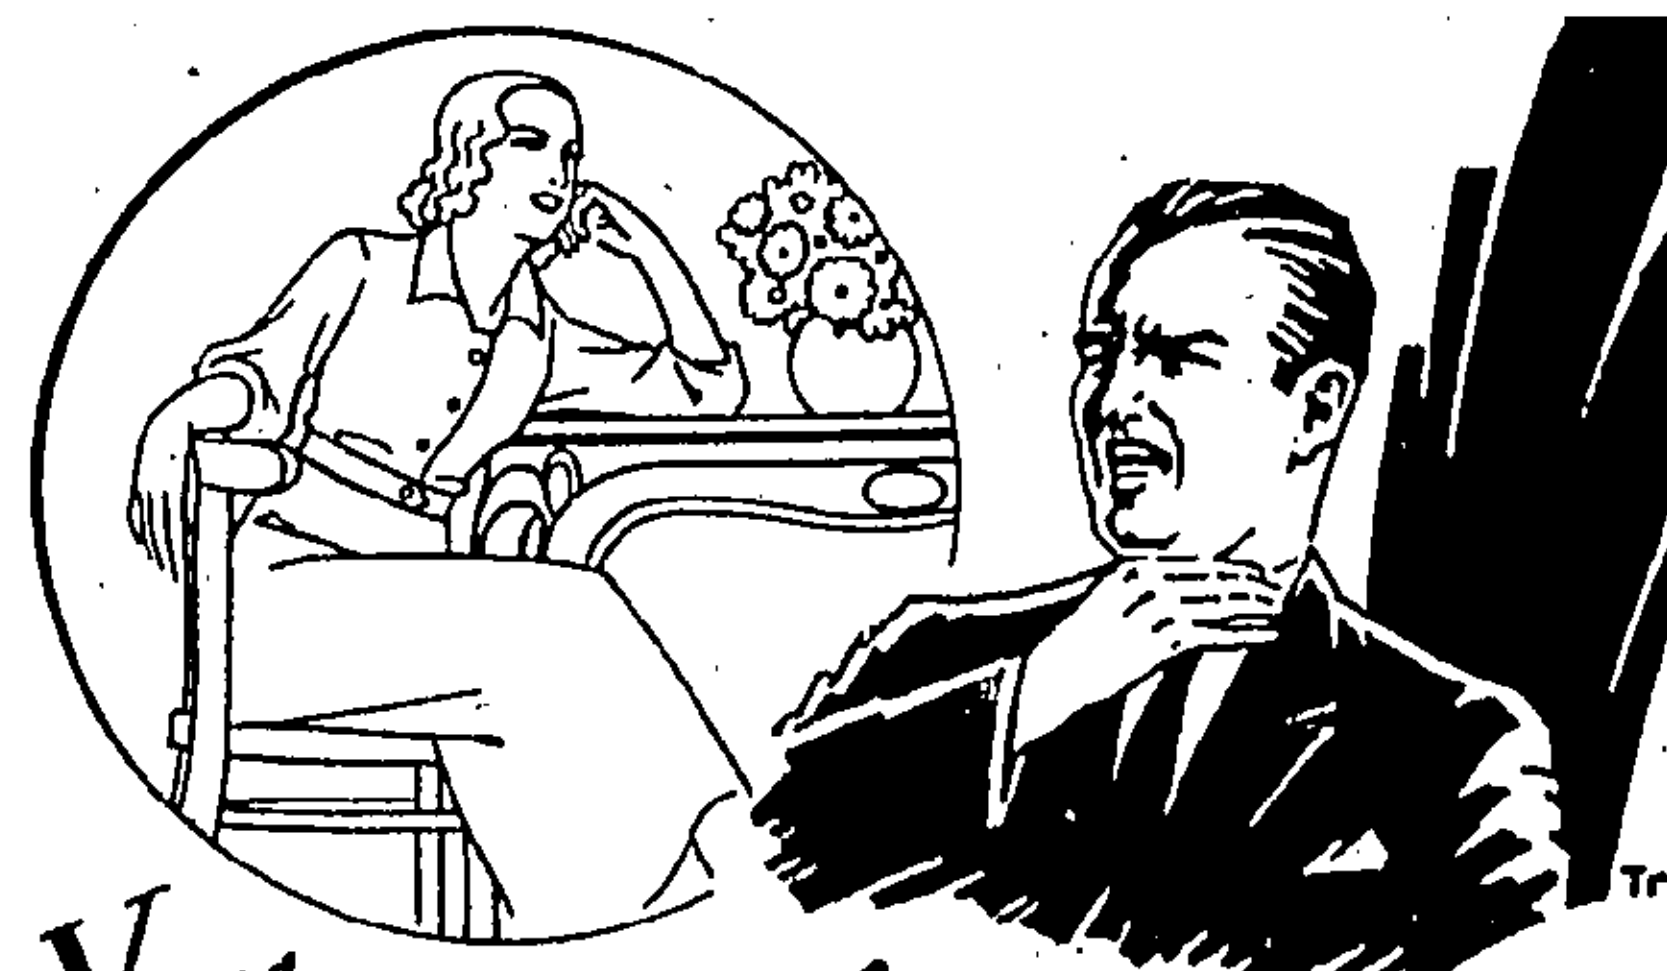

There is a story in the Tso Chuan, the Annals of Spring and Autumn, which illustrates how the face of a family was saved. At Ch'in and at Chin reign rival families. They exchange their grain and their children. But Duke Mu of Ch'in takes prisoner Duke Hual, the prince of Chin, in battle (644 B.C.). He treats him as captive and leads him in triumph. He lodges him in the tower Ling, the dwelling of prisoners destined for sacrifice, and orders preparatory purifications. But the wife of Duke Mu is Hual's sister. She climbs straightway into another tower, that of condemned women. She shuts herself up in it and her children follow her. A messenger, clad in mourning, goes to carry to her husband the threat of a collective suicide. The conqueror is obliged to renounce the triumph which he intended to celebrate, and return to the old customs. He confines himself to restoring the old alliance of the rival countries in an equalising banquet, and the vanquished is neither sacrificed nor eaten like a Barbarian. He is invited to share with the conqueror a banquet of seven bullocks, seven sheep and seven pigs. The old order is respected and face is saved.

And another tale, as amusing as it is illuminating: The Prince has received a magnificent present from a friendly overlord: a great marine tortoise. A vassal who appears at Court feels his index finger (the finger with which one eats) twitching. "Whenever that has happened to me," he says, "I have always eaten some marvellous food." But the prince, informed of the fact, and vexed that the vassal should think himself in advance sure of having his share in the feast, abstains from inviting him to the table. The vassal, offended, dips his finger in the cauldron, sucks it and goes out. From that moment the prince has in mind to kill his follower, and the follower to kill the prince. The communion has been broken between them, each has lost face.

OUR PARIS LETTER

BOY MEETS GIRL IN NEW STYLES

SWALLOW TAIL JACKETS

Paris.
BOY meets girl in the new Paris fashions for autumn and winter 1936-37, and this meeting makes the big romance of the clothes shown by the dressmakers.

The "boy" element in the styles comes chiefly from cavalier days in the 18th century. There are handsome, virile jackets from this epoch in all the collections, like Leslie Howard wore in "The Scarlet Pimpernel." They make jackets for daytime suits, they make fur coats and gorgeous brocade wraps for evening. Blouses wear the lace jabots of the cavaliers of the revolution, and fancy vests abound on the scene of fashions.

Second in the "boy" list is the swallow-tail, of which I have told you before in these columns. It is a star turn in the Paris shows, and such grand houses as Vionnet and Paquin make it an outstanding part of their suit and ensemble styles.

Napoleon's hat is back in style, but for the women only. The tricorne of the cavalier is in, too, but veiled and feminine.

Top hats for ladies come on the stage with swallow-tails, but with draperies instead of brims. Suit skirts are narrow as trousers, when they pair off with cutaway and cavalier jackets.

Heavy Gold Watch Chains

Among Mannish Details

Mannish details in the shows include heavy gold watch chains stretched across vests in Maggy Rouff's collection, purse pockets in Rochas' show, and pants plaited pressed into skirts in the Paquin collection.

Short sports coats like the boulevardier of Paris wore before.

the war, coachman coats with encolets for daytime, and double breasted marine rector coats for evening in glamorous velvet come in with the new boyish clothes.

Laubin proposes knickers for sports and Rochas continues to put trouser stripes on skirts.

Jean Patou Ensemble Is Truly Feminine in Spirit

A Jean Patou afternoon ensemble is an extreme in girlish spirit and one of the smartest of the Autumn fashions from Paris.

The black satin broadcloth coat has a silver fox collar that begins at the back of the sleeves and ties around the waistline on a broadcloth sash. There it almost meets two bands of silver fox placed up the side-front of the flaring coat skirt.

Creed's swallow-tail evening suit is made of mannish dull, black broadcloth. The jacket is a faithful reproduction of a man's formal evening suit. Such deviation as there is will be found in the black ottoman revers and the buttoned back "tails," the one on the right side housing a fancy white chiffon handkerchief. A white lace jabot fills in the neckline.

Maggy Rouff's 18th century waistcoat of white ermine makes the jacket of an evening suit. The slender black skirt is made of velvet with a split to the knees at the left side.

The blouse pretends to be a cavalier waistcoat, but is a halter blouse of black chiffon with exquisitely worked shirred bands and a black tulle jabot.

CHRISTMAS CAKE BAKED NOW HAS CHANCE TO AGE

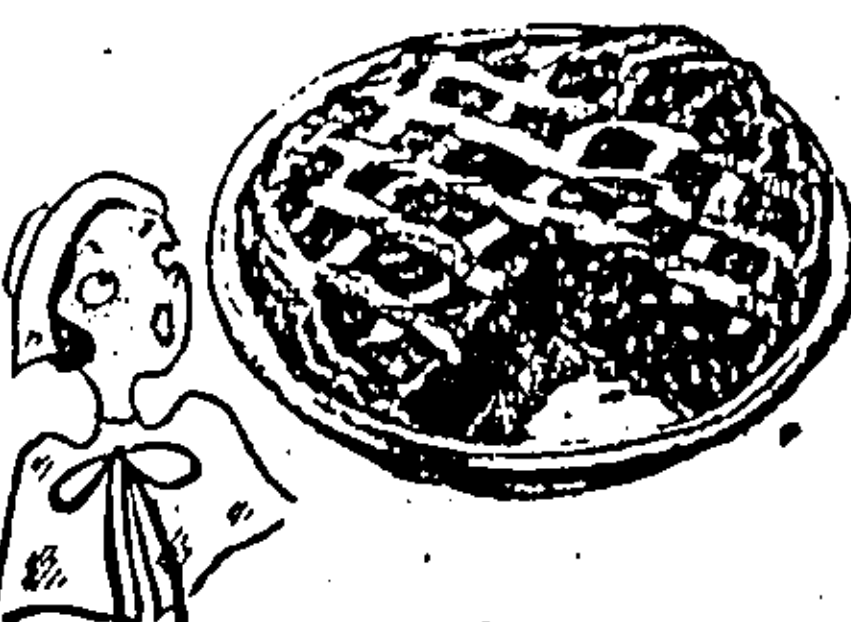

FRUIT cakes which have been allowed plenty of time to ripen and to grow rich and mellow are nice gifts for friends and make more festive the holiday harkside. Now is a good time to mix fruit cakes and tuck them away in tins to age and grow more flavourful awaiting the Christmas season.

The old English fruit cake recipe given here is rich and spicy. The fruit is prepared one day and allowed to stand overnight in brandy and bitters to develop flavour. The next day the other ingredients are mixed and everything is combined.

Old English Christmas Fruit Cake

Part I

- 1 pound seeded raisins
- 1 pound currants

- 10 ounces stoned dates
- 1/4 pound figs
- 1/4 pound citron
- 1 pound blanched almonds
- 1/4 pound candied cherries
- 1/4 pound candied pineapple
- 1/4 pound candied orange peel
- 1/4 pound candied lemon peel
- 1/2 cup brandy
- 1/2 cup Angostura bitters

Wash and drain the raisins and currants. Put raisins through food chopper. Cut up dates, figs, citron, pineapple, and cherries. Cut the almonds into coarse slivers, and slice the lemon and orange peel thinly. Pour the brandy and bitters over the fruit mixture and let stand overnight.

Part II

- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cloves

- 1/2 teaspoon mace
- 1 tablespoon nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- Few grains cayenne pepper

Sift the flour and mix and sift the other dry ingredients with it. Sift the mixture over the prepared fruit. Mix the fruit through the flour with the finger tips.

Part III

- 2 cups butter
- 2 1/2 cups brown sugar
- 7 eggs
- 1 cup black coffee
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1 cup dark jelly

Cream the butter and add the sugar gradually, mixing thoroughly. Add the well beaten eggs, then the coffee and molasses. Blend well. Mix in the jelly thoroughly. Stir the fruit and flour mixture into the butter and sugar combination, and blend altogether thoroughly. If a little more flour is needed to hold the mixture together, it may be sifted in at this time.

Line oiled cake tins with a layer of oiled brown wrapping paper and an inner layer of oiled waxed paper. Pile the batter lightly upon this waxed paper. Bake the cakes in a very slow oven [250.275 degrees. F.] for four hours.

IT IS DONE LIKE THIS.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 2 cups Simpson's Self-Raising Flour | 1/4 cup "Royal Blue" Cleaned Currants |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1/4 cup milk |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 1 egg, well beaten |
| 1/4 cup melted butter | 1/2 teaspoon vanilla essence |

Sift the flour and salt into a mixing bowl. Add the currants. Beat the egg until stiff and light coloured, add the sugar and beat until dissolved. Add milk, melted butter and vanilla essence. Stir into the dry ingredients till a soft dough is formed. Place batter in a well-greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Wrap in a dry cloth to cool. Store overnight before slicing for loaf cannot be cut in thin, even slices when it is too fresh. Serve spread thinly with butter.

When you use Simpson's Self-Raising Flour you are on level terms with the leading chefs, for they can use no finer flour — and even they cannot surpass the results you get from Simpson's Self-Raising Flour. Cakes, pies, pastry and breads — are all made golden and good with Simpson's. Made in Australia from the world's finest wheat, scientifically milled, blended and packed, completely untouched by human hands.

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.

The Secretary-General of the League of Nations, M. Joseph Avenol, announce the morning papers here from Geneva, will visit Paris and London next week in order to confer with the French and British Foreign Ministers. It is assumed that the subject of the conversations will be Signor Mussolini's last speech, insofar as this affects the League of Nations. Besides this M. Avenol wants to discuss the reform of the League of Nations.
Officially, however, the object of M. Avenol's visit to England is to deliver certain addresses in the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge and to receive an honorary Doctor's degree which Oxford wishes to confer upon him.—Trans-Ocean Service.

GREAT UNEASINESS IN SUIYUAN

The latter is a city in the extreme north of Shansi Province, next to the former. If they can capture these two cities, they will go west from Pingtichuen to invade Kweisui, the capital of Suiyuan, and will at the same time go south from Taitung to capture the north of Shansi Province.

REINFORCEMENTS SENT

It is reliably learned that Marshal Yen Sik-sen, Vice-Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission and concurrently Pacification Commissioner of Shansi, has already sent his troops to reinforce the Suiyuan troops on the north-eastern fronts, and to strengthen the northern defence of Shansi. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is now ready to send 20 divisions of his troops to Honan (south of Shansi) and Shensi (south of Suiyuan) to engage the invaders and at the same time to suppress the bandits on the frontiers of Chahar and Suiyuan Provinces and Inner Mongolia. The Generalissimo is at present in Loyang, in the centre of Honan Province, so that he can look after the Suiyuan and Shansi affairs in the north, and the Hopei and Shantung affairs in the east.

Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, will leave Kwangsi en route to Nanking. Mr. Sun will bring with him the requests of the Kwangsi leaders with regard to the recommendations of the divisional commanders by Generals Li Chung-jen and Pei Chung-hsi in the 5th Route Army of General Li, the draft of General Pei's national defence policy in Kwangsi, and the recommendations as to the currency and civil rehabilitation problems of the province to the Central Government for approval.

Peiping, Yesterday.—Aeroplane continue to scout over the Chinese lines in Eastern Suiyuan, but otherwise the situation is quiet. Travellers arriving from Pingtichuan categorically deny the widespread report that bombs were dropped on the Chinese lines from the air yesterday morning.—Reuter.

the officers and cadets of the Loyang branch of the National Military Academy yesterday, declared that their extermination is essential for national reconstruction, according to reports reaching here.

The recent completion of a striking step forward in the history of China, the Generalissimo asserted, and the country now has confidence in its programme of self-salvation. The prospects before the Chinese races, he asserted, are bright.

With this bright future in sight, General Chiang exhorted the soldiers and people in general must redouble their efforts to rebuild the nation. For both the individual and the State, prosperity depends solely on the spirit of self-reliance and independence, he declared, and if the whole nation unites in this spirit the desired national reconstruction will be certain.

In conclusion, the Generalissimo asserted that the road to reconstruction and prosperity lies open, and he voiced the desire that the entire nation will unite in striving for the liberty to independence of China.

CHINA STANDS READY
Shanghai: General Yen Hsi-shan, Vice-Chairman of the National Military Council and Shanghai Pacification Commissioner, declared to the press yesterday that the Nanking Government is determined to repel any armed invasion, even if life must be sacrificed.

The reputed leader of the anti-Japanese operations in the North further declared that the alleged humiliating position of a weak-

SIX WICKETS IN HAND

Sydney, Yesterday.

New South Wales, with six second innings wickets in hand, are 242 runs ahead of the M.C.C. as the result of the second day's play in their four-day encounter.

Resuming their innings before 20,000 people at 1 for 0, the M.C.C. collapsed sensationally before Mudge, losing their last seven wickets for 68 runs in 46 minutes. They actually lost five wickets for 18 runs in half an hour! The tourists, who were 79 for 2 at lunch and 103 for 4 at one period, were dismissed for 153.

Mudge, practically an unknown player, had the following very fine bowling figures:—

O. M. R. W.
12 3 42 6

In scoring 70, Barnett batted for 143 minutes, hitting eight boundaries. Hammond, who had previously scored four centuries in as many matches, was stumped by W. A. Oldfield off Mudge for 39, while G. O. Allen, the English skipper, was out first ball.

Commencing their second innings with a lead of 120 runs, New South Wales had scored 122 for 4 before bad light caused play to be abandoned for the day.

Scores, as cabled by Reuter, were as follows:

N.S.W.: 273 (S. J. McCabe 83, Robinson 91, Hammond 5 for 39, G. O. Allen 2 for 45, Copson 1 for 71, Sims 2 for 73, Worthington 0 for 31) and 122 for 4.

M.C.C.: 153 (Barnett 70, Hammond 39, G. O. Allen 0, Mudge 6 for 42, Hyman 0 for 19, White 1 for 18, McGilvray 0 for 19, W. J. O'Reilly 3 for 53).

ESCOBAR RETAINS HIS TITLE

Bout Over In First Round: 12 Arrests!

New York, Yesterday.

Sixto Escobar, world bantam-weight boxing champion, retained his title here last night when he knocked out Indian Quintana, from Panama, after 1 minute 39 seconds in the first round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

After the fight the police invaded the gallery and arrested twelve persons who endeavoured to carry on the evening's hostilities with drawn knives.—Reuter.

Power taken by the Chinese authorities in past international negotiations had only added to the enmity of the Chinese nation toward the other country.

General Yen said that the recent series of conferences with General Chiang Kai-shek had fully convinced him that China has made remarkable progress in various fields of administration.

"Although the National Government has been endeavouring to save the country by peaceful means," he declared, "it is firmly resolved to resist, at the risk of death, any armed invasion and to safeguard the territorial integrity of China."—Union News.
